High Rise On Fill Is Not Liked

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A $25 million high-rise development proposed on 15 acres of fill in Richardson Bay should be rejected by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, its staff strongly recommended yesterday.

The project would not be in accord with the commission's adopted master plan for the bay, which states that a "substantial protion" of such a project must be built on existing land, the commission was told by its executive director, Joseph E. Bodovitz of Mill Valley.

Also, the eight-acre legoon in the project would "use property not owned by the applicant, thus an important part of the proposal could not be carried out unless a public agency were to acquire the property for a lagoon and devote it to this use," Bodovitz reported.

If the commission granted a fill permit to the developers, Sausalito Associates, the action "would establish an open season on Richardson Bay, with each owner expecting to receive the same fill permission as that granted to the present applicant," Bodovitz told the commission.

The commission, as is its policy, postponed a vote on the application for the fill to 2 p.m. on April 17. Approval would require 13 "yes" votes from the 27-member commission.

The vote previously was set for April 18, but commissioners voted yesterday to change their regular second monthly meeting from the third Friday to the third Thursday. The first monthly meeting remained the first Thursday.

The place of the April 17 meeting is to be announced.

Bodovitz also presented a staff proposal that Richardson Bay property owners pool their land, instead of seeking to develop it piecemeal on the basis of the present fragmented ownership.

"The appearance of Richardson Bay as a body of water is now quite fragile," Bodovitz said, adding that the staff proposal "does not permit as much filling as some of the owners would like, but permits more filling than many members of the public would like."

Discussion of the staff alternative, however, was cut short when chairman Melvin B. Lane of Menlo Park ruled it irrelevant to the hearing on the application by Sausalito Associates.

The attorney for the applicants, however, Albert

Nixon Eases Curb On Foreign Trade

Replaces Three LBJ Diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon moving to redeem one of his campaign pledges, ordered today an easing of restrictions on investment by U.S. companies in their affiliates abroad.

The Commerce Department said the revised rules, effective retroactively to Jan. 1, are designed to permit $3.4 billion in investment in overseas subsidiaries this year instead of the previously announced 1969 target figure of $2.95 billion.

The foreign direct investment controls were slapped on last year by the Johnson administration to cut down the amount of capital flowing out of the country.

During the presidential campaign, Nixon promised that the controls would be removed as soon as possible.

CUTBACK TOO STIFF

The office of foreign direct investments, the special Commerce Department agency created last year to run the program, said the controls cut foreign direct investment by U.S. businessmen last year from $3.7 billion to $1.5 billion. The Johnson administration's goal was a $1 billion cutback.

One of the principal changes announced by the Nixon administration is a raising of the minimum investment quota from $200,000—last year's base—to $1 million. Companies whose capital outflows for foreign investment are below the minimum are exempt from regulation under the program.

Nixon announced today in Key Biscayne, Fla., he will nominate veteran diplomats to be ambassadors to Hungary and Turkey.

Alfred Puhan, 56, a government employee since 1942, will go to Budapest, succeeding Martin J. Hillenbrand who has become assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

EX-LBJ AIDE

Robert W. Komer, a close adviser to former President Lyndon B. Johnson on Vietnam policy, has resigned as ambassador to Turkey and will be replaced by William J. Handley, 50, a foreign service officer since 1944.

TO COOL INFLATION

Federal Reserve Interest Raised

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board, in another action to curtail inflation, has reduced the amount of available money and increased the interest rates banks must pay to borrow money from the board.

Leading bankers and brokers viewed the board's action as another indication of the government's determination to cool the nation's overheated economy.

They declined to speculate whether there will be a rise in the prime rate—the interest banks charge their biggest and most trustworthy customers—which went up to a record 7.5 per cent two weeks ago.

Effective today the board raised the discount rate from 5.5 per cent to 6 per cent, the highest in 40 years. The discount rate is the interest charged by the Federal Reserve on loans to its 6,000 members banks. This in turn affects the interest banks charge their customers.

In another board action announced in Washington yesterday, it ordered the banks to increase the level of reserve requirements they must hold in their vaults or on deposit with Federal Reserve banks.

The order, effective April 17, will idle an additional $650 million. That will be a painful obligation for the banks to meet since it will mean cutting down the volume of their loans by an even greater amount. Banks normally are able to lend several times the amount of their cash reserves.

"The double-edged move was specifically designed for the doubting Thomases who could not believe that the Federal Reserve intended to see through its stated policy of slowing down the economy," said Don Conlan, vice president of Chemical Bank of New York.

"It will have more psychological whammy than actual effect," he added.

Civic Center March Pays King Tribute

A group of 30 county employees sang "We Shall Overcome" and marched through the hallways of the Marin Civic Center today in memory of Martin Luther King Jr. who was assassinated a year ago.

Twenty-nine women and one man, most of them employees in the Department of Public Social Services, were led by Mrs. Iniece Bailey, an eligibility worker in the department.

After the March, Mrs. Bailey asked the group to work for Reverend King's dream of equality for all.

"As we look around us, at what is happening in Chicago and San Francisco, we wonder how much of his dream has come true," she said. "We should look at all people as human beings, not as groups or races."

Some of the words of "We Shall Overcome" were changed to apply to the late Dr. King. "He will march with us today," the group sang. "They can't take his soul away. Martin Luther King is here today. Deep in our hearts we do believe. We shall overcome some day."

ANNIVERSARY OF SLAYING

Chicago Violence Casts Cloud On Tributes To Late Dr. King

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Only a few hours after President Nixon had called upon Americans to honor King by "rededicating ourselves to the principles of justice and nonviolence," and Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, King's successor in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), pleaded for calm, Negro youths went on a rampage of violence and vandalism in Chicago last night.

At least 79 persons were injured and 234 arrested as gangs of youths roamed the city's West Side, attacking buses and motorists, smashing car and store windows, looting some businesses. Sporadic gunfire was reported.

Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie ordered a 7,276-man force of soldiers into Chicago and flew to the city to appeal to parents of the youths to "cool it, if you know what I mean." Mayor Richard Daley imposed a 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew on persons under 21 years of age.

There also was violence in Kalamazoo, Mich., yesterday when a dispute over memorial ceremonies for King boiled into rock throwing at a high school and in downtown Kalamazoo. Windows were smashed and one car overturned.

A few fires were set and windows smashed in Washington, D.C., but the capitol was relatively quiet. Police arrested 40 youths.

Arriving in Memphis, Tenn., last night to lead a memorial march of an expected 18,000 persons in the city where King was slain one year ago today, Abernathy called the Chicago Violence "most unfortunate."

"We cannot pay tribute to an American who taught nonviolence by participating in violence," said Abernathy, who set up his headquarters in the Lorraine Motel where King was felled by a sniper as he stood on a balcony.

The admitted killer, James Earl Ray, is serving a 99-year sentence at the Tennessee State Prison in Nashville. Warden Lake Russell said he would keep "a few more people on duty inside the prison" today as a precautionary move against possible demonstrations outside the 12-foot high walls. As for Ray, he was to receive further classification tests today to determine his disposition within the prison system.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass yesterday praised King and said the organizers of his assassination remain sheltered by American justice.

Tass, commenting that "terror and violence are permanent attributes of American society," said Americans "hated Doctor King with a purple passion and with good reasons.

"King was the sponsor of mass actions. He stirred to action the most downtrodden sections of the Negro population in the South and worked for the unity of all Negro organizations."

King's widow, Coretta, said

Hayakawa Sees A Calmer College

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, appeared at the University of Oregon today amid increased security precautions and said he thinks a tide of revolution was stemmed during months of strife at his California school.

He told a news conference that things at San Francisco State have calmed down at the superficial level.

He said he thought his college was a testing ground on the part of revolutionaries to see how far they could go, and he declared:

"We have stemmed the tide of revolution."

But, he added, we may have passed it on to other places. He said there will be more disturbances at other campuses.

Sirhan's Guilty Plea Talk Called 'Genuine'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan, whose chances of going to the gas chamber seem more remote each day, once declared he wanted to plead guilty and get the "damn thing" over, a psychiatrist testified today.

The probability the 25-year-old Arab defendant would not receive the death penalty was enhanced when even the prosecution's own psychiatrist said his life should be spared because of mental illness.

Dr. Seymour Pollack, under further cross-examination at today's half-day session, revealed Sirhan told him in his cell that he wanted to plead guilty. The court then recessed until Monday.

"He said he wanted to get through with the whole damn thing," Pollack said. "He wanted through with the psychiatrists buzzing him. He wanted out. He wanted to plead guilty. He said he had enough."

The doctor said it was the same sort of outburst Sirhan had displayed in open court when he told the judge he wanted to plead guilty and go to the gas chamber.

"Do you think he was faking?" Cooper asked.

"No, it was genuine. He wasn't doing it for effect. He wasn't putting on a show for me, and I don't think he was putting on a show for the jury at his outburst here."

Cooper asked whether he considered that "normal behavior" and the psychiatrist agreed it was not, but added it did not change his opinion of Sirhan's ability to premeditate Kennedy's killing.

Cooper wound up the cross-

Spanish Vessel Begins Visit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The four-masted schooner Juan Sebastian Elcano, a Spanish Navy training vessel, arrived here today for a five-day visit during which the public is invited aboard.

The 300-foot Elcano, built in 1927 and modernized in the mid-1950s, carries an auxiliary 1,500-horsepower diesel engine. It has been around the world three times and sailed more than a half million miles.

Cmdr. Alvaro Fontanals Baron, captain of a crew of 300, was to receive a commemorative scroll from Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke late today at Pier 17N.

The Elcano previously visited Los Angeles and Monterey and will leave here Wednesday for a visit in San Diego.

Soviet Jets Fly Close To Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP) — A flight of eight to 10 Soviet jet bombers flew to within 65 miles of the northwest coast of Alaska Tuesday, Pentagon sources disclosed today.

The Soviet aircraft, described as TU16 Badgers, did not penetrate North American air space, it was said, but veered away and returned toward the Soviet Union.

Jerusalem Pilgrims Trace Sad Walk

JERUSALEM (AP) — A gray drizzle drenched the walls of the Holy City this Good Friday as 1,000 Christian pilgrims trudged along the route tradition says Christ walked to his death almost 2,000 years ago.

The Easter ceremony was one of peace and solemnity as the throng of devout wound along the Via Dolorosa — Street of Sorrow — to the Church of the Holy Sepulchure, which tradition holds is the site of Christ's tomb. Black-robed monks and nuns, modestly clothed pilgrims and wizened fathers with their children walked along the cobbled road, many of them sobbing.

They paused at each of the seven Stations of the Cross, including where Jesus fell, where he saw his mother, where He addressed the daughters of Jerusalem.

The tiny dusty shrines, flecked by tears of rain, were almost unnoticeable among the candy, trinket and soft drink shops.

Moslems sat along the route, impassively puffing on nargila pipes.

Arab, German, Swedish and Spanish delegations, each carrying a cross the height of a man, converged on the 400-year-old church scarred by a scaffolding and a crane as it undergoes renovation.

White-capped Israeli police mingled with the crowd. One Arab guerrilla organization had warned it would not be responsible for the pilgrims' safety, but no incidents were reported.

It was the second Easter in the Holy City under Israeli rule, and its passes peacefully.

But attendance was thinned by the absence of pilgrims from Arab countries.

Chanting hymns to the Virgin Mary and her Son, the procession, led by Irminio Roncari, acting custodian of the Holy Land, reached the sacred church as a blaze of sunshine burst through the grim rain clouds.

Prayers were held inside the dark, musty basilica. Then the pilgrims began preparing for the evening service, in which a doll is nailed to a cross to commemorate the crucifixion.

6 Months, $4,000 Fine For Thoresen

WILLIAM E. THORESEN
Free on $10,000 bail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Illinois steel heir William E. Thoresen III, who collected 77 tons of guns and ammunition for which he paid $500,000, has been dealt a six-month prison term and $4,000 fine for interstate shipment of firearms.

He and his wife, who also was fined $4,000 for her part in helping amassing the collection, had asked U. S. District Judge William Goodwin for leniency before the sentencing yesterday.

The two who claimed they were well off but no longer wealthy, announced they would appeal the sentences. Thoresen was freed on $10,000 bail, his wife on $2,500 bail. They live in Phoenix, Ariz.

They were indicted two years ago after federal agents uncovered the caches of munitions at their Pacific Heights mansion in San Francisco and in East Bay storage houses.

When the judge asked Thoresen if he had any comment before sentencing, he stammered, wrung his hands and finally said he didn't know he was acting illegally.

After the sentencing, Thoresen appeared relieved. His wife smiled and declined comment. Both are 31. In addition to the jail term, Thoresen was placed on 9½ years' probation. His wife got three years' probation. Thoresen reportedly told acquaintenances he inherited $70 million from a trust.

He and his speech therapist wife were arrested 10 years ago for stealing six color photographs from a ferry terminal in Bar Harbor, Maine. He was convicted and received two years' probation.

Their attorneys had asked Goodwin to consider that the couple had no ulterior motive in the munitions collecting.

The point was conceded by U. S. Atty. Cecil Poole, who said exhaustive investigations showed the couple "had no evil in mind."

After Thoresen was convicted last month in Fresno on charges of transporting two antitank guns from New York to Alameda, Calif., Thoresen said he was switching hobbies to model trains.

Mrs. Thoresen was convicted of aiding and abetting the transport of 20,400 rounds of .45-caliber ammunition from Tucson, Ariz., to Oakland.

24 Die In 'Worst' Viet Crash

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied headquarters today listed 24 U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers dead and 53 injured in the worst helicopter crash of the Vietnam War. The nationwide Communist offensive dropped to its lowest level of intensity.

The war's costliest copter mishap occurred Wednesday in South Vietnam's far northwest corner when a CH47 Chinook lifting the Allied soldiers from a combat sweep snagged a tree and plummeted to earth, the announcement said.

AMERICAN TROOPERS

One of the dead and four of the wounded were American troopers. The other casualties were the South Vietnamese irregulars they had led as part of Operation Maine Crag, aimed at blocking Communist supply roads into the area from Laos.

Military spokesmen said the helicopter went down 10 miles south-southeast of the Marines' old Khe Sanh combat base. There were no reports that it was shot down by Communist ground fire, although the North Vietnamese in that area reportedly have antiaircraft guns.

GROUND ATTACK

Not far from the crash site today, U.S. Marines beat off a ground attack by 130 Communists and reported killing 15 of them. Two Leathernecks died in the fight before dawn, according to military reports from the scene.

In Saigon, headquarters reported 10 overnight Communist salvos into cities and military camps—the fewest since the nationwide offensive began 41 days ago. But there was no indication that the drive was over.

The command said U.S. and South Vietnamese troops patrolling southwest of Saigon had killed 99 guerrillas yesterday in five battles, one of them 16 miles from the city. One American was wounded in the clashes, while government losses were five killed, 10 wounded.

Pope Removes Ring To Fast And Mourn

POPE PAUL VI
'Schismatic ferment'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Deeply saddened by the strife inside his Church, Pope Paul VI fasted today with millions of other Catholics to mourn the crucified Christ.

The Pope removed the ring of his office as a sign of mourning for the death of Christ to redeem mankind. The bells of Rome's 500 churches will remain silent and altars stay bare until tomorrow night.

The 71-year-old pontiff was taking part in two major services in Rome—the "Dry Mass" in the Rome Basilica of St. Mary Major and a torchlit Way of the Cross procession in the shadow of the Colosseum.

CHURCH DISARRAY

So far during his Holy Week addresses, Pope Paul has made major pronouncements on the disarray in the Roman Catholic Church. He has severely condemned several developments which followed the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

He spoke out during a general audience Wednesday against priests who are "crucifying the Church," by refusing to submit to authority, or by quitting to marry.

On Thursday, he went farther and deplored "a practically schismatic ferment" tormenting his church.

It was the first time the Pope used such strong words to describe the rebellion by many laymen, priests and bishops against Church policies on birth control, priestly celibacy and papal authority.

SAD MOOD

In a rhetorical question he asked whether "we, too, have schisms, rifts such as those which are painfully denounced by St. Paul in his letter to the Corinthians?"

His mood of sadness and disillusion was clear, as he finished his 20-minute address in a rough, halting voice before an audience of 8,000 in Rome's St. John Lateran Basilica.

The Good Friday ceremony in St. Mary Major Basilica is called a "Dry Mass" because for the only time during the year it does not include the consecration of the bread and wine, which symbolizes Christ's flesh and blood.

At a courtroom news conference yesterday, Crockett defended as "legal, proper and moral" his action — which has been heatedly attacked by the police.

Crockett, a Negro, set the 100 free when he learned that some of them had been subjected to nitrate tests to determine whether they had fired guns. He said the police had failed to advise them first of their right to consult a lawyer.

Crockett declared that if he had "ignored my judicial and constitutional responsibilities, justice would have been denied."

Judge Orders Hearing In Cargo Fuss

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—West Coast longshoremen have been ordered by a federal judge to show cause why their union should not be held in contempt of court for refusing to handle containerized cargo.

U.S. Dist. Judge Robert Peckham set a hearing for Monday on a complaint by the Pacific Maritime Association (PMA) that the longshoremen were still refusing to load containerized cargo — despite having been ordered to do so by Peckham last Monday.

If found guilty of civil contempt, the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) and its leaders would become liable for fines and compensation of shipping losses estimated as high as $1 million a day.

Peckham ordered 22 union leaded business agents to appear at the hearing Monday. The 22 were men the PMA claimed were identified on the docks as seen telling longshoremen not to handle containerized cargo.

The PMA, which represents shipowners and dock firms, said it would file affidavits proving the union had refused to handle containers at the ports of Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mamie Back In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to the capital today on the same private train that carried her husband's body to Kansas and said she intends to return to their home near Gettysburg, Pa.

Lt. Col. Maurice Shahrabani, deputy information officer for the Military District of Washington, said Mrs. Eisenhower had told him she would return to Gettysburg, but said her long-range plans were indefinite.

The special train backed slowly into Washington's Union Station at 7:55 a.m., 30 hours after it left Abilene, Kan., where Eisenhower, who died last Friday, was buried Wednesday.

Nearly an hour after the train arrived, Mrs. Eisenhower stepped from the rear platform of the silver car to greet the military personnel who escorted her from Abilene.

Then, dressed in black but smiling, she kissed a few of the waiting civilians, apparently old friends or relatives.

Then she got into a black limousine waiting a few feet from the train and was gone.

Mrs. Eisenhower's grandson, David, and his wife, the former Julie Nixon, preceded her from the train.

Czech Journalists Deny Charge Of Brewing Unrest

PRAGUE (UPI)—The Union of Czech Journalists today rejected Communist Party claims mass media was responsible for anti-Soviet outbreaks that prompted Moscow to impose new restrictions on the population.

The journalists said the newly imposed press censorship would bring "a serious weakening" of the people's confidence in the government.

In a resolution passed by the union presidium and published today, the journalists supported the party leadership in its present crisis with the Soviet Union but did not support the censorship program imposed Wednesday at Soviet insistence.

Blaming "antisocialist" sentiment and the news media for supporting it, the Communist leadership Wednesday cracked down following anti-Soviet demonstrations triggered by a Czechoslovak hockey victory last Friday over the Soviet team.

"To lump together all the unsolved problems and to put blame from them at the door of the mass media would be to knowingly and one-sidedly simplify the whole problem of the society," the journalists' resolution said.

The imposition of new censorship "is a step which...creates the opportunity for a return to a serious weakening of the contact of the press, radio and television with millions of citizens in a dialogue which is the expression of mutual confidence between the people and their leadership," it said.

For the second straight day, President Ludvik Svoboda and other top government officials visited military bases of the Czechoslovak army, which pledged its support to putting down any further "antisocialist" outbreaks.

Communist Party leader Alexander Dubcek said yesterday that the country was at its gravest crisis since the Soviet bloc invasion last August.

Children will paint the fence behind the mall and there will be prizes awarded in various categories. Each youngster will be given four paint brushes, four different colors of paint, a painter's cap and a section of fence to work on, reported Joni Feldman, mall promotion supervisor.

Judging will be from 4 to 4:30 p.m. by Don Timoteo School officials.

Sebastopol Bank Merger Opposed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The federal government has filed antitrust action to stop the merger of Crocker-Citizens Bank with the Bank of Sonoma County, in Sebastopol.

The complaint, filed yesterday by the antitrust division of the Department of Justice, said the banks entered into an agreement Sept. 17, 1968, to merge and that the proposed merger was approved by the controller of the currency March 6, 1969.

The suit said that the merger would lessen competition and create a monopoly in the Santa Rosa-Sebastopol area.

"Sonoma bank will be elimated as an independent competitive factor, thus reducing the number of banking alternatives from 11 to 10 in Sonoma County and 8 to 7 in the Santa Rosa-Sebastopol area," the suit said.

Candidates' Night Hour Is Advanced

The candidates night session sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce will be at 7:45 p.m. next Wednesday.

Three candidates for mayor and eight for city council in San Rafael are scheduled to speak. The Independent-Journal Wednesday listed the starting time at 8 p.m.

LOOTING IN CHICAGO — A gang of youths—some of them carrying bricks as weapons—removes produce from a truck trapped on Chicago's Near North Side. The area was clamped under National Guard control last night, and a curfew imposed on residents under 21 in violence linked with the anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. (AP Wirephoto)

she would observe the anniversary quietly in Atlanta. "My children and I will visit the cemetery and then return home for the day," she said, adding she would not participate in any public memorials or functions.

President Richard M. Nixon sent a personal letter to Mrs. King in the hands of HEW Secretary Robert Finch, who talked with her for 45 minutes.

She said she "personally endorsed" the efforts of Abernathy, who was to lead 18,000 persons on a march to the Memphis City Hall for a two-hour rally featuring civil rights dignitaries and nationally-known entertainers. Police said they expected no trouble, and Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington asked citizens of his state to "reflect on the tragic event... and rededicate themselves to the ideal of living together in a peaceful and productive society."

Abernathy was to go to Montgomery, Ala., tomorrow for services in King's old church. About 300 persons were to make a symbolic march today from Selma, Ala., where King began his voting rights march to Montgomery four years ago.

A "memorial vigil" was planned for Times Square in New York City, and other observances were scheduled in Washington, Philadelphia, San Francisco, New Orleans, Detroit, Houston, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Little Rock, Boston, Minneapolis and Atlanta.

Students at Eastern Washington State College in Cheney, Wash., said they would re-enact King's funeral. "The only thing missing will be King's body," said program leader Al Sims.

At Southern University in teachers man picket lines while New Orleans, students said they would help some 800 city taking a "black holiday" in memory of King.

A "national citywide tag day" will be held in Philadelphia tomorrow to raise funds with contributors receiving a tag bearing King's silhouette and the words, "I gave."

In Boston, the Roxbury Businessmen's Association will dedicate a loan guarantee fund in King's memory. Its purpose is "a pooling of black financial resources to achieve economic security," said association president Emanuel Eaves.

Ban On Shellfish Still In Effect

A ban on taking shellfish from Richardson Bay because of gross sewage contamination is still in effect, county health authorities reminded Marin County residents today.

The ban was imposed Feb. 27 after state bacteriological tests indicated contamination of clams and other edible shellfish as a result of raw sewage being dumped into the bay.

Eating the contaminated shellfish, health officials warned, could result in typhoid, infectious hepatitis, salmonella or similar diseases.

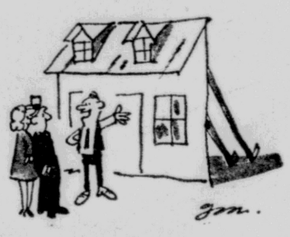
LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Sellers Ruled Guilty Of Fraud



Bill and Mary Sharp, handy fixer-uppers, owned a five-room house with a big basement. They re-did it into a four room apartment, and rented it.

Later Bill and Mary sold the Joneses the house for $20,000. A few years later the health department ordered the Joneses not to rent the basement apartment.

The Sharps replied that they did not know they needed a health department or building permit, and that they had hired a carpenter to help them, and thought he would get the needed permits to list their place as a multiple dwelling.

The court held the Sharps liable to the Joneses for misrepresentation. There was fraud.

The way the Sharps listed their property as one with rental income, and their implied knowledge of building permits showed they were saying, in effect that their house was suitable for rental as two units.

The victim of a fraudulent statement of fact may hold the other person liable for his losses.

The law expects you to know or find out about the law. The seller of a drugstore said his area was zoned to keep out another drugstore. But it was not. In a lawsuit the buyer got nothing since he could have checked out the law for himself.

But a person who claims to be an expert on law or real property may have the courts treat his statements as facts. If he lies, he is liable to the person he has injured.

Such statements do not include obvious "bragging" or "puffing." People can "puff" their property or goods. They can claim that it will go up in price, that rentals are low and should go up, or that the house or car is as sturdy as Mount Rocky. No one in his right mind should rely on such statements alone. He should check them out himself.

To say the tires are new, or the water heater holds 50 gallons, or the coat is all mink, these are all statements of fact. If they are made in order to mislead a buyer, the seller will most likely be responsible for any loss the buyer suffers.

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

Dairy Cow Struck, Killed By Auto

A dairy cow, believed to be from the adjoining Silveira Ranch, was killed on Highway 101 near Marinwood when struck at 3:05 a.m. today by a car driven by Roy Johnson, 25, of 593 Louis Drive, Novato, the California Highway Patrol said.

An incomplete highway patrol report said Johnson was driving north when he saw the cow running south in the middle lane, swerved but could not miss the animal. Johnson was not hurt.

trade mission to the Far East next month.

Stans, who will leave April 11 for a similar seven-nation tour of Western Europe, will go abroad again on May 9 for talks with government and business leaders in Japan, South Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong.

The statement came as the President huddled with key advisers at his waterfront home.

One of Nixon's major problems is to try to deal with pressing home front needs and still spend less money than the $195-plus billion originally blueprinted by former President Lyndon B. Johnson for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

Since the chief executive figures that inflation and miscalculations already have put the Johnson-proposed budget at $197 billion, he has little leeway to start new domestic programs and still keep a promise to hold spending substantially below the level Johnson forecast.

Gathering for the conference with Nixon were Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch, White House counselor Arthur F. Burns, White House counsel John D. Ehrlichman, and presidential assistants Daniel P. Moynihan and Bryce N. Harlow.

Nixon spent yesterday morning handling official paperwork, including preparations for the domestic policy conference. In the afternoon he took a two and a half-hour salt water cruise aboard the 64-foot presidential yacht "Julie" with Ehrlichman and C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, his Key Biscayne neighbor and friend.

Starlings Stake Claim On Clock

BARROW-IN-FURNESS, England (UPI)—The residents of this community don't know what time it is because of thousands of starlings who have staked a claim on the town hall clock.

The starlings, who were driven away from the local shipyards, resettled on the hands of the clock.

Whenever too many gather on one hand, their weight moves it. Town clerk A. M. Woll published an official notice warning that the clock was unreliable.

Youths Booked In Auto Theft Probe

Three San Francisco youths were booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall yesterday on suspicion of car theft after being stopped at 2:15 p.m. on Bridgeway for a traffic violation, Sausalito police reported. The car was reportedly stolen in San Francisco.

Taken to Juvenile Hall were Donald Yamagishi, 17; Dimaya Amor, 16, and Michael Uyeno, 15.

Rights Session Set Tomorrow

A conference joining the community and government groups to discuss problems allied with human rights will be held tomorrow at the Marin County Civic Center.

The chairman of various committees on the Marin County Human Rights Commission will speak on multi-ethnic studies, small business and black capitalism, police-community relations, housing and the role of the church in the suburban city.

The commission is sponsoring the conference, which will be held from 12:30 to 5 p.m. in Room 400 of the administration building.

Both the eastbound and westbound lanes of the 2.3 mile stretch will be resurfaced, and signing and lighting revised.

The state Division of Highways also announced plans to install raised pavement markers, both plain and reflective, on three sections of Highway 101 in Sonoma County. Rayalco Inc. of Danville submitted a low bid of $27,779.

The first section will be from the Marin County line to Petaluma, then from south of Rohnert Park to south of Santa Rosa, and from north of Santa Rosa to the Chiquita Road undercrossing near Healdsburg.

Urge To Steal During Pregnancy

HEBBURN-ON-TYNE, England (UPI) — A 36-year-old housewife charged with stealing five spoons and a pound of sausage told a court she has a compulsive urge to steal when she is pregnant.

A defense lawyer read the court a medical report on Mrs. Norma Doyle which said she "developed a compulsive urge to steal during her first pregnancy 11 years ago."

The lawyer said she again had an urge to steal during a pregnancy three years ago but "was able to restrain it." The court put Mrs. Doyle on probation for a year.

This means that calls to and from these areas are no longer toll calls, Lewis explained and the prefix 1 should not be dialed before the exchange Nos. 838, 883, 892 and 897.

Four hundred seventy-five children swarmed over the Tamalpais Valley School playground yesterday for an Easter egg hunt sponsired by the Tamalpais Community Services District, board member Gale E. Bishel said.

Five children won prizes for finding numbered eggs among the 2,000 hidden on the school yard. Tonki Smirnoff, 5, Richard Davey, 11, and Gary Johnson, 7, won first prizes, and Jennifer Martin, 5, and Davey Wilde, 7, won second prizes.

Bianchi of San Rafael, termed the staff proposal "disappointing and unimaginative" compared to his clients "more sophisticated and more imaginative" plan.

The developers plan a 550-room, 14-story hotel, a 130-room motel about 10 stories high, a botel-motel with shops up to four stories high, a restaurant, cocktail lounge, gas station, lagoon, and "transportation center" for boats and helicopters.

Bianchi argued unsuccessfully that the commission had no authority to be concerned about the use of the proposed 15 acres of fill, or that high-rise buildings would be put on the fill, but the commission's legal advisor, Deputy Atty. Gen. E. Clement Shute, disputed Bianchi's contention.

Adocates of the project, repeating praise voiced at previous commission hearings, included spokesmen for the Marin County chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Marin Builders Exchange, Marin County Building Trades Council and Marin Property Owners Association.

Taking a "middle position" was the attorney for adjacent property owner Donlon Arques, who said his client also would want high-rise buildings if the fill application were granted to Sausalito Associates. The attorney, David Gold of San Francisco, added that he could not "reconcile such a decision with the responsibllities of this commission."

Opposing the application were spokesmen for the Save San Francisco Bay Association, Marin Conservation League and Sierra Club.

Voting on an application by Edgewater Yacht Co. to fill one sixth of an acre on the Sausalito waterfront was postponed to the April 17 meeting.

Pollack testified yesterday the young Arab's mental illness was so substantial he hoped Sirhan would get a life sentence and undergo medical treatment.

After almost three months of a trial that has cost an estimated $1 million, Pollack admitted under cross examination he personally had told the district attorney Sirhan's mental disease should spare him.

Pollack, a professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California, stressed he still felt Sirhan had the mental capability to plan the murder of Kennedy and to know the consequences of his act.

Mideast Talks Begin; Shooting Flares Again

Israeli U.N. Ambassador Yosef Tekoah said: "The expectation of the talks has brought about a marked hardening of Arab intransigence," and feared the talks would take a Russian tack, pro-Arab.

Jordanian Ambassador Muhammad H. El-Farra said: "We shall certainly cooperate with the Big Four and wish them luck."

The Big Four's chief delegates at the United Nations — Armand Berard of France, Lord Caradon of Britain, Jacob A. Malik of the Soviet Union and Charles W. Yost of the United States — held their first session yesterday after weeks of individual preliminary discussions.

After four and one-half hours of talk yesterday, they said they had gotten down to business right away and would meet again on Tuesday.

Their communique said the four based their approach on the U.N. Security Council's resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, containing principles for settlement of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

It said they "reaffirmed their support" of Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden, U.N. special representative in the Middle East.

An Israeli delegation source said the communique confirmed Israel's fears because it followed Soviet language "about a peaceful settlement" and avoided the council resolution's language "about a just and lasting peace."

Cairo newspapers gave prominent coverage to the talks. The semiofficial Al Ahram said France had suggested that the thorny question of Jerusalem be left out of the prelminary discussion.

"The French in making this suggestion apparently seem to have the conception of an international status for Jerusalem," the paper said.

Nasser's special adviser on foreign affairs, Mahmoud Fawzi, remained in Washington after former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's funeral and met for 45 minutes yesterday with Secretary of State William P. Rogers. U.S. officials said they reviewed the Middle East and briefly discussed a resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Egypt. Egypt broke off relations during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Rogers said the United States is ready to resume relations, but Egypt made the break and will have to make the first move to restore them.

Meanwhile, Israel and Egypt battled with artillery, tank guns, mortars and small arms across the Suez Canal for two hours today before U.N. observers arranged a cease-fire. It was the first fighting across the canal in 11 days.

Each side claimed the other started the fighting.

The Israeli army reported no casualties but said it twice silenced the Egyptian fire. Egypt claimed its gunners downed an Israeli helicopter and silenced most of the Israeli guns, which it said concentrated on Port Suez.

The clash came as thousands of Christian pilgrims crowded the streets and alleys of Old Jerusalem for the Holy City's second Easter under Israeli rule. But they were 200 miles from the fighting. Jews throughout the nation are observing Passover.

Trustees To Discuss New Grade Ideas

Proposed credit or no-credit and pass or fail marking procedures will be discussed by the Tamalpais High School District board at its 8 p.m. meeting Monday.

Pass or fail rating would be solely for coures in driver education and driver training.

Credit or no-credit rating would apply in courses running the gamut from physics and advanced algebra to music and stagecraft.

A student may choose instead of grades to receive credit only — that is, units — if he meets minimum requirements in the usual A to D grade range or no credit if he does not meet minimum requirements.

Some advantages of the plan proponents say, are that students could take subjects which interest them but which they have avoided because of grade consciousness and that it would encourage a student to focus on mastering a subject rather than on getting an external reward — a grade.

Trustees will also hear proposals for elective English programs at the district's three high schools, the most comprehensive of these coming from Redwood High School.

Redwood's basic assumption is that an elective program with a wide range of courses will be more responsive to student need and interest than the present required sequential program.

Grade level distinctions would be abolished under the Redwood plan. Courses — now based on sopholmore, junior and senior English — would emphasize content or method. And students would choose their own classes based on need or want.

Specified English courses are now required for ninth through eleventh grades and strongly recommended for twelfth grade. English electives are minimal now. Thirty elective courses would be offered in Redwood's program.

A closed session will be held to discuss discharging an employee on grounds that impaired health is interfering with the person's work.

Trustees will hear a second revision of the 1969-70 budget forecast and will be asked to cut back on its first stage building program plans for new construction and portables because recent estimates are $100,000 in excess of earlier ones.

Battery Stolen

A battery was stolen from her car at 2 a.m. today, Ella Davis of 419 Drake Avenue, Apt. 20, Marin City, told sheriff's deputies. She told deputies she surprised someone prowling near her car in the apartment parking lot at that hour but the person fled and she found the battery missing.

Chain Link Fence Discussion Set

A meeting between Marin City citizens and government officials has been set for 8 p.m. Thursday at the Marin City Community Center to discuss the controversial chain link fence along the Highway 101 underpass from Marin City to Sausalito.

The fence, constructed by the state Division of Highways to protect passing motorists from thrown rocks and other objects, has been vigorously attacked by some Marin City residents who say the state is trying to fence them in.

All community groups in Marin City have been invited to the Thursday meeting with representatives of the Division of Highways, the California Highway Patrol and local and county governmental agencies.

Palm Springs Police Send Hippies Packing

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Hundreds of students and hippies, many of whom had been cavorting nude, streamed out of town today after police swept through picturesque Tahquitz Canyon and routed 2,500 squatters.

This fashionable desert winter resort was reported calm although police said about 13,000 Easter vacationers remained in the community in the face of a "firm but fair" policy from authorities.

The canyon campers were routed yesterday after police warned them from a helicopter they were trespassing on Indian lands.

More than 250 officers armed with riot guns, tear gas, rifles and gas masks swept up the canyon on foot and horseback yesterday, routing the motley band that had occupied the area since last weekend.

Police met little resistance as they walked up the one and one-half mile canyon, turned around and walked back down, herding the squatters before them.

They used tear gas to discourage some youths who tried to roll boulders down onto the police officers but no other incidents occurred.

An estimated 1,000 were still holed up on the upper slopes today and police prepared to send in a party mountaineers to flush them out.

Injuries Minor In Ditch Accident

Two persons were treated for multiple cuts last night at Novato General Hospital after their car went into a ditch at the Hicks Valley fire station, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The accident occurred at 10:45 p.m. on the Petaluma-Point Reyse Road, the patrol said, when Thomas J. Moats, 19, of 22 Boulevard Terrace, Novato, lost control on a curve. His passenger was Mary E. Halloran, 18, of 337 McDaniel Boulevard, Apt. 27, Petaluma.

Plea Of Guilty To Manslaughter

James E. Miner, 23, of Penngrove, pleaded guilty yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to a manslaughter charge and was sentenced to a year in jail.

Miner was involved in the Jan. 1 automobile accident on Highway 101 at the Lakeville Highway overpass that took the life of Joanne M. Greene, 18, of Windsor, Sonoma County.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon suspended the jail time, but said Miner would serve 32 days in the Petaluma Jail, spending each weekend there until the time is served. Miner was also placed on probation for two years and fined $1,000 which he was directed to pay at $50 per month.

Budget Hearing

Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District directors last night heard that the preliminary 1969-70 budget will be submitted to the board on May 1, Fire Chief Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported. A public hearing will be set after the board receives the budget, Heynen said.

Joerger To Seek Council Post Again

Seeking his second council term, Joerger ran twice unsuccesfully for county supervisor. Employed in real estate and construction, Joerger lives at 1 Jensen Drive.

Exclusive report

Northern California residents are actually feeding harmful soil bacteria by planting unprotected grass seed, it was learned today.

Many local people, like Saratoga resident Charles Zeek, never thought there was any risk in planting bargain grass seed until harmful soil bacteria ruined his weekend's planting effort.

"I got the lowest priced grass seed I could get," said Zeek, "and I read all the books and followed the instructions to a 'T'. But now my lawn is spotty and unhealthy – that bad soil bacteria just gobbled up my seeds."

Solution Found

A solution to this menacing problem is on the scene, however. A local grass seed dealer has come to the rescue with a specially protected grass seed. It's called Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green grass seed.

"According to scientific research, this is the only grass seed that can't be killed by harmful soil bacteria," said the dealer, "and it's made only by the Ferry-Morse Seed Co."

Coated Seeds

"Each seed is coated with a special chemical solution called Ultra-Green," the dealer continued. "This coating protects each seed against the attacks of harmful soil bacteria."

Other reports say that Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green treated grass seeds can germinate faster and grow to a lush, extra-thick lawn because of their protection against these types of soil-born diseases.

ULTRA-GREEN: A Recent Discovery

The wondrous bacteria-resistant coating known as Ultra-Green was discovered by research scientists of Ferry-Morse Seed Company in late 1967. Ultra-Green is actually a disease-killing chemical that protects against harmful soil bacteria. Scientists say this protective coating will enable grass seeds to grow healthier and makes lawns lush and a more richer green. "Ultra-Green is only available on Ferry-Morse grass seed," one scientist said.

Bacteria Responsible

Scientists have not as yet released the exact names of these soil bacterias, but do state that they (the soil bacterias) are mainly responsible for the destruction of newly planted grass seed.

Bright Hopes

As the situation now stands, hopes are bright that with Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green grass seed, Northern California residents will be freed from the agony of watching their precious grass seed be destroyed before it has a chance for life.

Residents Get Versatile Protection

Northern California residents can now obtain Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green grass seed in two different mixtures, a company spokesman reports. The official stated that the most popular protective grass seed is "Golden Gate Park".

"This seed mixture has proven to be best suited for Northern California as it's been the leading brand for over 50 years," the spokesman said.

Another protected mixture is called "Ascot".

"This seed mixture is for fine lawn use, as it contains the best of new Kentucky Bluegrasses for a fine bladed and even-textured lawn," he commented.

"No matter which Ferry-Morse mixture the customer chooses," concluded the spokesman, "he will be sure of getting bacteria-resistant Ultra-Green seeds."

EXCLUSIVE SEED NOW AVAILABLE

News has just been released that residents in Northern California can immediately get their supply of Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green grass seeds. Numerous local outlets have been pressed into service by Ferry-Morse to make bacteria-resistant grass seeds conveniently available to area residents. Outlets as released are:

OOMPAHS IN THE SPRING

$18 Million Payment Made For Redwoods

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harrison Loesch began his second day as assistant secretary of the Interior today by handing over a check for more than $18 million—partial payment for timber land taken by the new Redwood National Park.

"This is my first public sort of thing since I got my feet under the desk yesterday," said Loesch, assistant secretary for public land management, as he handed the check to John B. Tacke, an attorney representing the Arcata National Corp., a timber company which owned some 11,000 acres now included in the park.

The Redwood National Park Act, signed last Oct. 2, authorized a 58,000-park in California including an estimated 22,542 acres held by four lumber companies and some 4,969 acres owned by other private parties.

The land was acquired by the government immediately upon the signing of the act which authorized later compensation to the former owners.

The green government check delivered to Arcata—looking like any other except for the $18,289,794.52 figure—included $539,794.52 in interest accrued during the last six months.

The final settlement with Arcata is still under negotiation but by making the large down payment now, Loesch said, the government will save another half million dollars in interest charges which would otherwise have built up during the next six months.

Former Fairfax Nurse Denies Manslaughter

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Vera Mae Walsh, former Fairfax practical nurse, yesterday pleaded innocent to charges of involuntary manslaughter and forgery in Sonoma Superior Court.

Judge Lincoln F. Mahan will set the jury trial date next Thursday at 9 a.m. Mrs. Walsh filed a waiver of personal appearance at the proceedings.

She is scheduled for trial April 14 in Marin County on grand theft charges concerning the theft of a diamond ring and glassware from the home of her former employers.

In Sonoma County the manslaughter charge resulted from the Jan. 5 death of her patient, Mrs. Gloria Giannis. Toxicology tests showed the former mental patient died from an overdose of drugs. Mrs. Walsh is also accused of forging Mrs. Giannis's name to two checks after her death.

Hughes Ferrets Out Plans For Larger Nuclear Tests

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Future underground nuclear tests in Central Nevada will have a punch of several megatons and detonations in Alaska will be larger, it was disclosed today by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The revelation came when the AEC played 10-questions with industrialist Howard Hughes, who expressed concern about the effects of nuclear testing in Nevada where he owns $200 million in real estate.

It marked the first time the AEC publicly revealed the approximate size of its planned tests in Central Nevada or Amchitka, Alaska. Scientific aides to Hughes submitted 10 written questions to the AEC and the government replied in writing.

The largest underground thermonuclear devices triggered by the United States to date have been slightly more than one megaton, the equivalent of one million tons of TNT. The atomic bombs used in World War II had a maximum equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.

An apparent feud between Hughes and the AEC began a year ago when Hughes attempted to delay one of the giant tests and failed. The Hughes organization questioned the effects of nuclear testing on seismic activity, radiation and contamination of underground water supplies.

The AEC repeatedly said its nuclear weapons test program did not present a threat to public safety and was a necessity to national security.

Burglars Hit Three Autos

Three car burglaries took place in San Rafael yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Elise Starling Richter reported that her car was parked at Fourth Street and Tamalpais Avenue, between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m., when someone unsnapped her car's convertible top and took a handbag containing three credit cards and her passport.

Dennis F. Leahy of 101 Edward Avenue said his car, parked near 61 Worthington Lane, lost its $20 battery.

Raymond E. Arata of 727 Francisco Boulevard lost a $7 bottle of perfume and a box of silver gun powder when a thief managed to unlock his pickup truck, parked overnight at 737 Francisco Boulevard.

Fire Bombs Ravage Six Topeka Firms

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Police Chief Dana Hummer said fire bombs ravaged six business places early today causing nearly a quarter-million dollars damage.

At least two firemen were injured battling the blazes in widely scattered sections of Topeka. No arrests have been made.

The biggest of the six fires did damage estimated at $175,000 at the Metzger Salvage Center near downtown Topeka. Flames destroyed a brick building, several trucks, a bus, a food store and a house.

The house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Coffman and their son, Kenneth Jr. The son awoke in time to alert other members of the family, and they escaped but lost all their possessions as well as their collie dog.

Other buildings damaged included a market, paint store, business machine store and a fur store in the Elmhurst Plaza shopping center on the west side of Topeka.

All the fires broke out in a 90-minute period early this morning. No looting was reported.

Hummer says his department will put extra men on patrol in Topeka tonight.

The first power-driven knitting machine was made in Cohoes, N.Y., in 1832.

Mormon Leader Sees Degenerate Upswing

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — "In the well-ordered home, we may experience on earth a taste of heaven," President David O. McKay told his followers as the 139th annual world conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) opened today in the Tabernacle on Temple Square.

"The strength of a nation, especially of a republican nation, is in the intelligent and well-ordered homes of the people," the 95-year-old church leader said in remarks prepared for delivery by his son, Robert.

Doctors advised President McKay not to attend the conference, a spokesman said, but he was to guide the conference by a telephone hookup.

McKay, believed by Mormons to be a prophet, warned that degenerating forces were rampant in the world, that the conflict between truth and error was being waged with accelerating fury, and "at the present hour error seems to be gaining the upper hand."

"Increasing moral turpitude and widespread disregard for the principles of honor and integrity are undermining influences in social, political and business life," he said.

"The world needs more godliness, and less godlessness; more self-discipline, less self-indulgence," the church leader said.

He admonished youth to prepare for the responsibility of parenthood.

"Often the health of children, if a couple be blessed with such, depends upon the actions of parents before marriage," he said.

McKay's message, and other sessions in the 102-year-old Tabernacle, were to be broadcast over radio and television throughout the world.

Membership of the church is expected to nearly 2.75 million persons—double what it was when McKay assumed the presidency 18 years ago.

Soldiers Jailed On Coast Thefts

Two young soldiers from the Presidio of San Francisco, who pleaded guilty to a burglary in the Panoramic Highway area, yesterday were given a suspended sentence, placed on two years probation and ordered to spend four months in County Jail.

Judge Harold H. Haley of Marin Superior Court also gave the youths a concurrent 30-day sentence for a misdemeanor charge of joy-riding.

Teen Title To Missouri Girl

Tearful but smiling as she was crowned last night by actor Bobby Sherman, Miss Bunton remarked: "I have never been so shocked in my whole life."

Miss Bunton, a senior at Center High School and a member of the National Honor Society because of her B-plus average, was entered as "Miss Teen Plains States."

Nine Months' Jail Set For Burglary

Melvin Razo, 23, of Berkeley yesterday was sentenced by Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court to nine months in Marin County jail as a condition of two years probation for a burglary Oct. 30, 1967 in Sausalito.

Razo was arrested after a high speed chase when police saw him fleeing from the home of Maurice J. Flantzman at 81 Crecienta Drive, Sausalito.

Toolbox, Cash Reported Stolen

A tool box containing a complete set of mechanic's tools and $69 in cash were stolen from Parks Auto Electric at Second Street and Lincoln Avenue sometime Wednesday night, San Rafael police reported today.

The tool kit, belonging to auto electrician Jerry Lee Routh of 1297 Lombard Street, Petaluma, weighed 150 pounds and the tools were valued at more than $500.

The burglars entered a hole in the wall of an adjoining business, Wagner and Weiland Custom Builders at 292 Jacoby Street, police said.

FUTURE SONOMA STATE COLLEGE HOUSING

Students at Sonoma State College will eventually live in this planned residential complex at the college. Plans for the facility have been approved by the California State College trustees, over the objections of neighboring landlords now renting to students. The college plans to accept bids of the facility in January and hopes it will be completed by September 1971. The living quarters, which will include a swimming pool and cafeteria, will be located on the northwest corner of the campus.

Park Proposal On San Rafael Panel Agenda

The San Rafael City Council will discuss a proposal for a modern park and recreation unit to include tennis courts and an Olympic-sized swimming pool at its meeting at city hall at 8 p.m. Monday.

The city's backing for development of such a complex was urged in a petition with more than 450 signatures presented to the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last month.

The council will also continue consideration of a plan to extend Montecillo Road and develop a three-acre park site. A low bid of $51,000 for the project was submitted last month by Bobo Construction Co. of Novato but the council deferred action until the Monday meeting.

Agreements with Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Terra Linda to pay full costs for the construction of the roadway over the hospital's property and the Dixie School District for a slope and drainage easement will be acted upon.

In other action, the council will consider a resolution to set fees for zoning permits, subdivisions, police reports and other items and a claim by Mrs. Carol Ann Fust in connection with the drowning of her son at the Civic Center Lagoon.

School Officials To Hear Budget Talk

The Marin Association of School Administrators will meet at a noon luncheon Wednesday in the Tiburon Lodge to hear talks on program budgeting by Dale H. Scott, Santa Clara County Taxpayers Association executive director, and John A. Hulbert, executive officer, State Advisory Commission on School District Budgeting and Accounting.

The association did not meet Wednesday of this week, as scheduled, because of the California Elementary School Administrators Association meeting in progress in San Francisco, H. Joe Edgington, president of the Marin association, reported.

The state flower of California is the golden poppy.

To Hear Plan

The Belvedere City Council will hear an informational presentation by Tom E. Nowell of the Nowell Plan for a convention center in Richardson Bay at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

Male Hormone Linked To Shorter Life Span

NEW YORK (AP) — A State University research team reported today that male sex hormones appear to be responsible for men living a shorter life span than women.

The scientists based their finding on a study of mentally retarded men that showed that castrated males live significantly longer lives than otherwise normal men.

The effect of castration on life span is especially great, the scientists said, if it takes place before puberty.

Their report was presented in a paper delivered at the meeting of the American Association of Anatomists in Boston and released here by the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center.

The researchers said the finding also holds for cats: Castrated cats, both outbred and the somewhat inbred name breeds, live longer than normal males. The extension of life is longer if castration takes place before maturation.

Dr. James B. Hamilton, professor of anatomy, led the research team, which included Gordon E. Mestler, assistant anatomy instructor, and Ruth S. Hamilton, an associate and Dr. Hamilton's wife.

Dr. James Hamilton, investigating why females live longer than males, said the difference is about seven years.

"It is clear," he said, "that most of the major causes of death in humans occur more commonly, or at an earlier age, in males than in females, and that males are penalized by the great majority of those diseases which occur more frequently in one sex."

Dr. Hamilton said one theory for the male vulnerability concerns genetic makeup, but said the study supports the theory that male sex hormones called androgens, produced by the testes, the male sex glands, are to blame.

Tiburon Trails Plan Due Study

The controversial Tiburon trails plan and a resolution on Angel Island State Park plan will be discussed by the Tiburon City Council at 8 p.m. Monday in the music lecture room of Del Mar School.

The council's lands and development subcommittee has recommended the trails plan not be adopted until an implementation study has been completed while the city's parks and recreation commission has asked that the plan be adopted immediately with the implementation study following.

The Angel Island resolution will outline city objections to preliminary state development plans for the park.

The council has also scheduled a closed session to consider an appointment to the planning commission to replace Commissioner Joseph H. Bacheller III whose term expires June 24.

TV, Watch Stolen

Jerome C. Testo reported to Corte Madera police last night that someone entered an unlocked window of his home at 56 Crescent Road and stole a portable television set and a woman's diamond-studded wrist watch, the total value being $250. Entry was made between 6:30 and 11:30 p.m., Testo told officers.

Smaller Rat Litters Produce More Brain Cells

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rats which are surgically altered to have only half as many offspring as normal, produce babies with more brain cells than normal, two UCLA researchers report.

According to Dr. Stephan Zamenhof and Edith Van Marthens the reduction in litter size allows more nutrients for each of the babies.

This may mean the surgery alters a mechanism for determining the amount of nutrient to be supplied to each baby in a normal litter, says Zamenhof.

Previous research indicated that a lower protein intake during pregnancy resulted in reduced numbers of brain cells in the offspring.

Zamenhof feels this adds to the evidence that prenatal nourishment affects the eventual intelligence of mammals.

Carpeting Stolen

Petaluma police reported yesterday that a roll of gold carpeting valued at $75 was stolen Wednesday night from a home under construction in the Petaluma Gardens subdivision.

Underground Lighting Plan Prepared For Fairfax Nod

The Fairfax Design Review board last night recommended to the city council that it approve a plan for the first underground street lighting project in Fairfax.

Estimated cost of the project was $2,100, according to figures presented to the board by Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The plan calls for poles against buildings in the first block of Bolinas Road south of Broadway, with brackets and lanterns overhanging the sidewalks.

At intersections, the same lanterns would be used on poles on the street side of the sidewalk with triple fixtures for added light.

Where Bolinas Road widens, according to the plan, free-standing poles and lanterns would be used.

The board will meet at the site of the lighting project at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday to discuss the precise location of the poles, according to Norman T. Gilroy, board chairman.

In other action, the board continued its study of a sign ordinance for the city until its May 1 meeting; approved an application for a sign by Dell's Drive-In Secretarial Service at 85 Bolinas Road, and approved an application for a car deck at 109 Live Oak by Ronaldo Gove. The Gove request now must be approved by the council.

Candidates To Discuss Issues

Candidates for the Mill Valley School District board will speak at a candidates' night Thursday sponsored by the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club and the Tamalpais Valley School Parent-Teacher Association.

The meetinv will be at 8 p.m. at Tamalpais Valley School, with Improvement Club president Charles H. Norton Jr. as moderator. Candidates will first give prepared speeches, then answer questions. Last night's scheduled club meeting was canceled in favor of the candidates' night, Norton said.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Wisteria In Bloom Is A Delight To Outdoor Diners In San Rafael

But La Petite Auberge in San Rafael can. A lush vine was planted perhaps 40 years ago, long before Paul Devaux ever thought of opening a French restaurant. Originally it was out of doors, and older La Petite customers have only to look at it to evoke a flood of memories.

When Paul first started business the vine was larger and untrimmed. It filled an enclosed courtyard which could only be used in the summer because there was no cover across the top. Even then a sudden off-season shower might send diners scurrying for shelter in one of the little crooked-brick ells that made up the regular dining area.

I recall how Paul and Pierre Grigaut, who later joined him as a partner by then, acquired their general onsale license. If I am not mistaken it was Paul who stood in line for hours at the Alcoholic Beverage Control board to apply for one of the several new licenses being issued for Marin. By the time he reached the front of the line there was just one left — and he manage to get it. I believe it was the last new general onsale license ever issued for this county. All other licenses since then have been transfers.

All this retrospection comes about because next Wednesday is a 10th birthday for La Petite Auberge, which started out tiny and increased in stature and in customers through the years. Although there is a modern Rollamatic sliding roof over the dining room, the wisteria continues to bloom, and so does the restaurant. Happy days.

SPECIAL EASTER DINNER menu will be served Sunday from 1 p.m. at Bill and Adolph's West End Villa, San Rafael. And if the weather is fair it's possible some of the diners will spill over into the outdoor dining room for an al fresco experience.

Easter dinner choices include roast rack of spring lamb, prime ribs of beef, veal parmigiana, chicken saute, steaks, lobster tail and caneloni. Fried cream is the dessert.

Accordionist Al Stone will be there as he is now every Friday, Saturday and Sunday. And I am happy to hear that Adrian Mager is back again with his smooth flambe performances. West End impresario of the salad bowl these days is still young Ron Bisson who shows off to best advantage when he launches into a Caesar.

If you should miss West End on Easter but visit there some subsequent Sunday, you might take on an old specialty here: chicken in the pot.

THERE WILL BE no Easter dinner served at Gregory's in Corte Madera this year. For the rest of the spring and summer, Sunday will be a day of closing.

For this new schedule you can hold the rugged Mendocino coast responsible. This is where Gregory and Mary Alyce now have their home, and with both Sundays and Monadys free they'll be able to take more time to enjoy it. Dinner hours are now from 5:30 to 10:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

PAUL DEVAUX
Celebrates 10th year

Gregory's has a new dinner menu. Among the entrees now are Mendocino salmon steak, chicken cooked in whitewine and fresh Petaluma duck. Pepper steak, the dinner steak, pork chops and German enchiladas are still retained and favorites of many. Price range fro dinners is $3 to $5.95; a la carte $1 less.

EASTER YOURS for Rubini's in Fairfax this year will be cocktails starting at 3 p.m. and dinner service beginning at 4.

Current art showing for the month of April is that of Ludwig Limberger of San Anselmo.

LOOK FOR AN OPENING of Senor Alfredo's Mexican Restaurant in San Anselmo Tuesday, April 15. Address is 115 San Anselmo Avenue.

Senor Alfredo's occupies a part of the former Safeway Store building — now completely remodeled. The San Anselmo Post Office will open in the rest of the building as soon as lock-box equipment is installed.

The resaturant is a model of careful Spanish design, modern equipment and clever arrangement of the space, making it appear much larger than it actually is. Owner Alfred Barthel, also an interior designer, is responsible for this. I must say he's put together a neat package, pleasing to the eye and most comfortable.

Alfredo's menu will feature a number of combinations from $2 to $3.50 that include the popular enchiladas, tacos, tamales, tostadas, frijoles and rellenos. Also offered are a low-calorie, high-protein, marinated burgers, guacamole salads and various side orders. Anything on the menu is also available to take out.

A number of beers are listed — domestic, Mexican and other imports, and several brands of good California wines will be available.

Present schedule calls for the restaurant to be open daily except Mondays, with lunches from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and dinners from 5 to 10. Sunday dinners will probably start at 4 p.m.

ANJO'S (new name for the former Quan Lin of Marin) opened at 535 Fourth Street, San Rafael last week with new food, a new food director, remodeled dining room and kitchen and probably some of the most sanitary culinary equipment you have ever seen.

The name Anjo's, as explained previously, is a contraction of the first names of Angelo Camilleri and Joe Scotto, and being short should be easily remembered.

Angelo and Vera Camporeale are both handling the food, he in the kitchen and she in the dining room. Lunches and dinners are served; hours are from 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. everyday except Sunday.

The menu offers several charcoal-broiled steaks, barbecued sirloin, pork and spareribs as well as fried chicken and several seafood entrees. Price range is from $2.50 to $4.25, including soup and salad. Also featured is a number of a la carte salads, sandwiches and desserts.

It's a very attractive and clean place.

THERE HAS BEEN REMODELING going on at the Villa Rafael Restaurant at 1600 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, including new kitchen equipment. This has called for an expanded menu.

Villa Rafael is open for breakfast, lunch and dinner from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. Several breakfast specials and combinations are available. There are soups, salads, sandwiches, broiled items, chicken, shrimp, barbecued ribs and fish and chips either to eat on the premises or take out.

GRAND SPECIALTE DE MAISON at Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo is still the 10-course dinner. Tonight a sumptious new menu is being introduced which essays to capture the spirit of the lavish French court feasts.

Try these three dishes for size and savor: Filet of petrale Sandra, stuffed with salmon and served with chablis and cream sauce; Cornish game hen baked in clay, stuffed with wild rice and mushrooms and served with a hot madeira sauce; rack of lamb marinated in a cask of burgundy and served with three vegetable purees. All of them are included in the 10-course dinner.

WINE DISCOVERIES at CAFE BON VIN
THE BEST IS NOW TO BE!
Le Gala Universel brings you ten courses and nine wines of surpassing excellence. Cafe Bon Vin is half a year old now, and we have solved some of the difficulties which high standards create. You've provided encouragement with your patience and approval—and now, with this "Presentation" Gala, we're prepared to offer our food and wine to gourmet, scribe, or scholar with the happy assurance it measures up to the best.
AH! SUCH GALA FOOD . . .
A WORLD OF WINES . . .
accompanies the repast. Each—from aperitif to after-dinner drink—is the proud product of a different country. Each—a personal discovery of Fred Cherry—has earned the flavorful right to enhance the course it accompanies.
TEN DOLLARS
is still the price you spend for all ten courses of the Gala Universel—unless you count the three or four hours you spend enjoying them all. Four dollars gets you a modest sampling of the Gala cuisine in four courses; six dollars a bigger selection of six courses. Wines by the bottle, the half bottle, or a glass or two of each wine served with its appropriate course. That, of course, is the most rewarding way to dine at Cafe Bon Vin. Reservations are always recommended, often required . . . so call our 24-hour Telephone Secretary (456-6660) as soon as you can; she can tell you about all the special wine events, too.

Draft Evading Sentence Given

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge ordered a two-year prison term yesterday for a man who resisted military service for three years.

Randall T. Millikens, after being sentenced by Judge William T. Sweigert, asked freedom for an additional "week or so."

"I'd like to be free for Easter and Buddha's birthday," he said. The judge refused.

Millikens, 22, registered for the draft in 1964 at his home in Pleasant Hill. But one and one-half years later he said he would refuse instruction in killing.

In October 1967 he wrote his Selective Service board he had thrown away his draft cards. Later he was arrested at a peace demonstration at the Oakland Military Induction Center and last June he refused induction.

That same month, while at the University of California at Davis, he burned half a draft card, the judge noted.

Airport Manager Sees More Gnoss Field Use

When the runway is extended and the lights installed at Gnoss Field, there should be a big upswing in the use of the airport, Frances E. Torr, airport manager, yesterday told a noon meeting of the Novato Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

The airport now has a 2,200-foot runway. The current work will expand this another 1,100 feet. This will cost approximately $65,000 in a $105,000 contract. The remaining $40,000 will install the lights at the airport, he said. This work should be completed the first part of July, Torr said.

There are now 300 pilots making about 1,500 flights per month out of the airport, Torr said. When the new runway extension and lights are in use, he looks for some small airline, such as Skymark which now serves Santa Rosa, to add Gnoss Field to its regular schedule.

The airport has contributed approximately $575,000 to the economy of Marin County during its first year of operation in its new location, Torr said. This includes the sale of airplanes, rentals of airplanes, sales of gasoline, sales, tax, gasoline tax and personal property tax on the 65 planes stationed there, he said.

Although the airport is operating at a loss at present, Torr sees growth of the airport as a continuing thing. He envisions a possible cross runway if a year's study of the winds at the airport show it to be a necessity. A tower may be added to the airport when the traffic warrants it. He said that the airport is getting increased use by businessmen who are finding it an easier access to San Francisco than the airports on the Peninsula.

He said that it is possible eventually to put in a 5,000 foot runway to handle light jet aircraft.

Torr said that he had worked with SFO Helicopters Inc. and that the cost per seat for helicopter service to the county airport was not economically feasible. Helicopters cannot operate economically from north of the Marin Civic Center to the San Francisco Airport, he said.

Museums To Share In Magnin's Estate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Nearly half the estate of Grover Magnin, merchant and art patron, eventually will go to the M. H. de Young Memorial Museum and the California Palace of the Legion of Honor.

A will filed for probate yesterday provides that half the estate go directly to Magnin's widow, Jeanne, with the other half placed in trust in her name. Upon her death, most of the proceeds from the trust will go to the two museums, with minor shares earmarked for several other institutions.

Labor Council Votes Oil Firm Boycott

The Marin County Labor Council has voted unanimously to support a consumer boycott of Shell Oil and Shell Chemical Co. products.

The action came Wednesday after the council heard reports from representatives of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, recently on strike against major oil companies.

'Lion' Just An Escaped Pet Bobcat

Novato's "mountain lion" which has been sighted occassionally in the past six weeks in the creek and hill near Rancho School probably is a pet bobcat which escaped from its home.

The big cat, which has been reported as a mountain lion, has been declawed and its fangs blunted, so it is harmless, according to its owner, Mrs. Warland Ray of 1 Regent Court, Novato.

The Rays moved to Novato from San Francisco in January and brought their pet bobcat and Siamese cats with them. The bobcat escaped on Feb. 11, Mrs. Ray said.

The cat has been reported by several people near Rancho School and within a quarter mile of the Rays' home.

"It is harmless and we would like it back very much," Mrs. Ray said. She said that the cat was tame enough to feed by hand, but would not allow the family to handle it yet. It is only 10 months old.

"I'll go anywhere, anytime that the cat is sighted to try to get it back with food," Mrs. Ray said.

Melvin L. Morse, director of the Marin County Humane Society, said that his organization would help Mrs. Ray in getting the cat back when it is sighted again.

A RINGING CONTROVERSY

Bloomfield's Bell To Appear Again

The long lost Bloomfield bell is scheduled to come out of hiding in the next ten days and onto the auction block soon after.

In the Central Sonoma Municipal Court yesterday, the Bloomfield Community Club Inc. was ordered to deliver the bell, which has been missing for more than a year, to the office of Richard V. Godino at the Marin County Counsel's office for safe keeping for the Tomales School District.

The school board must then offer the bell for public sale with the stipulation that the buyer keep it in the Bloomfield area for historical purposes.

Godino said if the bell is in his possession by the April 21 school board meeting, he will ask the board to set the auction date for the near future.

Leon R. Beck of the community club, said he would remove the 24 inch bell from its hiding place in the stipulated time period, but did not know exactly when that will be.

Saying he was pleased with the outcome, Beck said, "This bell is very important to the people of Bloomfield and this is what we've been asking for." He said the club, of course, will consider making a bid when the auction is held.

Beck said he still has hopes that the bell will one day ring from the specially built tower at the Mary C. Weeks Memorial Park which was ceremoniously dedicated minus the bell last May 26.

How high the bidding will go is anybody's guess, Godino said. In the court complaint the district listed the 100-year-old bell's value at less than $200.

The feud in the community of 84 residents, a tavern, Masonic lodge and fire house developed when the Tomales School District annexed the Bloomfield School and triggered a question of possession. Although the bell legally belongs to the school district, both the community club and the Bloomfield Volunteer Fire Company have claimed custody rights.

Whatever the outcome of the auction, the only thing certain is that the bell will remain in Bloomfield, with the purchaser determining its exact location.

The bell was brought around Cape Horn in a sailing ship by Henry Hall, an original settler of the community in southwestern Sonoma County.

Panel Agrees: Enough Student Regulations

San Rafael Board of Education, with an eight-page stack of regulations on hand, saw no need last night to enact any new policies covering student demonstrations or employee strikes.

Sections of the Education Code, board policy and administrative regulations covering conduct and disturbances were presented to the board by Supt. John F. Plank.

"With all this verbiage, I don't know what else we could do," said board member Herman L. Childress.

Faced with the prospect of running short of operating funds during the 1969-70 school year, board members authorized formation of a citizens finance advisory committee to study the finances of both elementary and high school districts.

The committee should include "those who disagree," said board member John C. Pfeiffer.

Paul McMullen, chairman of Your Elementary Schools Committee, the bond campaign committee, reported that committee is planning to conduct a canvass "to determine voter attitudes toward elementary schools" and toward the $2.1 million elementary bond measure, which will be voted upon June 10.

After long discussion, the board approved application for federal funds for four proposed programs, on the condition that there is full review of the proposals before any money is spent on them.

One proposed program, recruitment and training of local residents as teacher aides, estimated to cost $29,800, would be financed entirely by federal funds.

Board president Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. said the question to consider was whether the district was prepared to continue the program after one year, if federal funding dropped off.

On an application for 50 per cent federal funds for equipment and meterials for the elementary mathematics program, estimated to cost, $13,400, Kramer noted that "you can't substitute materials for imagination."

The elementary district also will apply for 50 per cent matching funds for elementary reading project, estimated to cost $16,775, and consultants in elementary reading, estimated to cost, $1,500.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

STATE FUNDING — Supported AB 409 which, if passed, would provide another $372 million in state funds for public education. Superintendent Plank estimated that San Rafael High School District would receive $275,000 and San Rafael Elementray School District, $75,000 if the bill were passed.

SHORT SCHOOL — Received a report from Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte that construction of the new Short School is scheduled to be completed Aug. 25.

BOND ARGUMENT — Approved a draft of the printed argument for the passage of the elementary districts $2.1 million bond measure in the June 10 election, with a recommendation that it be reviewed by persons not active in school affairs for their comment.

ADULT EDUCATION — Hired as instructors for the adult education program at $6.50 an hour Beverly Charton, bookkeeping and accounting; William Fitzgerald, fundamentals of data processing; Albert Mahood, introduction to photography; Helen Mason, knitting; William McMillin, basic ground school, and introduction to aviation; William Pearson, basic education; Kenneth Rosenberg, cinema photography; Muriel Sparks, tailoring; John Staples, effective speaking; Edward Troy, cinema photography; and Hank Yamagata, body conditioning for men.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Frances Collens, mathematics teacher at Davidson Junior High School, after 11 years, and Joseph Thomas, custodian at Gallinas School, after nine years, and the resignations of Virginia Wirtz, librarian at Terra Linda High School and Barbara Lewin, second grade teacher at Gallinas School, all effective June 30.

LEAVES — Granted Hildegard Berliner, now on leave with the Marin County Community Mental Health Center, Mrs. Cheri-Lee, second grade teacher at Glenwood School, and Roger deJarnette, art teacher at Terra Linda High School, leave of absence for the 1969-70 school year.

GIFTS — Acknowledged as gifts 50 books from Mrs. Frances Rhodes, copies of Scientific American magazine from Mrs. E. B. Heinlein and the book, "The Family of Man" and Commentary magazine from Alan Ellsberg, all for San Rafael High School library, and $25 from the Terra Linda High School Parent-Teacher Association for the school's music department.

NEGOTIATIONS — Named John C. Pfeiffer as the board's representative to meet with the San Rafael Teachers negotiating council April 24 on salaries and working conditions.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until April 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Building, Third and E streets.

Board member Paul L. Jones and Carl J. Brown were absent.

Drake Newspaper Again Honored

The Jolly Roger, Sir Francis Drake High School's student newspaper, has received its ninth consecutive "All-American" rating from the National Scholastic Press Association, the school news bureau reported yesterday.

In judging at the University of Minnesota, student newspapers from more than 1,200 high schools were rated on basis of content, writing, makeup, frequency of publication and printing.

The "All-American" rating, highest attainable, requires a minimum overall score of 3,800 points. The Jolly Roger received 3890.

George Gray is editor of the newspaper and Mrs. Pat Houck is the faculty advisor.

'Vigil For Peace' Set At Courthouse

A "vigil for peace" will be held by the Marin branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom from 1 to 3 p.m. tomorow in front of the Marin County Courthouse, San Rafael.

The vigil is part of a four-day series of demonstrations being staged throughout the nation, according to a spokesman for the Marin branch, Mrs. Carol Shattuck of San Anselmo.

Participants in the vigil will offer a petition to passersby which urges the U.S. to stop fighting in Vietnam while the peace negotiations are being conducted, she said.

More than 1 million big game animals were killed in Wyoming by hunters in 1967.

More Sessions On Food Stamp Program

The list of public briefings throughout Marin County on the new food stamp program — published in yesterday's Independent-Journal — was incomplete.

Omitted from the schedule were briefings set for 7 p.m. May 19 in the West Marin and Tomales Elementary schools. Meetings at 10 a.m. April 28 at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City and at 7 p.m. April 28 in Central School, Sausalito, were added to the schedule by the Marin County Department of Public Social Services Department, which is administering the food stamp program.

Reducing Of Bus Route Costs Eyed

The San Rafael Board of Education heard a report last night on how bussing costs could be cut and asked for further details.

Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte said about $19,000 could be saved annually by increasing the mileage limit for pickups.

At present kindergarten students living more than three-quarters of a mile from school, fourth to eighth graders living more than a mile and a half and high school students living beyond two miles are bused.

SAVINGS SEEN

If the distance for fourth-eighth graders were extended to two miles and the distance for high schoolers to three miles, the savings would be about $19,000, Condrotte said.

There could be an additional savings of about $19,000 if the school opening and dismissal times were revamped, Condrotte reported.

Under this proposal, all high school students would arrive for classes at 8 a.m., Davidson and San Pedro School pupils at 8:30 and all other school pupils by 9 a.m.

Last year the cost of the transpirtation system was just under $114,000 and state reimbursement dropped to $22,853, reported Walter Manley, transportation supervisor.

FUNDING DROPS

In the past 10 years state funding has dropped from 30 to 20 per cent and the cost of operating the buses has risen by 14 per cent per bus, Manley noted.

Condrotte noted that many "ineligible riders," students living within the bus limits, are riding buses.

To halt this practice, the intention is to have bus passes at all schools in the coming school year, he said.

Seminary Choir Will Sing 'Crucifixion'

"The Crucifixion," a musical presentation of the vents around the death of Jesus Christ, will be presented at 8 p.m. today by the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary Oratorio Choir at Broadus Hall Chapel on the Strawberry Point campus.

Carlyle Bennett, professor of church music at the seminary, will direct the hour-long production, and Michael England, a master of divinity student from Mill Valley, will be bass soloist.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Incredible Journey" — An incredibly enjoyable film for everyone who appreciates dogs and cats.

"Paper Lion" — Hilarious account of a writer's adventures at the training camp of Detroit Lions' pro-football team.

"Smith" — Disney studios' delightful, wholesome heart warming story of Smith's fight for fair play for Indians living among white men.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Battle of the Bulge" — Devastating battle and events leading up to it. Semi-documentary World War II drama.

"Bullitt" — Crackling cops and killer thriller. Filmed in San Francisco with terrifying auto chase. Violence goes all out in blood and gore for shock effect.

"Charge of the Light Brigade" — Biting English film describes events leading to the historical military debacle in the Crimea. Realistic expose of the stupidity of war.

"Charly" — Poignant dramatization of a factional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"Impossible Years" — A slick spurious farce about teenagers and parents. A good cast is wasted on a mediocre film which has nothing constructive to say.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say (Adults Only)

"Dark of the Sun" — Adventure tale of turmoil in Congo in 1960 is so filled with blood and gore that the plot is lost in an orgy of violence.

ADULTS ONLY

"I Love You, Alice B. Toklas" — This satire makes free love and drugs seem the life of happiness.

"Dear John" — This Swedish film should have been a clinical study and entitled "Anatomy of Sex or Love."

"One Hundred Rifles" — Excessively brutal melodrama revolving around 1912 uprising of the Yaqui against the Mexican government. Seduction of a white woman by a black man has no logical place in the plot.

"Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" — Story of the unethical and uninhibited conduct of a teacher in a girls school in Scotland in the 1930s. Her conduct is presented as amusing and acceptible. Nudity and sex are explicit.

"Tony Rome" — Fast paced mystery showing the posh high life of Miami and its seamy underworld. Film spreads as much violence, sex and plain filth as can be crowded into two hours of viewing.

A Joint Exhibit

Mill Valley artistts Christine Menkin and Mare McIntyre are showing their tie-and-dye wall hangings this month and next at the Reisinger Galleries, 830 Taraval Street, San Francisco.

Sonoma Tidelands Study Committee Unable To Agree

A final but inconclusive report on public access to state tidelands will be presented to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors at 3 p.m. Monday.

The adhoc committee, which has been meeting since December, will offer some recommendations, but chairman A. E. Galli reports a consensus of opinion is impossible.

Dr. William Kortum of Cotati and Dr. Kenneth Stocking of Sonoma State College have maintained that the public should have access to all useable tidelands. Committee members Joseph McClelland, director of the Sea Ranch coastal development, and George Charles, representing the coastal landowners, question what determines "useable" tidelands.

Kortum and Stocking consider it to mean any tidelands the public can reach, while McClelland and Charles see a more limited meaning.

Author To Discuss Academic Freedom

Dr. Russell Kirk, author and columnist, will speak on "Academic Freedom and Academic License" at 8:15 p.m., next Friday at the College of Marin.

Sponsored by the Concert-Lecture Series, Kirk writes a daily newspaper column, "To the Point" and is author of the book, "The Conservative Mind."

Two-Part Seminar Set On Racism

A seminar on "White Racism and Black Protest: Black Revolution — The White Dilemma" will be presented on two consecutive weekends this month at the San Rafael Unitarian Church.

Speakers will include Berkeley City Councilman Ronald V. Dellums; Leonard H. Carter, regional director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Jesse Spicer of KQED and Rev. Samuel Banks Jr. of Marin City.

Sessions will be April 11-12 and 25-26. All sessions start at 7 p.m.

Buffet To Help Student Travel

A buffet dinner featuring foreign dishes will be held April 13 at the girls' gymnasium at Sir Francis Drake High School to raise funds for the student exchange program.

Entertainment will be provided by a group of Israeli folk dancers and by Drake High senior Chris Cone, who will sing and play her guitar.

Four students from the school are scheduled to travel in Europe this summer. The dinner will start at 6 p.m.

Bipartisan Plan To Help Creditors

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Democratic senator and a Republican assemblyman said today they will introduce bills designed to protect individual rights in reporting credit ratings.

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, and Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, said in a joint statement that their legislation is designed to regulate the credit rating industry.

"All other legislation introduced in Sacramento and in Washington recently does not regulate the industry, but instead aims at isolated abuses or problems," they said.

Their measures would be aimed at assuring the consumer that his credit records are accurate and complete, subject to correction by him; that the information will be used for proper purposes by legitimate concerns; that no highly personal information will be included, and that derogatory information will not be reported after errors have been corrected.

Rec Budget Tentatively At $8,098

A tentative budget of $9,780 for fiscal 1969-70 was approved last night by the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission, chairman George Ellman reported. This year's budget is $8,098.

The budget proposal will be sent to the city council for modification and final approval during budget sessions tentatively scheduled for June.

Included in the commission's budget request was $1,500 for landscape consultants fees for the planning of Richardson Bay Park and some miniparks throughout the city; $1,500 for a summer youth work program; $1,500 for special and civic events, and $1,000 for matching funds with the county for youth and senior citizens programs.

The commission also allocated $750 for planning for city lanes, $500 for signs and Richardson Bay Park playground equipment, $500 for paths and lanes title search, $500 for summer program for kindergarten-eighth grade children, $500 for summer teen-age program; $450 rental of restroom facilities for Richardson Bay Park, $300 for benches to be scattered throughout the city, $280 for commissioners' expense accounts, $150 for development of a nature trail through Reed School Park and $100, weeding at Reed School Park.

Kaiser Nurses Win Pay Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Nurses Association has won $50 a month pay increases for 1,500 registered nurses at 11 Kaiser hospitals and 14 clinics in Northern California.

The increase affects 25 registered nurses at the Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Terra Linda.

The $600 a year increases will be given for each year of the two-year pact. The 1969 salary range is $8,160 to $9,600. The pay scale on Jan. 1, 1970, will be $8,760 to $10,200.

Longer vacations and paid educational leaves also were granted.

Pleads Innocent To Stolen Goods

Paul Chaney, 18, of 328 Post Street, Petaluma, pleaded innocent yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Chaney was arrested by Petaluma police after a search of his home produced a television set believed to have been stolen from Silva's Appliances on Jan. 15 and a portable phonograph believed to have been taken from the Cherry Valley School on Nov. 12.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon appointed Michael O'Donnell, deputy public defender, to represent Chaney in future proceedings.

Injuries Minor

David S. Hayes, 16, of 602 Tamalpais Boulevard, Corte Madera, was treated for multiple cuts, scrapes and bruises yesterday at Marin General Hospital after his motorcyle overturned in a driveway off Dover Road in Point Reyes National Seashore at 4:30 p.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

Program's 'Religious' Flavor May Be Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's character guidance program may be tested in court unless the Pentagon makes attendance voluntary or removes "its overall religious flavor," the American Civil Liberties Union says.

The ACLU prediction followed Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's announcement yesterday that such words as "God," "Supreme Being," "Creator," "faith," and "spiritual values" will no longer be banned from the lectures. He in effect reversed a policy set out last December.

Lawrence Speiser, head of ACLU's Washington office, said the organization would not file a suit on its own, but might be asked to represent soldiers dissatisfied with the program, which is a regular part of troop training.

Speiser's complaint resulted in the Army's decision to delete religious material from character guidance training manuals, covering such subjects as chastity and driving safety.

Publicity last week about the decision triggered strong complaints from angry congressmen who said their constituents were appalled by the new policy.

Religious leaders, however, reacted generally favorably. Many said they believed a clear distinction should be maintained between a chaplain's religious duties and lectures given as part of a mandatory secular training program.

Laird's statement said the program is conducted by unit commanders, but Defense Department sources have said the lectures are commonly given by chaplains and the chief of chaplains directs preparation of the manuals.

The secretary specified that the program's purpose "is to instill and strengthen patriotism and a sense of individual moral responsibility in members of the armed forces.

Speiser acknowledged the "legitimate secular purpose of the program" in a letter he sent Laird Wednesday, but contended it "is entirely lost, if not belied, by materials which often amount to texts for religious indoctrination."

In the wake of Laird's reversal, Speiser said some soldiers may decide "they don't want to go to character guidance courses that include what they consider to be religious indoctrination—and they may refuse to attend.

"We hope that the secretary of defense would also issue an order that an individual who objects to the religious aspects of mandatory character guidance courses would be excused from attending."

Only Xerox Tax Protest On Long List

The Marin County Assessment Appeals Board has completed all tax protest hearings for 1968-69 except for 24 protests by Xerox Corp., Asst. Assessor Herschel Johnson reported today.

Xerox filed protests in 24 tax code areas of the county where it has duplicating equipment. The assessor set the total market value of the equipment at $1,506,000, which Xerox contends is too high. No date has been set for the Xerox hearing, pending a review by Assessor Bert W. Broemmel.

Of the 624 tax protests filed, the appeals board heard 231 cases since last September. The board granted 171 reductions totalling $1,417,181 in market value, which comes to about $32,600 in taxes. In three cases, the appeals board raised assessments totalling $19,695 market value, or about $450 in taxes.

Fifty-four of the original protestors withdrew their applications, and 315 were settled by stipulation between the taxpayer and the assessor. Stipulations accounted for a reduction of $3,017,398 in market value, or about $69,630 in taxes.

Tiburon Trails Stand Shunned By Fire Board

The Tiburon Fire Protection District board last night decided to take no official position on the Tiburon trails plan after hearing a plea by Mrs. Leo Bodian for opposition to the plan on grounds it will increase fire hazards.

The board also was told Northwestern Pacific Railroad property behind the fire station has been appraised at $10,500, and agreed to meet with the county counsel to decide whether to proceed with condemnation. The district wants the land for expansion of the station.

The Tiburon Fire Protection District board also:

HOSE — Agreed to buy 600 feet of four-inch hose and four adapters for $1,380 from D. D. Bean and Sons of Jaffrey, N.H.

MEETING — Set a special meeting for 8 p.m. April 16 at Fire Station 1 to complete review of the fire prevention code and to hold a preliminary discussion of the 1969-70 budget.

VOLUNTEERS — Accepted applications of Luigi Baker, Michael Romer and Kenneth Pfrang to join the volunteer firemen association.

Greenbrae Club Elects Officers

The Greenbrae Improvement Club last night re-elected Howard R. Gold of 49 Greenbrae Boardwalk as president of the club. The club also named Ray H. Smith as vice president, Margaret Savage as secretary and Oscar Tyroler as treasurer for the 1969 term.

Elected trustees of the improvement club were Lee Miller, Ann McCorry, James Glynn, Hugh Barclay, Richard L. Clark, D. J. Crews, Gold and Smith.

Miller, recording secretary of the group, reported work on the new Greenbrae boardwalk will begin this Saturday.

Sleepy Hollow Road Policy Panel Formed

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Association board agreed last night to appoint a committee on road policy to provide a position on Ross Valley-Terra Linda access, association president Frank Berto said today.

The association was also presented with the 1968 proposed budget, which is balanced, Berto said. The budget will come up for approval at the association's quarterly meeting Thursday.

17 Food Flights

UMUAHIA, Biafra (AP) — The International Red Cross made a record number of 17 flights into Biafra's Uli airstrip from Cotonou and Santa Isagel Wednesday, bringing in 180 tons of food and medicaments, Red Cross spokesman announced today.

Dolinsek Is New Mayor Of Cotati

The Cotati City Council last night chose Frank P. Dolinsek as mayor for a one-year term beginning April 17.

Dolinsek was appointed nearly two years ago to fill a council vacancy. He replaces Mayor Morris J. Houser who now becomes a councilman.

The Cotati City Council also:

APPOINTED — Named Sonoma State College student Michael Wochichi to a two-year term on the parks and recreation commission.

COMMISSION — Introduced an ordinance that will reduce the membership of the parks and recreation commission from seven to five.

LOT SPLIT — Approved the application of Paul Golis of Cofega Enterprises to split a 1.2-acre lot on Industrial Avenue into two lots.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance rezoning property on East Cotati Avenue owned by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. and continued the public hearing. The ordinance would zone the front section of the property as commercial and the rear portion as industrial to permit the railroad to lease the land to an auto wrecking firm.

SIGN — Introduced an ordinance rezoning 8356 Gravenstein Highway from rural residential to commerical to allow the Foster Freeze to erect a commercial sign.

FEES — Approved a resolution setting a $25 fee for all lot split applications.

IMPROVEMENTS — Introduced an ordinacne that would include curbs, gutters and sidewalks in the consideration of architectural design by the planning commission.

San Rafael High Student Wins Speaking Contest

Reagon Wilson Jr., a student at San Rafael High School, last night won the Region 4 student speakers' contest sponsored by Marin County Lions Clubs at the Marin Civic Center.

Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reagon Wilson Sr. of 36 West Crescent Drive, will now compete in an inter-regional contest April 15 at the Flamingo Hotel in Santa Rosa.

Runners up last night were Alice Jacobs of 56 Loring Avenue, Mill Valley, a student at Tamalpais High School, sponsored by the Mill Valley Lions Club, and Catherine Madden, of 1748 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael, a student at Terra Linda High School who was sponsored by the Marin Civic Center Lions.

Bill Proposes Temblor Study

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, says he will propose the creation of a 27-member Bay Area seismic safety commission to prepare comprehensive plans aimed at reducing the effects of earthquake hazards in the Bay Area.

The proposed legislation would require the commission to report to the Legislature within four years on the results of a detailed study of existing seismic hazards, and the effect of such hazards on future decisions on planning and urban development, housing and industrial location, construction design, specifications for dams and reservoirs, fault-zoning and planning, regulation of filled land construction, particularly those susceptible to slides, and the need for removal or modification of parapets.

Alquist daid, "It is vital that communities of the Bay Area know what must be done to protect the lives and property of their citizens. What is needed now is adequate planning for the

Fluoridation Proposal Is Due

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — In what is expected to be a highly controversial move, Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, today announced he plans to introduce legislation which would provide fluoridated water to all Californians.

Vasconcellos says he will offer his bill next week, following the Easter recess, with the proposal to provide the State Department of Public Health to mandate that appropriate levels of fluoridation be contained in all California domestic water service areas.

The bill also would provide for a petition effort by voters of a given water service area to oppose the fluoridation mandate and call for a special election. A negative vote by a majority of the voters would rescind the mandate.

Car Stereo Stolen

Douglas N. Parkhurst of 36 Tiburon Boulevard, Alto, reported to the sheriff's department that someone stole his auto stereo and an umbrella from his car Sunday while it was parked at his apartment building, officers said today.

Hungry I Owner Pays Tax Tab

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Owner Enrico Banducci of the Hungry I today paid $26,000 in back taxes to the Internal Revenue Service, which slapped a padlock on the nightclub last month.

Banducci, accompanied by two attorneys and a bookkeeper, presented the check to IRS officials at the federal building. It covered his employees' withholding taxes for the third quarter of 1968.

He announced earlier the new Hungry I in Ghirardelli Square would reopen in about a month.

To Elect Officers

The Old Tiburon Property Owners Association will meet at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Old St. Hilary's Church to choose new officers and to hear a report on the Tiburon trails program by George Ellman, Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission chairman.

ACLU In Censor Role; Freedom Documents Next?

The army disclosed last week that it has ordered its chaplains to eliminate all reference to God from their moral lectures to soldiers.

This was done, said a Pentagon spokesman, because of a complaint from the American Civil Liberties Union.

THE POWER of the ACLU appears to be indeed formidable. The military establishment has been known to defy Congress, the public, and even the President who is its commander in chief. But a word from the ACLU, and its policy is altered.

Since the ACLU by this accomplishment has validated its contention that reference to a Supreme Being somehow infringes on somebody's civil liberties, we suppose it will turn next to expunging such references from various documents that have their places in our history and our statute books.

FIRST, IT MIGHT give its attention to "sanitizing" the Declaration of Independence. Wherever it is read in public, that statement on which our republic was erected would, of course, have to be censored of passages such as these:

"When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them . . ."

And: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights . . ."

And: "We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in general congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions . . ."

And finally: "And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

With such odious passages eliminated, the Declaration will be reduced to a recital of the wrongs of King George III. Since these might somehow impinge on the civil liberties of some thin-skinned Anglophile, perhaps it would be best to eliminate them also.

HAVING THUS DISPOSED of the Declaration, the ACLU might turn its attention to the Pledge of Allegiance.

In 1954, the United States Congress added the words "under God" to the pledge, making it read "one nation, under God, free and indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

We never cared much for the addition, because it breaks the rhythm of the beautiful pledge. But for quite different reason, the ACLU ought to get those words out of there. They must be terribly offensive to some atheists, damaging their civil liberties no end. Perhaps a quiet word to Congress, like that to the Pentagon?

WITH THINGS well taken care of at the federal level, the ACLU then could censor the Constitution of the State of California. It is a most obnoxious offender. It opens with the words (please don't read this if your civil liberties might be infringed):

"We, the people of the State of California, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, in order to secure and perpetuate its blessings, do establish this Constitution."

The Unhappy Account Book

April is the month of reckoning for many Marinites. The income tax brings troubles to the account books of those who are already tightly in the squeeze of creditors and credit payments.

Those of us who manage to avoid the latter have a natural resentment that the government doesn't do likewise. Instead, we are all forced to chip in to pay the tremendous interest for debts which many of us did not wish to incur in the first place.

For almost everyone, April is the month of the unhappy account book.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

One Legislator Looks At Taxes And 'Tells It Like It Is'

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — As interest continues throughout the state in "tax reform," at least one state senator has some harsh words on the subject.

He is Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, who has long been a consistent critic of government financing, and now is attempting through a measure before the legislature to keep the public at least partially in control of school financing through retention of the right to vote on school tax increases.

IN COMMENTING on his measure, and the growing controversy over continuation beyond 1971 of the right of the people to so vote instead of giving educationists an unlimited authority ot increase school taxes as much as they choose, Schmitz says the arguments against his bill "are met with soothing assurance of tax reform in 1971 or sooner to ease the blow."

"In five years in Sacramento," he sayd, "I have yet to see a tax reform that actually reduced the over-all burden on any major group of taxpayers. Tax reform in practice has proved to be no more than a pleasant-sounding and deceitful way of saying 'higher taxes.' "

THIS FACT is apparent as far as the tax reform program of 1968 is concerned. Homeowners were supposed to get a $70 rebate, and probably will get it, maybe before the end of the current fiscal year.

But the rebate will do them little good, for the tax increases levied by cities and counties are expected to eat up the $70 next year.

Thus, little will have been accomplished except for the additional salaries the state and the counties will have to pay for bureaucratic employees to figure out the rebates and the additional printing and postage for the costs of carrying the message to the people.

THE OUTLOOK for the future is not much better, for the proposals being considered for the legislature contain no provisions for limiting the taxes which can be assessed by local government.

Only one plan has any such limit. It is the package submitted by Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, which would substitute a gross margins tax for most of the property tax, and make numerous other changes which require approval by the people through a constitutional amendment. Coombs would fix the local taxes on property at two per cent of market value.

"Tax reform" so far has been all talk and no action, at least, as far as the taxpayers' pocketbooks are concerned.

With the schools carrying the greatest demand for more public money every year, naturally the greatest controversy ranges over the powers of school districts to impose heavier taxes. Passage of the Schmitz measure, SB 35, at least would give some measure of assistance.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Sanitary District's Planning Questioned

Not many people know about the pollution that is taking place every day in the North Bay and in the Novato Creek. Since it was formed, the Novato Sanitary District has built sewage treatment plants, and now operates two plants discharging into the Novato Creek.

If you take a hike along the creek banks in the summer, you will see large ponds of algae floating in the tidal areas of Novato Creek, and the State Health Department has said that the concentration of sewage waste, no matter how well treated, in the Creek causes a public health danger . . .

Novato Sanitary District's own master plan prepared in 1965 calls for constructions at Black Point and new outfall sewers. These facilities have not even reached the detailed planning stage nor has land been acquired for them. In fact, the sanitary district doesn't even have plans for a long-term bond financing program. It has rested its present financing program on connection charges and because of slow growth in recent years, these have not produced any substantial revenue.

In effect, taxpayers today are paying on a pay-as-you-go basis for the new $300,000 pumping station at the Novato plant, which exceeded estimates by 100 per cent . . .

It is obvious the sanitary district needs some long-range guidance and planning. It can get these through merger with the water district, which has shown that it can plan and execute long-range financing programs on time and within budgets.

Interest Conflict Should Be Stopped

The I-J issue of March 25 has a well written editorial entitled "Ticklish Interest Conflict For Teacher-Trustees," which brought into the open the conflict of interest trend which is now growing in the Marin County school system.

. . . This could be a case of "you scratch my back and I will scratch yours."

This practice should be stopped now before it gets out of hand and becomes another system of gouging the taxpayer.

Also this constant demand by the teachers for salary increases should be called to a halt. As of now, they receive a $300 salary increase each year, but on top of this they still demand more of our tax money.

In closing I wish to state that according to the Ralph M. Brown Act, all these salary discussions should be held in open meeting so that the poor taxpayer can see just who puts on the pressure and which trustees hold the line. This is not being done in most cases.

Report On 'No' Votes Distressing

The lead article of the March 20 I-J about the San Rafael school bond's failure distressed us greatly.

Your editorial of Feb. 14 urged a large yes vote on the school bonds. Actually there were 724 more yes's and 179 ness no's than the October 1967 elementary elections. Does seven "no" replies constitute adequate coverage of why the bond issue failed as you state in the March 20 article? Is this responsible journalism?

Some of these well meaning people see the problem as the system's inability to explain the need for a bond issue. Possibly those that were interviewed would be willing to work on the June bond issue to get it better understood or to raise in public the legitimate questions being asked. The reaction of the board to the bond issue failure appears to be a rather human one. They must have felt that their open sessions at the board meetings had answered the need for those willing to spend an evening with them. Did the people who didn't understand the issues attend many meetings where it was discussed? Have they been to the board meetings to ask questions? Or is this the proverbial griping?

There are several specific projects seeking funding we'd like to comment on. One is the condition of fields. Who can be proud of a public facility like Davidson that has a dirty, mosquito infested moat around it part of the year, and occasionally a raging water runoff. Can the taxpayer afford the $5 tax per $20,000 home per year vs. the horrible possibility of harm or worse someday because of this open sore?

Another comment. Portable rooms made necessary by continual "no's" on bonds diminish money for curriculum. This is the worst kind of economy for which aur children must pay . . .

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

April 4, 1959

Gov. Edmund G. Brown signed legislation raising the monthly pay for Marin County supervisors from $400 to $500.

20 YEARS AGO

April 4, 1949

San Francisco residents scheduled an "Angel Island Day" with a water pageant including more than 600 yachts and motor boats in their drive to have to San Francisco acquire the island for recreation.

Brent's of San Rafael advertised men's suits at $39.75, wool sweaters at $3.95 and handkerchiefs for 10 cents.

High Standards Aid Local Control

Wherever regional government is being considered, we are likely to hear the chorus: Local Control — a sacrosanct phrase.

Yet if our local standards and controls are as high or higher (as they should be) than those set regionally, what have we to fear?

Let us be sure we are not simply hiding behind the "local control" shibboleth through fear that we might have to spend money to meet regionally acceptable standards, or worse, that we may be profiting through lower standards at the expense of the region.

Finally, let us not be provincial, vain big frogs in our little puddle, but rather show a generous and cooperative concern toward the problems facing our entire Bay Area.

THE DRUMMONDS

The Case For ABM System: 'Limited' Deployment Or None?

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Don't let anyone tell you that the antiballistic missile issue is too complex to grasp.

It isn't and before long that will be evident. The reason is that the ABM foes in Congress will run out of rhetorical arguments and technicalities and then the heart of the matter will be exposed where your opinion and ours will be just as valid as anyone else's.

Then the core of the question will be exactly this:

Whether to resolve honest doubts about how best to keep the United States safe from nuclear attack on the side of prudence.

Or whether to take unnecessary chances with the nation's security and hold up even limited missile defense until we can see how much greater the Soviet and Chinese nuclear strength will be.

LET'S BE CANDID and clear-headed with oursleves. This ABM deployment issue can't be settled as though it were a matter of geometry. There are too many unknowns in the equation. No one can know for sure how far the Soviets are going with their own ABM deployment or how rapidly they may be eroding our own deterrent by installing their new and vastly more destructive SS-9 ICBMs. No one can known for sure exactly how well our own ABMs will work. There are honest differences of opinion. But after the experts have testified and the witnesses have argued pro and con, there is a single, simple question which must be answered and which every American, expert or not, can answer with his own judgment:

Is it wise to resolve doubts on U. S. security on the side of no missile defense or beginning some missile defense?

That's the key question and it is on this question that the American people can and will render a decision in the next few weeks.

OUR OWN conviction is that the case the ABM opponents are making becomes weaker the more it comes into the open.

Here's an example: Sen. J. William Fulbright uses epithets instead of facts in trying to counter Defense Sec. Melvin Laird. Laird cites the rapid Soviet deployment of new offensive nuclear weapons. Fulbright doesn't deal with the facts but accuses Laird of using "the technique of fear." Laird isn't fearful and he isn't asking anybody to act on fear; he simply wants to do something about the facts and to act on reality, not ignore it.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, another opponent, argues that it is the United States which is taking "the first step in the deployment of a new system of nuclear weapons for both area and missile site defense" and he suggests this will escalate the arms race.

The fact is that the Russians are already deploying ABMs and that the United States would be matching limited Soviet deployment with limited American deployment.

The critics of U. S. missile defense argue that limited U. S. deployment will destroy the prospects of U. S./Russian arms-control talks.

That's the argument they brought against the Johnson Administration's ABM program, that it would destroy the prospects of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty. But it didn't.

IF YOU WERE President of the United States, negotiating with the Russians, which of these two alternatives do you believe most likely to get results:

1. U. S. ABMs partially deployed as Russian ABMs are partially deployed.

2. The ABM discarded by Congress after approval by the President.

If the opponents of the President's decision are going to reject limited ABM deployment in favor of no deployment, then they ought to be willing to say openly to the American people: "We ask you to take the risks of no deployment."

Conglomerates Stir Fear Of Aftermath Of '20s

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

Hamer H. Budge, the new chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, is concerned about the current uptrend in conglomerate mergers, those transactions that link firms engaged in disparate lines of business. He has reason to be worried.

What alarms Mr. Budge is not the fact that the mixed corporate marriages are producing some huge concentrations of economic power. While that facet of the situation deserves attention, it's largely the business of the Justice Department, which has shown no hesitancy to move in on suspected violations of the antitrust laws.

The new SEC chairman's concern — shared by New York Stock Exchange President Robert Haack — is mainly the manner in which an increasing number of mergers are handled. In some cases, he told a House Commerce subcommittee the other day, the financial arrangements are disturbingly reminiscent of the creation of utility holding companies during the 1920s. . . .

The utility holding firms pyramided companies, in the process contributing heavily to the speculative boom that ended with the crash of 1929. After the crash, many of the holding companies collapsed, with huge losses for private investors.

Like the utility firms, companies assembling conglomerates sometimes take over other firms by issuing not common stock but a variety of complex securities, such as convertible preferred stock, stock warrants and convertible preferred debentures. Mr. Budge is right when he says that many investors simply do not understand what is going on. . . .

It does not serve the public interest for conglomerates to be used as vehicles for financial manipulations, for them to become targets for unknowing speculation. Mr. Budge's concern is therefore not only proper but significant as a warning.

Surely no one is eager to recreate the aftermath of those roaring twenties.

ABM And Military Mind

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The weird world which the military mind inhabits was never better depicted than in an exchange between Senator Stennis and the Defense Department's research director at the ABM hearings recently.

To counter the great weight of scientific opinion that the complex electronic controls of the system would prove ineffective under actual conditions of a nuclear attack, Senator Stennis solemnly asked Dr. John S. Foster to stake his professional reputation on his belief that the system would work. Dr. Foster just as solemnly did so. And neither gentleman saw anything ludicrous in the fact that there is no way Dr. Foster's professional judgment on this matter can be tested except by a nuclear holocaust, in which case his professional reputation would not matter much to him or anybody else.

Though the technical objections to the ABM from highly qualified experts are important, the critical issue is not whether the system would work, a question nobody can answer for sure. Even assuming that Dr. Foster rather than all of the presidential science advisers of the last three administrations turned out to be right, the basic objection would remain — namely, that a fully deployed ABM will represent one more escalation of the nuclear arms race which is bound to provoke responding escalation on the other side. Successive escalations in the past have not increased anybody's national security, and neither would this one.

Black Students At Redwood Claim Progress And Satisfaction

Much of what appeared in this column two weeks ago, quotes by two black students about a black history class at Redwood High School, was not true, according to Mary Ann Compton, president of the Black Student Union at Redwood.

The two students were critical of the class and of the Redwood Third World group in articles which appeared in "Right On," the newsletter of Project Breakthrough.

Miss Compton's primary objection was that the articles, written at the start of the semester in early February, no longer give — if they ever did — an accurate picture of the class or the Third World group (now BSU).

She said one girl, Deborah Perry, is a Tamalpais High School student and wrote her articles after attending only one history class session as a guest.

THE OTHER article, by Frances Tate, said black students weren't allowed to have a Black Students Union. The BSU was formed shortly after the semester started, Miss Compton said, and "there was no opposition" from the school.

The articles, Miss Compton said, seemed to indicate that Redwood is "trying to use the black student . . . and didn't have any interest in the black student."

In fact, she said, "We have more freedom at this school than the white kids — we don't stay in anybody's place."

There was more, but her main point was in that last quote — that the black students of Redwood are neither disorganized nor subservient as the two articles seemed to imply.

Redwood, incidentally, is expanding its black studies next year with addition of a black literature course, possibly with a black teacher, Miss Compton said.

Among BSU activities are fund-raising dances and bake sales to buy more books for black studies.

THE MAD HATTER is alive and well, and spends much of his spare time at a well known Sausalito bar. The young man, with abundant curly hair, can be seen most evening wearing his leather top hat, complete with a price tag in the band reading 10/6. So far no report of white rabbit or dormouse.

Sadder but wiser note: You never know how many muscles you have until you mow a lawn that has grown unchecked all winter. Then boy, do you know!

Mother Claims Police Beat Her Son Twice

A Santa Venetia mother has accused two members of the San Rafael Police Department and two members of the Marin County Sheriff's Department of working over her teen-aged son on March 26.

In a letter dated April 2 to Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, with copies to the Marin County Board of Supervisors and the Independent-Journal, Margaret H. Johnson of 401 Vendola Drive says her son, Stuart, was beaten twice, once during his arrest and again at Marin County Jail.

The youth was arrested 10 days ago booked at the jail on suspicion of malicious mischief and resisting arrest. San Rafael police said Johnson kicked the door of an unmarked police car, scraping the paint, then put up a fight when arrested.

Mrs. Johnson — a teacher in Sonoma on sabbatical leave — wrote that witnesses have told her that her son was "violently knocked to the ground and kicked . . . by (San Rafael) officers (Carl) Selby and (Robert) Wade" in the struggle at Northgate Shopping Center.

She charged that later at the sheriff's headquarters her son was beaten again by two deputies, "one tall sandy-haired man and a short man with dark hair."

The two deputies, she said her son told her, rammed his head into an office cabinet several times before "heaving (him) bodily into a padded cell."

The latter incident, Mrs. Johnson said, was witnessed by a group of people who were not in uniform and unknown to her son. "(They) stood by, watching without a word," her letter states.

After being released from jail, the youth was taken into a room by "an officer named Texeira (who) threatened he would have my son back inside the jail within a week," Mrs. Johnson said.

Her son's draft card was missing from his wallet when he got it back at the jail, she said. The sheriff's department told her that they didn't have the card, she said.

The day after Stuart left jail, Mrs. Johnson said she took him to Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital. X-rays showed no broken bones, she said, but he was given medication to relieve his pain.

Mrs. Johnson's letter closes:

"As an elementary school teacher for 13 years I have always tried to give my pupils the impression that the police are our friends, that we should trust implicity these kind, patient and wise men who are there to help, not frighten us. But it seems Selby, Wade, Texeira and company are out to kill that confidence."

Campus Unrest Warning Issued

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California has warned students again it won't tolerate "the use or threatened use of force" on campus.

The warning from Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Johnson came as students prepared to return to classes today in the opening of spring semester.

Johnson said the school would respond to force with dismissal and noted that university president Charles J. Hitch has ruled that property damage must be paid for by the offenders.

He also said that a student-faculty committee is working on new guidelines for peaceful picketing. The Third World Liberation Front strike is still on, according to its leaders, although there has been no talk of resuming picketing.

Three persons out of 10 have no teeth at age 35, says the U.S. Public Health Service.

Cyclamates Face New Label Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has proposed new rules for labeling foods and drinks containing cyclamates, the most widely used type of sugar substitute.

The Food and Drug Administration estimated yesterday that the regulations would be made effective in an official order within two months. Manufacturers will have 30 days before then to file comments and objections.

FDA Commissioner Herbert L. Ley Jr. said the labeling changes would require listing the cyclamate content and a statement that adults should not consume more than 3,500 milligrams a day or children more than 1,200 milligrams.

Dairy Princess Committee Is Announced

A committee of 12 Petalumans has been formed to plan the May 10 district Dairy Princess ball at Petaluma Veterans Memorial Building; according to Ned Davis, manager of the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce.

Heading the group as general chairman is Henry Tomasini. Assisting him will be James Ordway.

Dairy officials report that last year more than 1,100 persons attended the local contest, making it the largest in the state. The local dairy princess selected at the ball will compete in June for the state title. The dairy district includes Marin, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Napa and Solano counties.

Board Concerned Over Election

The Marin County Board of Education will consider adoption of a resolution Monday urging the Marin County Committee on School District organization to stipulate that any unified election proposal be voted upon from the total district and not a portion of the district.

If this is not done, said Robert E. Spain, director of administrative services, it would be possible for one portion of the district within the unification proposal to vote "yes" and thus become unified while other portions would remain nonunified.

The board will meet in closed session with Spain as negotiator to discuss guidelines for negotiating teachers salaries for 1969-70.

The meeting is at 8 p.m. in the County Schools Office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Misplaces Watches

Dr. Thomas Hart, who reported that someone had taken two watches, valued at a total of $50, from the glove compartment of his car while parked at the United Market, San Anselmo, last Saturday, told police yesterday that he found the watches in his house on Upper Road West, Ross. Hart told officers he evidently had misplaced them.

Far-Ranging Summer Class Program For Sonoma State

Summer session classes at Sonoma State College ranging from anthropology to travel study tours of Europe and Mexico have been planned by Dr. Carroll V. Mjelde, dean of summer sessions and educational services.

Most of the courses are scheduled during a one-week intersession, June 16-20; a six-week session, June 23 through Aug. 1; and a three-week session, Aug. 4-22.

The courses are open to all high school graduates without the filing of official transcripts and other records, providing they meet the prerequisites of the course. Regular college credit will be offered in the courses and all classes, except the tours, will be held on campus.

Registration will take place at the first class meeting, but intent-to-register forms should be filed with the college as soon as possible. Catalogues and registration forms may be received from the summer session office at the college, 1801 East Cotati Avenue, Rohnert Park.

Judge Refuses To Review Case Of Dick Gregory

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dick Gregory today remains in the Cook County Jail after a federal court judge refused to review a state court conviction of the Negro entertainer and civil rights leader.

Gregory began serving a five-month sentence for battery and resisting arrest on Tuesday.

U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman refused yesterday to review Gregory's state court conviction in dismissing a petition for a writ of haebeas corpus.

In dismissing the petition, Hoffman said the Illinois Appeallant Court had already decided that Gregory had had a fair trial, and the U.S. Supreme Court had refused to review the case.

Eulogy For Beloved American; Question On Bus System Study

Fusselman

From the fields where the corn grew higher and higher came the man we all loved and admired so much — the man with the earnest, sombre face, which could burst into such warmth of understanding — the man destined to reach the world's highest levels of authority without losing the human touch.

Now, he whom we have been praying for during these past many years of illness has finished the long journey home to lie peacefully in the Chapel of Meditation, built in the midst of the fields he used to tend as a boy.

He must have been the most loved man in the world.

IT HAS BEEN possible for me to watch all that took place during the three days of the army's impeccable handling of the farewell. Those of you who were likewise privileged to watch must have been impressed, as was I, with the gentleness — the tenderness, if you will — of every step of the proceedings. They really cared, each and every one of them.

These thoughts crossed my mind as I watched. You see, I was born in Kansas two years before he was born in Texas, so know of the things he witnessed during his remarkable life.

He saw the development of the automobile from the very beginning, the airplane and the submarine, electricity from the first steam-powered generators to the mammoth hydro-electric and now the atomic power plants, the emerging of communication from out of the dot and dash era to wireless dot and dash, then to radio-voice and television.

He witnessed all the scientific advances in medicine and surgery, which gave him 14 more happy years with his beloved Mamie and his family, especially with David, his only grandson.

Even though he wasn't able to be present, he could delight in the marriage of David and Julie and could watch by television the inauguration of her dad as president.

Of the many things in which he had participated, that have been mentioned since last Friday, one was hardly mentioned in passing — his eulogy of and farewell to his old comrade and friend, Winston Churchill, which was so genuine and earnest and revealing of himself, the man we affectionately called Ike. Our love goes out to the gentle Mamie, too, who at St. Louis came out on the train platform, with David, to say, "Thank you for coming down to express your deep affection for him. We are very proud." Said her 15-year-old granddaughter, "She is a strong lady." We think so too.

NOW ON the local scene: In the I-J issue of March 18 was a story that was kind of hard to figure out. The heading was, "Bus System Accounting Backed." Then that the transit district directors voted 5 to 2 to hire a financial consultant to work out accounting methods for a Marin-San Francisco bus system at a cost of $14,000 (this figure to be trimmed down.)

Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley made the motion, Michael Wornum seconded it. They were joined by John F. McInnis, Peter Arrigoni and Louis H. Baar. Edward W. Colthurst and Bill Gnoss voted no. Gnoss said the county transit district staff should be able to work with the Golden Gate Bridge staff to do this. Colthurst said the physical layout of a bus system should be planned before the financial study.

McInnis suggested some curtailment of the study to bring the cost down. One of the items he suggested tossing out was a study of what it would cost the Marin Transit District to operate a bus system of its own, as such would be useless as the district lacks funds to operate such a system on its own.

Question: Why spend the $14,000 or any part of it for any study at all at this time?

Jail Sentence On Gun Charge

Harold Dean Arrasmith, 32, of San Rafael, yesterday was given a suspended sentence for possessing a concealable weapon and placed on two years' probation with a condition that he serve 90 days in the County Jail.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court sentenced Arrasmith, who had pleaded guilty to having a revolver in his apartment building in San Rafael in February 1968.

Superstitions Surround Good Friday

By GRACE HENDERSON

Whether the day is called Karfreitag, Long Friday, Holy or Great Friday or Good Friday, many myths and superstitions surround the Friday before Easter, the anniversary of Christ's crucifixion.

The Anglo-Saxons used to call it Long Friday, because of the length of their services that day. In Greek churches it is known as the Holy or Great Friday and Germans refer to the sorrowful connotation of the Crucifixion by naming it Karfreitag.

In England, some years ago, blacksmiths refused to shoe a horse on Good Friday, as hammer and nails were associated with the Crucifixion. In Yorkshire, people wore no shoes to church because the nails would leave marks in the ground. And nails had been used on the Cross.

Why the term Good Friday was developed is a mystery. Some feel it is a corruption of the term God's Friday, based on the recent farewell "Goodbye" when it replaced the "God be with you." Maybe it was begun to stress the good that came from evil, no one seems to know.

Pagan influence is strong in Lenten traditions. Items such as Pennsylvania Dutch farmers not selling eggs laid on Good Friday are almost unbelievable in the 20th century but at one time such myths were considered "gospel." That these eggs could cure ailments is now considered fantastic and being handy in extinguishing fires seems farfetched but practical, maybe. We do know that eggs laid on Good Friday will not keep fresh indefinitely as the superstitious believed. We can agree however, that eggs laid that day are a good omen if eaten the same day (doesn't everyone prefer fresh-laid eggs?)

How many mothers would wean their baby on Good Friday because it is the best day of the year for weaning babies? In the past the practice was traditional.

Some people say it is unlucky to plant garden seeds and potatoes on Good Friday while others maintain potatoes planted that day will bring a good crop. The latter myth holds true today in the western United States, with widespread usage.

"The sun never shines on Good Friday" is another belief by some. Others break pottery in their homes in the belief their house will be spared of any damage the coming year. Somehow the breaking of dishes was related to bruising Judas, thus atoning for at east a portion of Christ's suffering on the Cross.

A quaint ceremony is conducted at St. Bartholomew's Church in Smithfield, England each year on Good Friday. It is held on a flat tombstone in a church graveyard. A warden of the church places 21 new six-pences on the surface and 21 widows come, one by one, to kneel and pick up a coin.

The origin of this ceremony is unknown and it seems surprising that a tradition involving coin would continue without more knowledge. One theory has it that the person buried beneath the stone left money to be distributed in this manner. But, again, nobody knows.

Agriculture has always been involved where there are supersititions and myths. Some, however unlikely, do seem to hold true while others are purely speculative.

In the Old World it was considered fortunate to plant parsley and good also for beans and peas. It was also a very good day to graft fruit trees. In Spain melons and marrows (beans) are set and country tradition says that seeds put into the earth on Good Friday will always survive. The reasoning is that on that one day of the year the soil is redeemed from the powers of Satan.

Fishermen considered it unlucky to go fishing but beekeepers could, with good omens, move bees that day.

If it rained, one should catch the rain in a bottle because this would cure eye troubles. Gypsies would not use water on Good Friday because of Pilate's washing his hands that day and they wanted no part of Pontius Pilate.

The Irish went all out in observing Good Friday by calling it "Black Fast" and eating nothing, only drinking a little water or tea. In Central Europe vegetable soup and bread were served at noon, and only cheese and bread at night. Both these meals were eaten standing, and in silence. The entire day was somber, the children being forbidden to play games, laugh, joke or even do noisy work.

In some parts of Europe it was considered fortunate to die on Good Friday, thus assuring a speedy entry to Heaven as shared with the "Good Thief."

Today, all over the world Good Friday has come to have a different influence on people and is declared an official holiday in numerous countries, including Great Britian and some parts of the United States. For some it has come to mean chiefly an escape from shops and factories but for most there is a deep-rooted feeling that this is a day apart from all others.

Many churches in America and abroad conduct Good Friday services, lasting from noon until 3 p.m. in remembrance of the time spent on the Cross by Jesus. This is the "Service of Three Hours" or "The Seven Last Words."

The service was first held in Lima, Peru in 1732 but spread through Latin countries, thence to England from Italy and from there to the United States. The service is conducted in Protestant and Catholic churches, with united or ecumenical services becoming more frequent as churches bind themselves in brotherhood.

But as Good Friday is considered a day of deep mourning or sorrow for believers throughout the world, then so is Easter Sunday the climax of Holy Week, bringing joy and celebration. And with Easter comes more pagan customs and many beautiful traditions celebrating the Resurrection of Christ.

MRS. WILLIAM G. SCHENDEL hopes to spare her house of any damage the coming year by breaking pottery on Good Friday. The old belief originated with the idea that in some way breaking dishes would bruise Judas and atone for Christ's suffering on the Cross. Her eyes closed against flying crockery, the Novato housewife dreams of the good that could come from the mess. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

"THE SUN NEVER SHINES on Good Friday" is one of many supersitions connected with Good Friday. The rain water Mrs. William Schendel is catching is good for washing hair and will also cure eye troubles, some people believe. Other myths are associated with water and Good Friday (see story). Today, Marin residents are observing the day by attending church services in preparation for Easter Sunday. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Soft Voice Relieves Crisis

By GARY CLAXTON

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — "I have plenty of time," the soft female voice said to the man on the other end of the telephone line. "Go ahead and cry."

The man broke into heavy sobs.

"I have, lady, believe me," the hoarse voice said. "I have, but now I'm going to be fine."

A central switchboard had directed the nighttime caller to the woman's home, one of hundreds of calls handled during the past year by Omaha's two telephone counseling services.

"This is humanity at work in the gut position of really loving our brother," the housewife said. "Is there anything more important than helping where there is no help?"

The Lutheran Medical Center supports Guideline which is staffed by 10 persons with degrees or several years of experience in sociology, psychology, psychiatry and social work.

Personal Crisis Service, staffed by 54 trained volunteers from physicians to housewives, depends on private donations.

The services attempt to remain nonsectarian in response.

"I've never had a problem theologically," one counsellor said. "The people who are desperate enough to call us want to hear about the God who loves us. It would be an insult to the problem to say, 'Do you want the Catholic or the Protestant version,'" she said.

The services aim to let the troubled know that help can be found.

Much of the counseling involves directing individuals to one or more of the 206 public agencies offering the Omaha area medical, legal and social aid.

"Most callers say they don't want anybody to come to help," she said. "But they really do. That's why they're calling. We tell them who can help. And if they're sincere, they'll call."

Here are some of the people, with names changed, who have turned to the telephone for help.

Mary was afraid to be alone. She had weathered her divorce. But staying alone, with her three children, was getting to be too much.

Her counsellor said. "All she wanted was the assurance that she could make it through one particular night. And I don't think she was so fearful of the night as she was fearful of the future."

The counsellor reviewed the basic actions Mary could take in securing her house for the night, assuring her that other women also face long nights alone. Long-range planning resulted in Mary finding employment.

Lynn faced a different problem.

Her husband had been gone four days on another drinking bout. She was out of money, food, family and friends.

A package of programs involving the whole family resulted in vast improvements in her home life.

Many teen-agers, disturbed about home or social situations, call the service. They feel misunderstood, unloved, pressured or that their lives have no purpose.

Diane, age 14, called after undergoing six weeks of hospitalized psychiatric theraphy. Extremely depressed, she showed no interest in socializing, especially with boys, and couldn't study.

She confessed that her despondency resulted from incest with her father since the age of 11—a truth that psychotherapy had not uncovered.

Employee Establishes Rapport Through 'Silent Communication'

DEAR HELEN:

My boss doesn't act normal. For the three years I've been working here, he has never once said, "Good morning." The most we ever get out of him is a sort of cleared-throat "Er-umph."

He never tells us our duties. He ignores questions. When he's ready to start out on jobs, he puts the material in the truck and jumps in. That's our signal to follow. We don't know what job we'll be on till we get there, and afterwards we follow instructions on the work sheet, or follow his silent lead.

He can talk, but he won't. How do you cope with a guy like that? — STILL WONDERING

DEAR S. W.:

If you have questions, write them out and tape them to the truck's dashboard. Since you've made it three years without communication, I'd say you've established more rapport than you realize. . .at least you can follow your boss' nonverbal lead. Leave him his silences. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I would appreciate your opinion concerning a dispute between my wife and myself. She feels it is perfectly okay to dance with another man cheek-to-cheek if this is the way he dances. I feel that cheek-to-cheek should be reserved for someone special (like me).—R. R. H.

DEAR R:

I feel that if a husband has a reasonable request, his wife should not get cheeky about it — or with other men. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband is a dentist, so I feel qualified to answer "Indignant Mom" who resents not being allowed to watch her child receive dental care.

In this day of pre-medication even a shot doesn't hurt. So why must parents plant the idea in childrens' minds by saying, "Don't worry, honey, it won't hurt." If they'd treat a visit to the dentist as part of the routine of daily life, there would be no strain. And if two-way mirrors were installed in the waiting room, these apprehensive parents would find out that little patients are precious to the dentist. There's no need to worry. — MRS. PEDO

DEAR HELEN:

As a dental assistant I can say children are much better patients when Mom stays in the waiting room. I've seen mothers talk constantly to children and even read them stories while the dentist is trying to do his job. I wonder how "Indignant Mom" would like constant chatter or someone looking over her shoulder while she is doing her housework or other jobs?

So far as a dentist changing his manner when the child is left alone, forget it. He wants the children to feel happy and confident. — ASSISTANT

DEAR HELEN:

It isn't that I distrust the dentist, but if a child wants his mother or father to stay with him for the first visit or two, it should be allowed. Think how alone he must feel in that big chair. — MRS. W. G.

DEAR HELEN:

You drew a parallel with the school (on the dentist business) in implying that a parent would likewise be out of place "to camp at the school to clock the teacher's every move." As a teacher I would like to make clear that parents should not only be free to visit classrooms but should be encouraged to, most particularly when they feel, rightly or wrongly, there may be some divergence between them and the child's teacher. — LEWIS H.

DEAR LEWIS:

But you can't deny, Mr. H., those parents would be highly unpopular with the teacher! — H.

Burnside-Duplisea Rite Set

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Duplisea of Greenbrae have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lynn Carol Duplisea of San Francisco, to Franklin George Burnside of Orinda.

The couple plan a June 14 wedding at Holy Innocents Episcopal Church in Corte Madera.

The sister of Gail Bissattini of San Rafael and the granddaughter of Silvio Boitano of Redwood City, Lynn was graduated from Redwood High School and Grace Ball College in San Francisco. She is employed by Del Monte Corp. in San Francisco.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lavin Burnside of Castro Valley and the brother of Gail Burnside. He is a graduate of Yonkers High School, Yonkers, N. Y., and of California State College at Hayward. He is a graduate student at the University of California in business administration.

Shoulder To Toe Stocking

A variety of stockings that go calf-high, knee-high, thing-high or waist-high have become a familiar part of every woman's accessory wardrobe. Now, the newest addition to the stocking wardrobe extends leg fashion coverage even further—clear to the shoulder.

Belle-Sharmeer knits this new shoulder-high bodice stocking of opaque stretch nylon to cover up what fashion is leaving newly uncovered. In a blushing beige skintone, this seemingly uninhibited cover up is the latest accessory to wear under new see-through fashions.

Tom-Tom For Tots

A 2-pound coffee tin with plastic lid makes a fine tom-tom for small children. After washing in hot soap or detergent suds and drying carefully, wrap the can with colorful self-adhesive plastic. Put on the plastic top and let the youngsters go on a "bongo" spree.

Robert N. Brown Claims Susan Hardy As Bride

The First Unitarian Church in San Francisco was the setting for the Sunday nuptials of Susan Hardy of Larkspur and Robert Noel Brown of Los Gatos.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hardy of Larkspur, Sue chose four attendants, Ann Blakeslee of Hingham, Mass., as maid of honor, and Nancy Casanova of San Jose, Mrs. Douglas Westwater of Los Angeles and Mrs. Andrew Fossgreen of Novato, the bridegroom's sister.

Andrew Fossgreen was best man and ushering were the bride's brother, Jeffrey Charles Hardy of Sacramento, Richard Walker of Santa Clara and Richard Lawhead of San Jose.

A reception was held in the Thomas Starr King room of the church, and an interesting note is the fact that the bride's great-great-grandfather, Israel Whitney Lyon, was superintendent of Dr. Thomas Starr King's Sunday school of the church in the 1850s.

After an Hawaiian wedding trip the pair will live in Los Gatos.

Sue is a graduate of the Katharine Branson School in Ross, and the University of California. She is employed with the First National Bank of San Jose in Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel J. Brown of Saratoga are parents of the bridegroom. He is a Camden High School graduate and attended San Jose State College. Bob is employed with D. W. Dorrance Co. in Campbell. Glenn E. Brown of Los Gatos is his brother and Mrs. Esther Brown and Mrs. Hattie Hartman, both of San Jose, are his grandparents.

To Be Panelists

Two San Domenico School students will be guest panelists on Channel 4 "Youth Inquires" show on Sunday at 4:30 p.m. They are Pamela Williams and Leigh Bellingall. Also on the show will be Mrs. Helene Nemschoff of Kentfield, executive director of the Volunteer Bureau of San Francisco, and Miss Katie Spencer, Red Cross Youth director in Oakland.

Television Rule

To encourage reading and discourage excessive television viewing, make a rule that youngsters have to spend as much time reading as they do watching TV. They'll be more selective about their programs or be very well-read.

Parents Invited To Participate In Child Growth Discussions

Child development and management will be the topic of discussion groups for parents to be sponsored jointly by the Tamalpais Nursery School Corporation, and the Southern Marin Children's Team of the Marin Community Mental Health Center.

There will be two groups meeting in six-week sessions on Thursday and Friday mornings starting April 10 and 11 at 9:15 a.m. at the Mill Valley Methodist Church. To facilitate discussion and participation, each group will be limited to eight mothers. Subsequent sessions will be scheduled if there is sufficient interest.

Polka Dots Parade On Spring Scene

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Spring fashions for the girls spell prints, not fine, refined prints but big splashes of abstracts and florals. And in almost every manufacturer's collections some of the prints are the timehonored polka dots, true circles sometimes big as an all-day lollipop or abstract shapes splashed against white or dark backgrounds.

ADD in big, softly colored plaids and checks and it all shapes up to a many-patterned spring. There are patterns for the day, patterns for late day and evening.

POLKA DOTS show on blouses in suit combos, on huge scarves with otherwise severe little dresses, and in dozens of the at home trouser costumes. Bill Blass, designer at Maurice Rentner, does formal pants, like a jump suit, in huge black and white polka dot combinations.

And bloomers, looking a little like elegant gym suits, are in assorted polka dot shades. Red and navy on white are favorite combinations. Tops are long-waisted, collarless and fitted.

Designer Chester Weinberg does black and white polka dot in chiffon panels that float over the narrow shape of a short black formal. He repeats the theme in floor length formals too.

SOME of the biggest polka dots of all are the abstract shaped ones at Ferdinando Sarmi's—these covering half a bodice or hip, set on white backgrounds in long formals.

To go with the polka dot and floral look for spring are the checks, stripes and plaids; and designers these days don't hesitate to combine a check top with a plaid skirt.

NEWEST are the bonded organdies, reversible, barely see-through, but with enough body to go into dresses without linings or a starched look. Sheer silks, synthetics, cottons and blends all are for both the day and evening scene.

Here by manufacturer are some of the highlights from the collections seen thus far:

Chuck Howard. Giant dots here too, in black and white combinations. The designer makes much use of "Bandura," a pure nylon fabric, uncrushable, and with the feel and look of crinkly silk. He uses it for dresses with ruffles, with shirring, with lampshade skirts and harem-type evening pants.

REMBRANDT. Designer Ole Borden makes much of interchangeable parts for wardrobe "packages" and also much of the jumper look. The latter shows as dress or coat, without superfluous details, only a simple rounded or straight neckline slashed down the front and in the case of the coats, with front pocket flare and a high back vent.

Harvey Berin. Highlights of the collection are the flowing evening chiffons, yards and yards of material in white or palest pastels, jewel-decked tops, cut low and figure revealing.

ORIGINALA. The message from this firm, which used to make coats only, now is pants also for spring. It shows city pants for night, for day, pantsuits with sleeveless coats or jackets, with short sleeve jackets, with regulation jackets. In coats, Originala offers the choice between slim or full. The slim usually are belted, showing in whites and pastels. Cape-like coats mark the full silhouette.

IQ Tests Attacked As Simple-Minded

By RICHARD V. OLIVER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A long term controversy among educators over the worth of IQ testing in the public schools is out in the open in a public dispute between a Harvard psychiatrist and a Berkeley psychologist.

The debate centers on a scholarly report by the psychologist who concluded that intelligence is determined more by a child's heredity than by his environment.

The findings, which have racial overtones, could have a major impact on the future of education, particularly the education of disadvantaged children.

For, as one argument goes, if a child's mental ability is primarily the result of his genes rather than his upbringing, the learning ability of disadvantaged children through Head Start and similar programs may be a waste of time and money.

In fact, this is the point from which the 123-page study begins: "Compensatory education has been tried and it apparenty has failed."

The report uses IQ testing to measure and compare the learning abilities of children.

The findings of the psychologist, Dr. Arthur R. Jensen of the University of California at Berkeley, appear in the current issue of the Harvard Educational Review, which is published by Harvard graduate students.

Until this week, the discussion has been almost entirely limited to education journals and in rumblings to letter-to-the-editor columns.

But the dispute broke out into the public with a searing attack on the Jensen study by a prominent Harvard psychiatrist, Dr. Robert Coles, of the Harvard Health Service at Cambridge, Mass.

Coles, an expert in the field of the education of minority group children, was addressing the National Committee for Support of the Public Schools, which is currently holding its seventh annual conference here.

He told an audience of about 300 educators: "I also work in Boston, which is near Cambridge, and the Harvard Educational Review in 1969—just gave dozens of its pages to one more discussion—about the IQ test, and what it does, and what does it not do, and what does it tell us about genes and environment in 1969."

Coles made the point that intelligence testing, particularly the testing of Negro children, is not relevant to education.

"These young children have never been graded in an IQ as to what they do know—for their wit and guile, cleverness, and resourcefulness, and cynicism, and worldliness and poignancy in their own vibrant language which I have trouble understanding. My children would flunk their IQ test."

Coles continued, saying that people should try to understand one another. Then he asked: "What do we have in place of this?

"We have these things that are punched, we have curves, we have things called IQ, we have multi-phasic this, and something-else that. And people are hired, fired, and tested and evaluated and screened. And children are sent here, there and every other place on the basis of this.

Man Arraigned In Murder Case

AUBURN (AP)—A San Francisco Peninsula resident was arraigned yesterday on charges of murdering his wife and their young son at their summer cabin in the Sierra Nevada foothills.

The bodies were in a shallow grave found March 13 by Placer County sheriff's deputies who used a diagram Nelson drew at Dewitt State Hospital where he had been taken after he was found last December hysterical in the Todd Valley cabin.

Both the mother and her son were last seen alive Oct. 10 by neighbors in San Mateo.

No motive was given for the killings.

Stereo And Tapes Stolen From Auto

A $178 stereo speakers was stolen Wednesday night from the apartment of James E. Kelley at the Bermuda Palms Motel, 737 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael police said yesterday.

The apartment was locked and there were no signs of forcible entry, police reported.

Sanitary Board Denies Claim

The San Rafael Sanitation District board has denied a $25,000 property damage claim submitted by Alfred G. Scottolini of 30 Bret Harte Road, San Rafael, and turned it over to the insurance carrier.

Scottolini claimed January rains in a road cut for a sewer line undermined his property, according to Norris M. Rawles, director of public works. The district contended the road cut had nothing to do with the damage, Rawles said.

The board on Wednesday also authorized inspection of a sewer line installed by Charles E. Paganini off San Pedro Road on Paganini Point because the district may one day want to take it over, Rawles said.

Fine, Probation

George John Nielson Jr., 22, of San Francisco, has been fined $100 and placed on one-year probation by Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court for driving under the influence of alcohol and drugs. He was arrested Jan. 13 on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Western Union Adjusting To The Age Of Computers

By JOANNE GRANT

Western Union, once engaged exclusively in the laborious, handtapped transmission of messages hand delivered on yellow blanks by men on bicycles, is hardly recognizable as the same firm as it approaches its 125th anniversary — May 24.

Today, while many people still have a Western-Union-Morse-keys-yellow-blanks paste-up kind of picture of the firm, it is operating with computers, microwave and leased private wire systems for the bulk of its business.

The old-fashioned telegram is still around — Marinites send and receive an average total of about 11,200 a month, but that kind of telegram accounts for only one in every six messages sent over the Western Union system.

And in Marin, like the rest of the country, hand delivered telegrams are becoming the exception. Here, those that are delivered are carried by a man in a car, according to John J. Mudge, manager of Western Union in Marin (except Tiburon and Belvedere which go through San Francisco).

"We have need for one bicycle messenger," he said, indicating that form of delivery is not yet dead.

In most of the rest of the country, a 75-cent extra charge (paid by the sender) is now being made for telegrams which are delivered, Mudge said. However, the California Public Utilities Commission has not yet approved the charge here, he said.

Neither has the utilities commission acted on a new rate schedule which is now in effect everywhere else, Murch said. The new schedule sets standard rates for telegrams no matter where they are going and some of the rates do not depend on the number of words.

Even without the charge by the utilities commission, telephning or mailing messages (to spots outside city limits) is becoming the rule in Marin, and Mudge predicted the delivery charge would cut into deliveries even more.

The busiest telegram sending times for Marinites are holidays, with Mother's Day topping them all, Mudge said.

The "instant" gift business is also big in Marin, especially on Mother's Day, he reported. However, the gifts are frequently not "instant" because they have to be mailed if they go to persons outside of San Rafael.

Most popular of these gifts are candy and dolls and they are kept on hand at the San Rafael office. "We have a freezer full of candy up there," Mudge said.

One of the biggest sources of revenue in Marin is wiring money, Murch reported. "Business can be slow, but they still wire money."

Most of the Western Union business, however, is conducted over leased private wire systems. The Western Union system, Telex, has 26,000 teleprinters and in January, the firm contracted to buy the Bell System's Teletypewriter Exchange (TWX) service with 40,000 stations.

Several Marin firms use the leased wire system, such as A. G. Schoonmaker Co. of Sausalito; Holiday Magic, the San Rafael cosmetics firm, and McGraw Hill Book Co. of Novato.

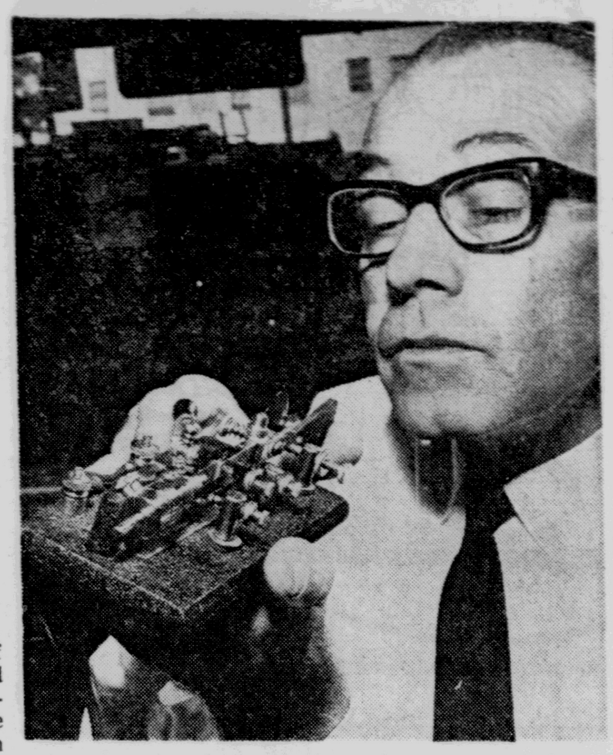
Mudge pointed out the leased wire system is less expensive than telephone because you only pay for the time used.

Western Union is using computers for transmitting messages and some are being installed in San Francisco, Mudge said.

Marin has none yet, but "we could stand a little computerizing around here," he said indicating the 30 to 40-year-old machines in the San Rafael office at 1004 Tamalpais Avenue.

Mudge, who started with Western Union in Lander, Wyo., and still has his Morse key, came to California on a vacation in 1937 and "didn't bother going back."

Mudge said the question most frequently asked of his office is "How long will it take?" The answer varies, he said, explaining if the circuits aren't busy it can be done immediately; if they are, it can take hours as it competes for time with some of the other 60 billion words sent annually on the 125-year-old system.



THE KEY TO IT ALL—John J. Mudge, Western Union manager in Marin, looks over the telegraph key with which he started his career. The key, once the source of all telegrams, has given way to complex electronic relay systems, through the messages themselves, particularly on Mother's Day, remain pretty much the same. McInnis Note On Courthouse Arrived Late

A letter from the chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors inviting discussion of a Courthouse Square land swap, was not put on the agenda for the March 17 San Rafael City Council meeting because it arrived too late, according to the city manager.

The letter by chairman John F. McInnis was dated March 6. But it was not received at city hall until March 12, declared City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, who returned to work today after a week's vacation.

SWAP PROPOSAL

The letter invited city-county discussion of a swap of city corporation yard property on Francisco Boulevard for the Courthouse Square. It was not brought up at the city council meeting, at which the council by 4-1 vote agreed to sell 3.25 acres of the corporation yard for $425,000, with $72,446 down and the rest on time payments.

Andersen said the agenda for the meeting had already been prepared when McInnis' land swap letter, along with two other letters from the board of supervisors — also dated March 6 — arrived on March 12.

COPY INSTRUCTIONS

He said he instructed his secretary to make copies for the agenda packets of all city council members, and assumes this was done. Three of the councilmen, Fred E. Jensen (who voted against the land sale), Harry A. Barbier, and Fred C. Robbins Jr., have said they never saw McInnis' letter.

Asked why he had not called the letter to the council's attention when the purchase offer for the Francisco Boulevard property was being discussed, Andersen said he "forgot about it."

A sales agreement on the corporation yard property disposal, prepared by City Atty. David Menary Jr. at the council's direction, is scheduled to be considered at the council meeting Monday at 8 p.m.

NOVATANS HEAR ISSUES

Sewer District Merger Pros, Cons

By THERON A. NEWELL

The advantages and disadvantages of dissolving the Novato Sanitary District into the North Marin County Water District were argued last night before an audience of 27 persons at the Novato Community House.

The public meeting was sponsored by both the committee for and the committee against the dissolution of the sanitary district, which will come before the voters on April 15.

Arnold E. Heise, chairman of the water district board, and George A. Amaroli, a strong advocate of dissolution, argued for the proposition. Edwin V. Grundstrom, member of the sanitary district board and Novato City Councilman J. Wayne Womack took the opposite stand.

Amaroli claimed a savings of $40,000 per year would result. Grundstrom said that a study made by both districts and the city council showed a savings of $9,000 per year and said it would probably be less than that because the larger district would hire more help according to "Parkinson's Law."

Heise calimed that there would be a savings in labor, because the water district crews were busiest in summer and the sanitary district crews were busiest in the winter and a reduced combined crew would be busy year round.

Grundstrom countered that the sanitary district crews were already busy all year, claiming they did construction and repair in the summer like the water district crews and then had the extra load in the winter.

Amaroli told Grundstrom, an attorney, that he, himself was not a lawyer so he would not advise Grundstrom about legal matters but that he was a cost accountant and knew that dissolution of the sanitary district would result in a saving in labor cost. (Grundstorm has been on the sanitary district board for eight years.)

Grundstrom answered that the history of mergers in North Marin did not bear this out. He pointed out to the unification of the two school districts which did not result in the loss of any supervisory personnel.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors made an error when it changed the originally proposed boundaries of the City of Novato on its incorporation said Womack. These were to have been the same as those of the sanitary district, a lack of contiguity which now stands in the way of permitting the city to take over the district.

"This error has bost thousands of dollars because it made it more difficult for Novato to operate as a city," Womack said. (He was referring to the loss of revenue which the city would have derived had it had the sewer department in the city government and the easier annexations to the city which would have resulted in more tax revenue.)

Operation of the sanitary district, if dissolved would be done as an assessment district within the water district, Heise said.

Dissolution opponent Grundstorm said that according to the sanitary district's attorney, James. T. Morton, this would freeze that territory and prevent further annexation to this assessment district. He claimed that new areas hooking onto existing sewers would get a "free ride" because they would not be required to pay their share of the original cost of the system.

Amaroli said he had legal opinion to the contrary, but did not name his source.

The problem that the Novato Sanitary District could not handle the areawide sewage was raised by Amaroli. He referred to the county's Brown and Caldwell report which has recommended a county-wide sewage system, or creation of several regional systems within the county.

Womack said that the supervisors had that report for 18 months and had not yet adopted it, but they immediately jumped on the chance to force this election on the sanitary district. He described the dissolution of the sanitary distriict as a "shotgun wedding."

"I agree that water and air pollution are big problems, they are area problems. I do not think that the North Marin County Water District is big enough to handle the sewer problems any more than the sanitary district," Womack said.

Womack said he believed that the dissolution of the sanitary district into the water district should be defeated so that when the sanitary district and the city have the required 80 per cent contiguous territory that the voters would be given a choice of merger with either the water district or sanitary district.

In a question period at the close of the discussions, Jerome B. Gilbert, former manager of the water district and now executive office of the State Water Resources Control Board, asked Grundstrom to explain why the sanitary district had not furnished service to Indian Valley, West Novato and the area north of the city.

Grundstrom said that such service was in the district's master plan which was drawn up in 1964, along with a major treatment plant in the Black Point area to dispose of the waste in San Pablo Bay.

"It will take the same financing to do it whether it is done by the sanitary district or the water district," Grundstorm said.

The water district board started the action to dissolve the sanitary district and take over its functions. This was possible because the water district encompasses all of the sanitary district. This was approved by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission and the board of supervisors which set the election date.

The sanitary district board and the Novato City Council have passed resolutions against the dissolution of the district.

Mill Valley Eyes Library Users' Fee

The Mill Valley Library board voted last night to charge nonresident book borrowers a fee if the county refuses to subsidize the library's operation, Librarian Dorothy Thomas reported.

Mrs. Thomas said the board directed her to develop a plan to establish a library borrowers' card system and a nonresident users fee which would be based either on an annual fee or a per-book-borrowed charge.

Trustees said they will adopt the plan at their May 1 meeting and implement it July 1 if the supervisros deny the city's request for $41,000 to supplement the city's library budget.

A survey by the library board in January showed 48 per cent of the library's users were not city residents.

Bannister Stolen

Someone stole a 58-inch wrought iron bannister with a wood cap from the home of Stanley A. Feingold, 412 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, Feingold reported to police at 4:30 p.m. yesterday. Value of the bannister, taken between Saturday and Monday, was placed at $50.

Tri-Partite Board Meeting Postponed

The Tri-Partite Transportation Committee, composed of representatives from Marin, San Francisco, and the Golden Gate Bridge board, will not meet this month, Marin Transit District Mgr. Seymour Kashin announced today.

The next regular meeting of the committee will be May 14 at the Golden Gate Bridge administration building, probably at 2 p.m.

$40,000 Gift Drive Slated By Boys' Club

The Boys' Club of Southern Marin, down to its last $400, will hold a fund drive this month aimed at raising $40,000 to keep the Marin City club house in operation.

The campaign is make or break for the club, president Richard N. Bale of Tiburon said. "It is the first fund-raising project we have undertaken, and we do so only because we want to survive," he said.

The club has applied for membership in the United Bay Area Crusade, but even if accepted will get no crusade funds until 1970.

Meantime, the club needs the $40,000 to stay open for the next year. The fund drive will be in two parts, Bale said — an April 19 "Youth March" by high school students collecting funds in residential areas of Marin, and another drive for donations from Marin business firms.

Preliminary arrangements for the student march are being made at Tamalpais, Terra Linda, San Rafael, Sir Francis Drake, Redwood, Marin Catholic and San Domenico high schools. Student volunteers should get in touch with the deans of student activities, Bale said.

All money raised, except for minor printing bills, will go to the club, Bale said, because help is being donated by publicists, professional fundraisers and volunteer businessmen.

The money will maintain the club and be used to try to raise membership from 250 to 400, and to expand programs in recreation, photography and arts and crafts.

Mexico Tremors

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Three strong earth tremors were felt in this south Baja California state city this morning causing inhabitants to flee to the streets.

Judge Helps Subdue Prisoner In Court

A Marin judge jumped down from his bench yesterday to join deputies, attorneys and other courthouse bystanders in wrestling to the floor and handcuffing a husky young prisoner who was determined to get to his estranged wife.

The wild fracas in Municipal Court ended with 39-year-old Judge Hadden W. Roth, clad in his black robes, and five or six other men finally subduing Fraiser Frank Sweet, 26, of San Rafael, who eventually was handcuffed and leg-chained.

Earlier, Judge Roth had arraigned Sweet on charges of battery against his wife, Glenna, destroying another person's property and resisting arrest in Novato Wednesday night.

The young wife told the judge that she thought her husband was "sick" and that she did not intend to drop the charges. Judge Roth then refused to release Sweet on his own recognizance because he said he felt Sweet would not stay away from his wife.

Two deputies led Sweet, who obviously wished to discuss the matter further with the judge and his wife, from the courtroom. A few seconds later with loud banging of doors and shouts, the angered husband attempted to get back into the courtroom.

Bystanders and the judge rushed to help the deputies as the defendant got as far as the center aisle bellowing at his wife, who finally at the shouted advice of Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony fled through a side door.

After the judge and his helpers finally subdued Sweet and he was carried off to jail, the judge brushed off his robes, returned to the bench and ordered Sweet's bail increased from $625 to $2,000.

Six Drunken Drivers Fined

Five persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

All were placed on six months probation by Judge Hadden W. Roth.

Henry Jorday Revels Jr., 20, of Oakland, who was arrested March 22 on Highway 101, was fined $50.

Mervyn Julius Goodman, 66, of San Francisco, who was arrested March 28 on Highway 101, was fined $250.

Robert H. McDonough of 170 Reservoir Road, San Rafael, was fined $250. He was arrested Dec. 31 on Highway 101.

William Hardie Taylor, 46, of 88 Wood Lane, Fairfax, was fined $150. He was arrested Sunday in Fairfax.

Thomas Julius Oliver of 10 Liberty Street, Petaluma, who was arrested Sept. 12 on Highway 101, was fined $100.

Today is Friday, April 4, the 94th day of the year with 271 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Mars. The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1818 Congress ordered the American flag redesigned and the number of stripes reduced from 20 to the original 13.

In 1841 President William Henry Harrison died in the White House one month after being inaugurated. John Tyler became the first vice-president elevated to the Presidency.

In 1917 the Senate approved a resolution of war against Germany.

In 1968 Martin Luther King, Jr. was assassinated in Memphis, Tenn. James Earl Ray pleaded guily and was convicted of the murder 11 months later and was given a 99-year prison sentence.

DEPLORABLE PLAY

West led the five of spades to East's king, and East returned the nine of spades. South put up the queen, and West hastened to win the trick with the ace. About this deplorable play all I can say is that I would expect better of my tropical fish, Herkimer, who is only a few weeks old.

West's hand was worthless after the second trick since he could never get back to cash his spades evern if he led a third spade to set up his long suit. South eventually lost a diamond in addition to the first two spades, but he was happy to win the rest of the tricks, scoring the game, the rubber and an overtrick.

SHOULD SEE PLAY

It's easy for us to see the correct play since we are looking at all four hands, but West should have seen it also. At the second trick West should duck. That is, he plays low instead of taking the ace.

West knows that East has returned his top spade. If East's top spade is the nine, South must hold both the queen and jack and is therefore sure to win a spade trick sooner or later. West should let South win his spade trick sooner.

MUST TRY FINESSE

If West refuses the second spade trick, South must try the diamond finesse. East takes the king of diamonds and returns his other spade. Now West takes the ace of spades and defeats the contract with two good spades.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 2 no-trump promising 13 to 15 points in high cards, with strength in each of the unbid suits.

You have the required strength and distribution, but your diamonds are a bit weak. In spite of this, you are so close to the required diamond strength that you can afford to use 2 no-trump as a description of your hand.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Inflammation Of Temporal Artery Can Cause Great Pain

A most unusual form of inflammation involves the arteries leading to the head and brain. A 75-year-old woman, admitted to an eastern clinic, had sharp pains in her head for three weeks.

VAN DELLEN

The distress was most severe over both temples, and spread to the back of the head, and to the jaws in front.

ONE WEEK BEFORE entering the clinic, she felt hardened, tender lumps along the course of the temporal arteries on both temples. The elderly woman also thought that her vision had deteriorated during her recent illness. She also experienced some lightheadedness on arising.

On examination, it was found that the temporal arteries were hardened and plugged with a clot. They did not pulsate as do normal arteries in this area. A biopsy was done, and the laboratory report showed that the artery was diffusely inflamed (temporal arteritis).

THIS DISEASE seldom begins before the age of 70, and both sexes are susceptible. The temporal arteries usually are selected, but the inflammation may spread to other branches, including the vessels of the eye.

Now and then the arteries below this point, including those leading to the brain, arms, lungs, and heart, are also involved. The cause in unknown.

A BORING HEADACHE that is usually more severe on one side and at night is the primary symptom. Adjacent areas such as the scalp, face, jaws, and eyes also may be painful. The involved areas are tender to the touch, and within two or three weeks of the onset, the temporal vessels become prominent and tortuous.

Shortly thereafter raised, painful nodules develop. Later pulsations disappear as the vessel wall thickens, and the blood clots. Visual impairment then starts.

MANY VICTIMS also develop fever, generalized aching, and loss of appetitie and weight. In time, the symptoms simmer down and disappear. The corticosteroids such as prednisone are the best remedies because they keep the inflammation from spreading.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

HEADS BARE AT SUBZERO

A reader writes: What is your opinion of the idiotic practice of going bareheaded in subzero weather?

REPLY

Your opinion is obvious! It must be safe, however, because many people do so without ill effects. I prefer a hat because it is warmer and keeps my hair in place. A hatless individual also loses considerable body heat from his bare dome during cold weather.

CAUSE OF SNAPPING JAW

A reader writes: Why do I feel a grating and snapping sensation when I open my mouth wide?

REPLY

When the hinge of the jaw grates on movement, the cause may be arthritis or an improper bite (malocclusion). Consult your physician and dentist for diagnosis and treatment.

CAN HEPATITIS RECUR

I. L. writes: Can a person have hepatitis more than once?

REPLY

One attack of viral hepatitis usually confers lasting immunity. This is not necessarily true of other types of liver infection.

FREEZE THERAPY

C. D. S. writes: Is dry ice ever used as a medical treatment?

REPLY

Yes. Carbon dioxide snow is used to remove birthmarks, seborrheic keratoses, warts, and other skin lesions.

Hunters Backed In Seal Dispute

GENEVA (AP) — A Swiss zoological expert who observed the annual seal hunt in the Gulf of St. Lawrence exonerated the hunters today of charges that the seal pups were skinned alive.

In a report to the Canadian government, Prof. Michael Fischberg of Geneva University said the killing of the seal pups with clubs has "brutual aspects" as does game hunting but that it is "certain they do not suffer."

Fischberg, one of four experts invited by the Canadian government to study the hunt, said he inspected hundreds of carcasses during five days last month on the St. Lawrence ice and found that all had "died instantly." He said immediate death was an aid to the hunters because it was difficult to skin a struggling seal.

Label Can Speed Refund On Taxes

Income tax refunds can be processed quickly and without delay if taxpayers put the preaddressed name label that came on their 1040 tax package on the return they file, Joseph M. Cullen, Internal Revenue Service district director for Northern California, said today.

Taxpayers using the card Form 1040-A should use the preaddressed form mailed them.

Cullen said that use of the name label or preaddressed form will eliminate errors in Social Security numbers that held up refunds last year. Returns filed before April 1 which used the name label can be processed and the refund issued in five to six weeks.

Jet Booms May Rattle Marin

Marin County may expect sonic booms Wednesday night and early Thursday as units of the Western Region of the North American Air Defense Command hold an exercise, according to officials at Hamilton Air Force Base.

This will be a joint exercise in which Strategic Air Command bombers make a simulated attack on the West Coast and will be intercepted by supersonic fighters of the defense command.

The exercise of supersonic flying will not last more than an hour in any area.

In addition to the interceptor aircraft, radar units, Nike bases and long-range radar planes will take part in the exercise.

Same Day Mail Delivery At End

Accelerated Business Collection and Delivery (ABCD), begun in 1962, guaranteed letters posted by 11 a.m. would be delivered by 3 p.m. but postmasters reported a declining interest, and Postmaster General Winton M. Blunt said that to discontinue ABCD would save $1 million a year.

THE CENSOR GAME

Carson Objects To Sex-Violence Link

NEW YORK (UPI)—TV's Johnny Carson, no stranger in the battle to liberalize expression on the tube, thinks the current argument between the government and the networks over "offensive" material on television is a case of "the bland leading the bland."

He also objects strongly to the coupling of "sex and violence" in wrapping up all that's supposedly wrong with today's TV.

Carson spoke on the subject in an interview this week with United Press International. He was just back from vacation, in a relaxed mood but obviously troubled by the brickbats being tossed at TV from Washington.

"ALL SO BLAND"

"They get sex and violence mixed up. It kills me—what do you have on TV that's so sexy? It's all so bland. The violence I do find disturbing—I'm offended when I see shows that depict somebody getting beaten up with a tire iron.

"The trouble is that if you say you're for permissiveness on TV, people think you're for everything. I'm not for anything goes—I've been here for a long time and I know the ground rules. I know you can't do dirty jokes or have naked people on. You've got to have rules, but it's the creative people on TV who have to regulate themselves."

Carson mentioned the recent statement by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., who as chairman of the subcommittee on communications, has called for rigid, centralized self-censorship by the networks, including prescreening of all shows to cut "offensive" material.

"Who's going to censor the censor?" he asked. "Who governs the governing body? What is uncomfortable for Senator Pastore to see may not be for others. My taste is just as impeccable as some senator's. I don't want anybody telling me what I can or cannot watch. I think I should make my own decisions.

SEES DANGER

"There's a definite danger of heavy proscription of TV by the government. It smacks of Big Brother. 'We will protect you, ladies and gentlemen, against something you shouldn't see.'

"When the government starts to say what is bad for you, then it can turn around and say this will be good for you. Instead of 'What can't they see?' it can become 'What shouldn't they see."

"The networks are uptight —I know that's an overworked word, but it's true —they're uptight because somebody's investigating them. They tend to go overboard. Pretty soon we won't be able to say anything.

"They want to cut something to be safe. 'Let's not take a chance on offending somebody; or they'll look at something and say, 'Golly, I don't know.' They've cut things on my show I think it's ridiculous to cut. 'Don't do jokes on divorce or death, don't do this, don't do that —it's not nice.'

"If some people had their way about not offending anybody we'd have 24 hours of Ozzie and Harriet. Sure, I've said things on the show I wish I hadn't said, but I never said anything to hurt anybody.

ASKS LATITUDE

"For example, you can't even say the word 'naked' without offending some people —no kidding. We sometimes get maybe 200 letters complaining about something like that, and the network listens. What about the eight million other viewers who aren't complaining?

"What can't we have a little latitude? All the good TV writers eventually go to the movies or the stage."

Carson admitted, however, that there is "also the danger of comedians taking themselves too seriously."

"Social consciousness does not make a show. Once a humorist or comedian starts using his show as a forum, he's in trouble of losing his audience."

SCREENING OF STAG FILM BRINGS A SLAP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The license of a California television engineer who startled late viewers by screening a stag film has been suspended for six months, according to the Federal Communications Commission.

Robert Allen Veatch of San Bernardino pleaded guilty Dec. 2 before the U.S. District Court for the central district of California of transmitting the film from KPLM-TV in Palm Springs to cable television systems in the Coachella Valley Oct. 27, 1968.

The FCC suspended Veatch's license charging he "willfully by television transmitted a communication consisting of a motion picture film containing obscene and indecent meaning."

GAS CHAMBER DEATH DATES SET FOR PAIR

Two condemned inmates at San Quentin Prison have been scheduled to die in the gas chamber June 4.

They are Earnest J. Aikens Jr., 23, convicted of stabbing two women to death in Ventura County, and Edgar L. Robinson, 29, convicted killer of a Los Angeles policeman.

Courts resumed setting execution dates this winter after the California Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the death penalty, lifting a year's moratorium. However, no one has been put to death because the U. S. Supreme Court is now examining the constitutionality question.

Parolee Denies Burglary Count

David Charles McReynolds, 19, of San Rafael, yesterday pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to burglarizing a San Rafael home Tuesday and attempting to escape from police.

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Judge Hadden W. Roth refused to release the youth on his own recognizance since he is a parolee from the California Youth Authority.

McReynolds was arrested when he was found hiding in a closet at a residence at 5 Coleman Drive.

Easter Egg Hunt Set In Corte Madera Park

The Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce will hold an Easter egg hunt for Larkspur and Corte Madera children 1 through 7 years of age at 11 a.m., tomorrow, in the Corte Madera Town Park, Mrs. Ray Lamerdin, chairman, said today.

Assisting will be scout and campfire groups from both communities and the Sertoma and Lions Clubs of Corte Madera.

Foster Home Parent Makes An Appeal For More To Join Cause

By WAT TAKESHITA

How does it feel to have a 15-year-old foster child suddenly become a member of your family? Is the period of adjustment a trying one?

These questions run through the minds of would-be foster parents and sometimes frighten them away from offering their homes.

Mrs. Gari Hale Ketcham of San Rafael, public relations chairman for the newly organized Marin Foster Parents Association, says apprehension is only natural, but actual experience proves that adjustment is smooth and easy, as was the case in her family.

"It seems frightening at first but you've got to remember that the child is probably as apprehensive about you as you are of him. You'll find the teen-ager no different from any other persons," Mrs. Ketcham said.

Last December, a 15-year-old girl was referred to the Ketcham family in Peacock Gap. At first, it was just a weekend visit, with no commitments.

"She sat there, eyes downcast, and said 'hello'. She was very shy," Mrs. Ketcham said. But both the girl and the Ketchams decided they'd give it a try.

In four months, real friendship and understanding have developed between the girl and the family.

"What every child needs is an opportunity to belong to a family," said Mrs. Ketcham. "This generation gap — it's not so much the kids who won't communicate. It's the parents who cut them off. Just give them the time and opportunity to talk to you, and there is no generation gap.

"The rewards of being a foster parent come from seeing the girl look up and smile where formerly there was fear, hear her talk about going to college and coming up to you to confide problems.

"We have friends who say once their own children are grown, they will get a foster child, but why wait? The time is now. Just call the Department of Public Social Services and put yourself on the foster parents list."

The Ketchams have four children of their own, aged 5 through 9. The youngsters are so fond of their new sister that seating at the dinner table must be rotated to give each youngster a chance to sit next to their big sister.

There are about 150 foster parents in Marin County today, far too few to meet the demands, said Mrs. Ketcham. "Our goal is to get 500 foster parents in the next five years. We have youngsters now at Juvenile Hall who are there because there is no foster home for them. We hope more families will open their homes."

Foster children range from infants to teen-agers. Some are newly-born awaiting adoption. Others are from broken homes or where a parent is incapacitated. Other children are recommended to foster homes by the probation department or the public social services department. Some are wards of Juvenile Court.

Foster parents are allowed $100 to $117 per month for the care of the foster child.

The adjustment of a child with his foster parents is not much of a problem because both the child and the parents are appraised by the social workers beforehand, said Mrs. Ketcham.

Rapid Reading Class Offered By College

The College of Marin will present courses in rapid reading at three locations during the spring quarter, Maximilian Spurlock, the course teacher with the community education office, announced.

A course at Del Mar School in Tiburon will begin Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Room 10. Another course at San Quentin's in-service training office will start Thursday at 4 p.m. At the college, the course will begin Thursday at 7 p.m. in Room 136 of the Fine Arts Building.

Youth Denies Drug Possession

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Judge Hadden W. Roth refused to release the youth on his own recognizance and ordered bail to remain at $1,250. He also declared he thought Borner, who was has complained he needed to go to the hospital, was being adequately cared for by a county doctor in the jail. The doctor was quoted by a probation officer as saying that Borner's symptoms were due to drug withdrawal.

Dictator Role Not Intended, Chairman Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Service Committee says he has "the greatest respect and esteem" for Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., and hasn't given him any stronger keep-quiet instructions than any other subcommittee chairman.

"I certainly don't want to appear to be a dictator or anything like that," the South Carolina Democrat said yesterday when he was asked about reports he told Stratton to quit talking about his subcommittee's investigation of the Army's Sheridan tank.

Stratton said Wednesday Rivers had asked him not to grant any more interviews or issue news releases about the tank, which he blasted as a waste of money. Told of Rivers' comments, Stratton conceded other subcommittee heads had received similar instructions.

TV, Radio Stolen

Cal R. Johnson of 25 Maple Avenue, Kentfield, told sheriff's deputies that when he returned from Mexico Sunday, he discovered that someone had stolen a television set and a radio from his home, officers said yesterday.

Marin 'Cats, Redwood Nines Win

Marin Catholic High School's rousing 12-5 conquest of Harbor High of Santa Cruz and Redwood's consolation victory over St. Elizabeth's of Oakland, both in the Soquel Invitational Tournament in Santa Cruz, were the only bright spots for Marin County Athletic League baseball teams toiling on the tournament trail yesterday.

Novato High, after rolling up nine straight wins, lost its second in a row, bowing to Capuchino, 3-2, in the third-place battle in the Terra Nova Tournament in Pacifica.

TOUGHIES

Terra Linda lost a toughie, bowing in the semifinals of the South San Francisco Tournament, 5-4, in nine innings.

Marin Catholic pounded out 10 hits, including doubles by Rick Thomas and Rick Denning and a triple by Mike Parnow as the Wildcats scored in every inning but the sixth.

Harbor helped the cause by chipping in with seven errors.

The Giants got only three hits against St. Elizabeth's but two of them came in the first inning and resulted in two runs in a 2-1 victory.

FIVE-HITTER

Two errors and two scratch hits gave Capuchino three runs in the sixth inning and that was enough to win over Steve McNally and Novato.

The Hornets, now 9-2, got a solo homer from Dee Federick in the sixth inning and scored again in the seventh on a triple by Steve Majaka and a sacrifice fly by Glenn Holsclaw.

Terra Linda was down 3-0 against Sacred Heart of San Francisco, but got four runs in the third inning on a run-scoring single by Dewey Forry and a three-run homer by Rick Payne.

Sacred Heart tied it in the Seals Trip Kings 4-2 To Even Series

A REAL POWER PLAY—Oakland Seals' Ted Hampton blows over Los Angeles King goalie Jacques Caron enroute to pushing through a goal while teammates Earl Ingerfield (left) and Gerry Ehman watch. Defending for Los Angeles is Dale Rolfe. The Seals won, 4-2. (UPI Telephoto)

Playoffs Move On To L.A.

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — To the Oakland Seals' Gary Jarrett, it "probably was the most important goal I ever scored in my life."

To Red Kelly, coach of the Los Angeles Kings, it was a "giveaway" that took the steam out of his players.

Whatever it was, Jarrett's goal broke a 2-2 tie after 2:44 of the third period last night and carried the Seals to a 4-2 victory before a crowd of 5,232 at the Coliseum Arena.

TIES SERIES

Oakland's dramatic win tied the best-of-seven National Hockey League semifinal playoff match at a game apiece. Los Angeles hosts the next two games, tomorrow and Sunday, with the fifth game scheduled Wednesday in Oakland.

"It was sloppy goaltending," Kelly said of the winning tally. "That's the fourth bad goal we've given up in two nights. It was a giveaway. We have to stop it."

Jarrett, who had been benched recently for lack of checking, took a pass from Mike Laughton and nudged the puck into an open corner of the net, catching goalie Wayne Rutledge out of position.

CLINCHER

The Seals clinched the victory with 13 seconds left when Bob Dillabough outraced Los Angeles defenseman Dale Rolfe and scored into an open net.

After losing Wednesday night's series opener in overtime, Oakland needed the win desperately before moving to Los Angeles. But the Kings were begrudging.

The Seals started well, opening a 1-0 lead after only 1:26 of the first period on a rebound by

Courses Hike Prices On Day Of Mourning

FORE — Monday of this week was declared a Federal holiday as a national day of mourning for Ike.

Thus, a number of golf courses around the Bay Area, San Rafael's Peacock Gap and San Geronimo to name two, were quick to charge holiday greens fees.

A Peacock spokesman, queried by an I-J reporter, refused to discuss the holiday hike, saying the club didn't have to because it is a private club and could charge what it wanted.

A San Geronimo spokesman said, it being considered a "holiday," a number of clubs in the area decided to increase the tariff and added, "It's a practice for us to do what other clubs in the area do."

On the other hand, I guess if you want to play golf on a day of mourning then you deserve to pay a little more. Perhaps the next time it happens the clubs can justify the increase by giving each golfer a black arm band. Free. Or, I would suggest they close for the day.

Kenny Out Of Action

MUSCLE MAN — Kenny Henderson, the San Francisco Giants' promising young outfielder who has suffered a torn hamstring in his right leg, presently is undergoing detailed therapeutic treatment in San Francisco under the guidance of Tiburon's Bert Gustafson, the well-known physiotherapist.

Gustafson said Henderson originally injured the muscle this past winter playing ball in Puerto Rico but it didn't come to light to Giants' officials until he reinjured it running out an infield hit last week in Phoenix.

Gustafson can't pinpoint the length of Henderson's baseball inactivity, explaining, "It's a thing that has to be played by ear. It could be two or three weeks or it could be six or seven. It depends on the patient. But Kenny is young and I think it will work out fine."

'Until It Doesn't Hurt'

Gustafson said Henderson's therapeutic treatment, programmed by Dr. Robert Kerlan of Los Angeles who has had several famous baseball patients, starts with whirlpool and ultrasonic and deep massage "to tolerance, until it doesn't hurt."

Then he said the 22-year-old speedster will embark on a program of light jogging and bicycling without resistance, to be followed by light weight lifting work aimed at the scarred hamstring.

Then, with special taping, Henderson will be sent back onto the field for action, but only time will tell when.

Gustafson, who headquarters at Marines Memorial in S.F., is 56 but looks much younger because he practices what he preaches. You know the type: He runs, swims, hikes, lifts weights, does calisthenics and other ridiculous things. Gosh, he makes me feel like a physical wreck just TALKING to him.

A Simple Explanation

The Giants hired Bert last year to set up a special pre-season muscle-toning program to cut down on the rash of nagging injuries that had been plaguing the athletes.

When asked why baseballers have a Linament League all their own, Gustafson explained quite simply: "Baseball players are more susceptible to injury than, say, football or basketball players, because of the nature of the game. They exert themselves suddenly, then cool off standing on the field or sitting in the dugout."

If you've sat in Candlestick Park on a cold and windy night and watched the athletes suddenly dart for a line drive or strain to beat out a base hit you will know what Bert means.

Robyn Wins Second Place In Her Debut

ALBANY (AP) — Bugler Phil Kamp pealed out A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody as 12 horses paced onto the track yesterday for the third race at Golden Gate Fields.

His efforts were for Robyn Smith, 24, a one-time motion picture starlet who became the first female jockey in Northern California history.

SECOND

Miss Smith, in the irons of Swift Yorky, came in second seven lengths behind Thirteen Tricks in the six furlong race for maidens. Her mount paid $4.80 and $4 while the winner returned $8, $5.40 and $5.20.

Stewards, who must watch her race twice before deciding whether to award her an apprentice's license, said they were pleased with her efforts.

GOOD JOB

"She did very well," said steward Pete Pederson. "She did not appear to get flustered when in between horses and she helped her mount down the stretch."

Miss Smith, who took her mount to the rail under the whip down the stretch, could become this state's first female holder of an apprentice's ticket, which would entitle her to a weight advantage.

Leach Fires 72 In West Golf Tourney

Former Novato High School golf ace Ray Leach fired a 72 yesterday to move into a two-way tie for second place in the race for individual honors in the Far Western Intercollegiate Golf tournament at the Pasatiempo Golf Course in Santa Cruz yesterday.

Leach's two-day total is 147, four strokes off the pace of John Jackson of Arizona State. Leach, and former San Rafael High School star Don Hawken, both play for Brigham Young University.

Hawken, after an opening-day 74, skied to an 82 yesterday and failed to qualify for today's final round.

Arizona State leads the team competition with 597 strokes, 13 ahead of San Diego State at 610. Brigham Young has a 618 total.

Sharon Walsh Loses In Finals

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, after scoring a big upset in the morning, ran into top-seeded Eliza Pander of Palo Alto and lost 6-1, 6-1, in the finals of the Foothills Easter Junior Invitational Tournament for ranked tennis players at Palo Alto yesterday.

Sharon had earlier knocked off Kathy Kraft, of Tulsa, Okla., fifth-ranked nationally in girls 16, 6-2, 6-4.

Indians Sock It To Juan

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Juan Marichal, the National League's winningest pitcher in 1968, was tatooed soundly by the Cleveland Indians yesterday but he isn't that concerned—even if the season opener is just five days away.

The American League Indians rocked Marichal for 14 hits and seven runs in six innings en route to a 12-7 triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

NEEDED WORK

"I had worked only 17 innings this spring before this one and I wasn't too comfortable out there," he said. "But I needed the work and I got it. The Indians saw to that all right."

In addition, it was Marichal's first appearance since he underwent corrective foot surgery March 26.

Manager Clyde King wasn't upset either. "He needed the work," King said. "His control was a little off, a little high, but he was strong. Nobody was concerned."

HIATT HOMERS

Offensively, the Giants' hitting stars were Jack Hiatt, who belted a home run off Luis Tiant, and Bob Etheridge, who got two hits.

Joe Costello, battling for a job in the Giant bullpen, was tagged for five runs—all earned—in a one inning relief appearance.

The Giants take the day off today and travel to New York to play a weekend exhibition series against the Yankees before opening the regular campaign Monday night.

Oaks In Finale Against L.A.

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Western Division champion Oakland Oaks conclude their regular American Basketball Association season tonight against Los Angeles but they won't have much time to rest on their laurels.

The Oaks, who have made one of the most startling reversals in the history of professional sports, need a victory over the Stars to round out their record at 60-18. They finished dead last in 1968 with a 22-56 mark.

All-Out War Against NBA Declared By Dallas Official

DALLAS (AP) — Max Williams, general manager of the Dallas Chaparrals of the American Basketball Association, had this word today for veterans in the National Basketball Association: "If you want a raise, come see me!"

Williams, who said the NBA was signing players while they are still in college, said, "From now on, there are no rules, since the NBA won't play by any rules. We (the ABA) have declared all-out war."

NEW TACTICS

He said that the ABA had left the NBA veterans alone and concentrated on the graduating college crop, but indicated this tactic might have to be "reconsidered."

"The NBA veterans know the situation," Williams said, "Our league has had a number of them contact us. The courts have already shown in the Rick Barry case that a player can either sit a year out or play his option out.

"If a NBA player wants a raise, all he has to do is see us. He'll either get it from his present employer or we'll hire him."

CRAZY

Williams who was an All-Southwest Conference basketball star at Southern Methodist University, said, "I'll tell you this, if the NBA doesn't think we are in business to stay then they are crazy."

Williams said NBA players jumping to the ABA wouldn't lose their pension "because we make the pension retroactive. Cliff Hagan (Dallas player-coach) had 10 years in the NBA pension when he came to us and we just made it retroactive 10 years."

Williams said that Lew Alcindor, who signed with the Milwaukee Bucks of the NBA, was first offered $2.4 million by the ABA before the highly publicized $3.4 million offer.

"I believe he was in a situation where he couldn't sign with us," said Williams. "But I tell you this, we're not dead because Alcindor didn't sign with the ABA.

"It's had very little effect on us. Just tell those NBA players we're open for business if they want a raise."

NHL PLAYOFFS

Rough-Tough Bruins Again Bomb Leafs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

In what must be the understatement of the National Hockey League season, Punch Imlach said last night he was "very disappointed" by the performance of his Toronto Maple Leafs in the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

His Maple Leafs, beaten 10-0 Wednesday night by the Boston Bruins, came right back and lost 7-0 last night. They sounded like football scores.

TO GARDENS

The Bruins, who have been winless in 25 consecutive games in Toronto, now go to Maple Leafs Gardens for the third and fourth games tomorrow and Sunday. In another understatement, Imlach said, "I hope we play better at home."

In the other playoff games, Montreal took a 2-0 lead over New York with a 5-2 victory, St. Louis also took a 2-0 lead over Philadelphia with a 5-0 victory and Oakland evened its series with Los Angeles at 1-1 with a 4-2 victory.

The sites of the other series will also switch—to New York, Philadelphia and Los Angeles—for games three and four tomorrow and Sunday.

SCORERS

Johnny Bucyk scored a pair of goals and Phil Esposito, Ken Hodge, Ron Murphy, Ted Green and John McKenzie picked up one each as Boston routed the Leafs again. Esposito added a pair of assists after six opening game points on four goals and two assists for a two-game total of nine points.

Yvan Cournoyer's power play goal highlighted a three-goal splurge in a nine-minute second period span that carried Montreal past New York. New York led 2-1 at the end of one period but goals by Bobby Rousseau, Cournoyer and Jean Beliveau turned the game around.

21 SAVES

Bill McCreary scored with the game 41 seconds old and that was enough for veteran Jacques Plante as the Blues blanked Philadelphia. Plante had to make only 21 saves to pick up the triumph. A total of 95 minutes in penalties were called in the hard fought game.

Quarter-Final Win

JACK HANLEY

Jack Hiatt An Articulate Cheer Leader For Giants

MEMPHIS — Jack Hiatt is one of the handiest members of the Giants. He plays first base, can catch, play the outfield and is a fine pinch hitter. Furthermore, he is an articulate cheer leader who constantly is extolling the virtues of the Giants.

"We had a tremendous spring in Arizona," said Hiatt, looking back on the 17-5 Cactus League record of the Giants. "And the attitude of the entire club is the way it should be. We felt like we'd win every exhibition game we played and that's the attitude we're taking into the season.

"I don't care what others say about exhibition games. Sure, I know they're intended as get-'em-in-shape contests but there's nothing like winning. There's fun and satisfaction in it. More importantly, it is a good habit to acquire. It establishes a good mental attitude."

HIATT IS such a capable spokesman that the Giants keep him on the payroll the year 'round. Last winter he made scores of speeches throughout northern and central California.

"But you can't talk fans into a ball park," said Hiatt. "I don't think winter speeches sell tickets. I do think they create good will for the entire Giant organization which, naturally, I think is the finest in baseball."

HIATT WASN'T always a Giant. He first was signed by the California Angels in 1961 and rapidly moved through their farm system in three years to Class AAA ball in Hawaii in the Coast League. In 1964 Horace Stoneham was in Hawaii on a brief vacation and, like the inveterate fan he is, the president of the Giants went to the ball game.

Stoneham was tremendoulsly impressed with Hiatt's constant behind-the-plate chatter of encouragement to his pitcher and repeated reminders to the Hawaii infielders to stay alert. But he was more impressed by Hiatt's hitting.

"I HAD ONE of those series where they couldn't get me out," said Hiatt.

It wasn't long before the Giants swapped Jose Cardenal for Hiatt. It isn't often that a ball player is personally scouted by the president of a ball club.

Last season Hiatt, in a spirited contest with Dick Dietz and Bob Barton, won the opening catching assignment. He remained the regular catcher until injured in a plate crackup with Ron Swoboda of the Mets in Shea Stadium.

AS A pinch hitter he was 7-for-21 in 1968 with 5 RBIs in pinch situations. His greatest baseball thrill came in pinch roles the preceding year. In 1967 he hit two pinch grand slam homers against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A native of Bakersfield, Hiatt now lives in San Mateo. He is a handsome fellow who one day may wind up as a screen star because of his acting ability. He is an excellent pantominist who can get rollicking belly laughs from his teammates when he does a Charlie Chaplin walk or imitates and oldtime ball player's mechanical moves.

HIATT IS 6-2, 195 and one of the all-time all-around athletic heroes of San Fernando High School where he graduated in 1961. In his senior year he was voted Los Angeles' Player of the Year (baseball, basketball and football. He was attending Pierce Junior College in Woodland Hills when the Angels signed him.

Stefanich Leads Keg Tourney

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Redhot Jim Stefanich won seven of eight match-play games last night to grab the lead in the $100,000 Professional Bowlers Association Firestone Tournament of Champions.

Bowling on the same lanes where two years ago he set 13 world records, the Joilet, Ill., professional had winning games of 256, 205, 207, 212, 268, 226 and 233, with a 216 loss.

The seven wins hiked Stefanich's total to 7393 after 32 games to give him a comfortable 65-pin lead over Jim Godman of Hayward.

TO SIXTH

In taking the lead, Stefanich displaced Dick Weber of St. Louis, who could muster only three victories and dropped to sixth place.

Weber, who has won more prize money than any other professional bowler, had led the field through the first 24 qualifying games and appeared headed for his first Firestone crown.

Stefanich was the PBA's 1968 Bowler-of-the-Year, winning $67,375 and six championships.

The year before, he won the Firestone title, setting 13 records in the process and in one stretch rolling 37 consecutive games of 200 or better.

WINLESS

The strong-armed bowler has not won a tournament this year.

Stefanich moved up from seventh place yesterday, taking second at end of the last eight qualifying games and then grabbing the lead after only three games of match play.

Wayne Zahn, of Tempe, Ariz., also a former Firestone champ, won six ond lost two last night to take over third place.

Earlier in the day, defending champion Dave Davis of Phoenix failed to make the 24-man cut, along with such top stars as Don Carter, Carman Salvino and veteran Buzz Fazio.

The field of 24 bowls 16 more round robin games today, with the five high finishers meeting in the nationally televised finals tomorrow afternoon for the $25,000 first prize.

MARIN BOWLING HIGHLIGHTS

Pro League Coming Here; DeYoung Right At 'Home'

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Professional Central California Bowlers tournament play moves into Marin County for the first time April 12-13.

It will be the Novato $7,000 held at Nave Lanes in Ignacio (a suberb of Novato). The PCCB uses a format like that of the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA), and is loaded with the top bowlers in the state.

Among the regulars on the tour is Terry De Young, 18, a Novatan who already has a first place finish this year in one of the earlier tourneys in Concord. He also bowled a perfect 300 this season in league play.

He does a lot of his bowling at Nave Lanes, and works there as a part-time desk man, helping to pay expenses at College of Marin. The southpaw will be one of the favorites when the tour stops off at his "home" house.

Dan Burke of San Rafael also is bowling in the PCCB, and won $180 in the last tourney, held at Blackstone Bowl in Fresno last weekend. In addition to his 11th place finish, Burke, sales manager at Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury in San Rafael, had one of the tourney's high games, 259.

THIS AND THAT — Bob Nelson rolled his highest game ever when he had a 255 on top of his 663 series in Country Club Bowl's Mixed Mates League. . . . It was the first time over the 200 mark for Joe Paradise, the 126 average roller turning a 201 in the San Quentin Mixed Fours at Country Club . . . Dorothy Laken missed a 153 triplicate by just one pin in the San Marin League at Nave Lanes. . . . The Kellys celebrated St. Patrick's Day a little late, Pat Kelly (156 avg.) rolling a 225-607 and Evalyn Kelly (149 avg.) a 223 game and 554 series in the Firday Nite Leftovers at Nave Lanes. . . . Judy Lawrence picked up a rough 6-7-10 split in the Gutter Belles at Greenbrae Lanes.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Peg Quezada, a desk gal at Country Club Bowl, rolled her first 600 series when she put together games of 224-201-204 for 629 in the Sleepers League; the gals in that league were wide awake, 11 of them going over the 500 mark, and Gayle Chu converting the 4-10 and Pat Piver the 6-7. . . . Tommy Thompson had better turn around and go the other way, rolling games of 152-151-150 in that order in the Novato Unified Bowlers League at Nave Lanes. . . . Pat Curry, 137 average roller in the Daffodils League, rolled her first five, a 506 set. . . . In the Marin County Mixed Travel League, this time at Greenbrae Lanes, Mike Moore rolled a 246 line and Lil Scotto missed a triplicate 155 by one pin. . . . Mary Jo Hodgson, 116 average, went up to a 197 game in the Agents 1108 League at Country Club.

JUNIOR DOINGS — Class A winner in the Marin County Junior Masters Tournament at Nave Lanes was 18-year-old Keith Ray who averaged 183 through the competition. Ray is a part-time desk man at Greenbrae Lanes and College of Marin freshman. Nancy McPherson, 12, rolled a 224, for high qualifier. Fourteen-year-old Bob Shaw was Calss B winner and Jeff Bernardi was high qualifier, 234. . . . Scott Beaudry, only 6, rolled a 127 in the Chief Halftown League at Greenbrae Lanes, and his average going into the day was 37 . . . High junior scores for the week at Country Club Bowl came from Rich McPherson, 211—574 in the Juniors, Tony Trowbridge, 179 in Bantams and Taria Trowbridge, 114 in the Pee Wees.

Harry Neal of San Rafael made a fine showing at the California Council for Retarded Children District III (Northern California from Marin to Humboldt) tournament last weekend, qualifying for the state finals May 24 in Fresno.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

There is a wide variation in the amount of backswing used by the successful pro bowlers, so I cannot say that a high swing or a short one is best. I have noticed, however, that the group of tournament winners who claim to require little practice have one thing in common: A very short backswing. The answer would seem to be that it is easier to maintain good timing with a brief backswing.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Age Can't Catch Up To Ol' Satch Paige

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Age appears to have finally caught up with former star relievers Roy Face, Bill Henry and John Wyatt, but it can't catch the ageless wonder of them all—Satchel Paige.

Old Satch, who admits to being more than 50 years old and is estimated at 62, showed he can still do a little pitching like a 30-year-old when he ambled his long frame back to the mound yesterday and won another game.

His one inning of shutout ball in the Atlanta Braves' 1-0 victory over their Richmond Class AAA farm club might well have served as an inspiration for "youngsters" Face, 41, Wyatt, 33, and Henry, 41, who found themselves without jobs today.

In other games, Detroit outslugged Cincinnati 9-8, Montreal clobbered Pittsburgh 9-2, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 4-0, the New York Mets stopped St. Louis 5-0, Cleveland outlasted San Francisco 12-7, the Chicago White Sox nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1.

Also Philadelphia beat Kansas City 7-3, Washington whipped Minnesota 7-2, San Diego whomped Oakland 10-4, Houston edged Boston 3-2 and Los Angeles defeated California 4-2.

Face, who starred in the bullpen for many years with Pittsburgh, and Wyatt, once the Kansas City relief ace, were released by the Detroit Tigers, and Henry, one-time ace reliever for Cincinnati and San Francisco, quit Seattle in disgust after a bad outing.

Two other past bullpen masters, Dick Radatz and Dick Hall, received new life when they caught on with Detroit and Baltimore, respectively.

The controversial Donn Clendenon trade was completed when Montreal sent pitchers John Billingham and Skip Guinn and some money to Houston.

But Paige, the new hero of the 60s, stole the show when he cranked up his arm for a brief comeback, and after the first hitter reached third base on a double and an error, he retired the side on an infield out and two strikeouts.

The Braves got him the victory in the last of the fifth when Bob Tillman walked and came around on two wild pitches and an infield out.

Paige, listed on the Atlanta roster as an assistant trainer, plans to pitch a little more in the remaining exhibition games before retiring again.

SEALS

The second period belonged comfortably to the Kings as they swept to a 2-1 lead on goals by Ted Irvine — who scored for the sixth time this season against Oakland only 20 seconds into the period — and by little Howie Menard at 7:07.

Oakland's Doug Roberts was ejected from the game after arguing too vehemently that Menard had kicked the puck into the cage.

Six minutes later, all players on the ice converged in a brawling knot behind the Los Angeles goal after the Seals' Billy Hicke flattened Rutledge, who had moved out of the crease to clear a loose puck. Menard then rammed Hicke.

Before the period ended, Hampson scored again on a play made possible when Earl Ingarfield swept the puck out of the corner and passed to Gerry Ehman, who fed Hampson.

"Psychologically, we had the advantage after the overtime win," Kelly said. "Now we've lost it. We'll be on home ice now, but we still have to take advantage of it."

Littler, Two Others Tied At Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The pro golf tour's "quiet man," leading money winner Gene Littler, had a 50-year-old amateur suffering from bursitis and an airport services executive as his unlikely co-leaders heading into today's second round of the $160,000 Greensboro Open golf tournament.

Littler, who has won over $54,000 this year, opened with a five-under-par 66 over the 7,034-yard Sedgefield Country Club course yesterday. It occasioned no surprise as the former U.S. Open and Amateur champion, now 38, has been playing some of his best golf this year.

SURPRISE

But for Dale Morey, 50-year-old amateur from nearby High Point, and Gordon Jones, journeyman pro for much of the last 12 years, to join him at the top was something else.

Morey and Littler are no strangers. Littler defeated the furniture hardware salesman 1 up in a 36-hole duel for the national Amateur title in 1953.

Morey, a three-time member of the U.S. Walker Cup team and former Louisiana State player, has been one of the Carolinas' most accomplished amateurs for years since moving from Indiana. He's won a host of tournaments in North Carolina and South Carolina. A couple of decades ago he had a brief fling as a pro, but returned to the amateur ranks.

HUGE NEEDLE

He came here suffering from a severe case of bursitis in the right elbow and had doubts that he'd be able to play. But a doctor applied what Morey described as a huge needle, and the pain subsided sufficiently to permit him to shoot a 35-31 round that matched the 32-34 efforts of Littler and Jones.

It marked the first time in the Greensboro tournament that an amateur had been in the lead since Frank Stranahan's 140 led after 36 holes in 1947.

Jones, a campaigner with scant success on the tour, has been busy for most of the past year with a club pro job at Windermere, Fla., and operating his airport services business, located in about 35 cities and headquartered in Columbia, S.C.

45TH PLACE

Last year he netted only $1,890 in winnings and in his comeback this year played four Florida tournaments this month, failing to make the 36-hole cut in three and finishing in a tie for 45th at Orlando. He had to play a qualifying round here to get into the tournament.

The course played short and the field of about 140 took advantage of the ideal conditions to produce 57 rounds under par and 17 at par.

The three leaders were only one stroke ahead of Tom Weiskopf, George Archer, Rod Funseth and Julius Boros. PGA champion Boros finished with two eagles, a birdie and a bogey on his last four holes.

INTO WOODS

Funseth missed a chance to take the lead when he drove into the woods on 15 and took a double bogey six.

Bunky Henry, still holding the form that netted him $40,000 first money at Miami, Fla., last Sunday, was one of 14 players bunched at 68. Ron Cerrudo of Atherton, whose parents live in San Rafael, was also in the 68 group.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Winds Still A Problem; Clam Diggers Get Ready

Striped bass fishing slowed this week due to the winds. On Monday, Warden Russell Ild of the department of Fish and Game checked 10 boats on San Pablo Bay with three bass. One boatload reported taking 11 undersized stripers on pile worms. Lots of flounders were taken, even with the wind.

At Tomales Bay trollers took a couple of bass and at the mouth of the bay one angler trying for halibut took a six-pound salmon on a drifted live ghost shrimp, keeping the bait about 10 feet under the surface.

Frank Sue and I took 10 black bass at Lake Berryessa near Napa Monday and all weighed between one and one-half and two pounds. We also released seven small ones...., Salmon fishermen are advised to check with the party boat operators in Sausalito for the final wordon wind conditions.

Clam diggers are reminded that there will be minus tides 7:12 a.m. tomorrow and 8:12 a.m. Sunday so get out those shovels and hoes. Best bets will be Bolinas Bay and Tomales Bay.

TROUT SEASON OPENED last weekend at three Northern California lakes — Jenkinson, Almanor and Shasta.

At Jenkinson in El Dorado County, elevation about 3,000 feet, water was cold, keeping the catch low. Reports from Sly Park general store at the lake said anglers were averaging about one or two fish per boat on opening day Saturday.

Novatans Ralph Chatoian, Al Wann and Bob Scheiner along with Joe Davis of Terra Linda tried trolling and some drift fishing, coming out with three fish, all lake trout and all 17 inches long. There were still patches of snow in the area, unusual for this time of year.

TWO SPECIAL elk hunts and California's sixth consecutive antelope hunt have been recommended to the Fish and Game Commission by the DFG.

The recommendations include one for the first special hunt in history for the Shasta Herd of Rocky Mountain Elk in the vicinity of Shasta Lake in Shasta County.

The DFG also seeks approval of a special controlled hunt for 85 tule elk of the Owens Valley Herd and a northeastern California antelope hunt with 315 permits.

The commission has been asked to schedule hearings on the three hunts.

The Shasta Elk Hunt proposal is for 100 permits, 65 for antlered animals and 35 for antlerless. The herd consists of about 1,000 Rocky Mountain Elk which were transplanted to the area from Yellowstone National Park in 1916. The herd is scattered in steep, rugged country with mixed timber and brush, and DFG wildlife managers said hunter success will be low but "would be a real test of a hunter's skill." The hunt would be held Nov. 8-30.

The proposed tule elk hunt in the Owens Valley would be divided into three periods in October and conducted by zones. The August 1968 census of the transplanted elk herds in the Owens Valley showed 335 animals. The commission's policy is to maintain the herd at between 250 and 300 animals to keep the herd healthy and within the capacity of the range to feed it.

This year's antelope census showed 2,875 pronghorns, up 10 per cent from a year ago. This year's hunt would be for 315 surplus buck antelope. Hunts have been held in each of the past five years, with a total of 847 antelope taken by 1,255 hunters, for a 67 per cent success ratio. This year's hunt is proposed for Aug. 23-Sept. 1.

Permits for all three of the special hunts would be awarded on the basis of a statewide public drawing. Permits for the proposed elk hunts would cost $50 each and antelope permits would cost $15. each.

Forbes Kennedy Sweats It Out

BOSTON (AP) — Forbes Kennedy, a veteran forward for the Toronto Maple Leafs, is sweating out possible suspension for the remainder of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs for assaulting an official.

Clarence Campbell, NHL President, suspended Kennedy indefinitely last night before the Maple Leafs dropped a second straight decision to the Boston Bruins 7-0.

Campbell flew from league headquarters in Montreal and viewed films of Wednesday night's East Division semifinal opener, won by the Bruins, 10-0.

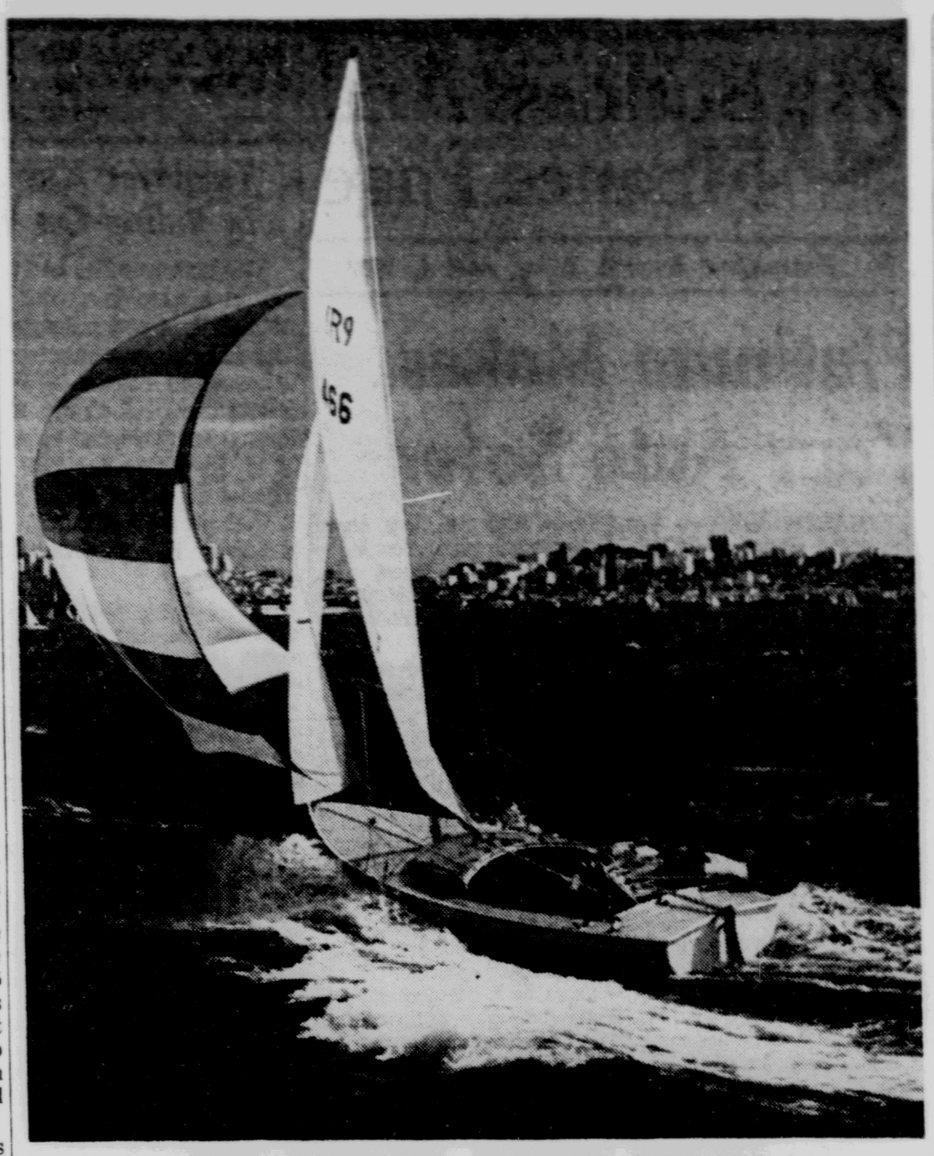
He ordered the indefinite suspension and said he would make a final ruling after his return to Montreal.

Kennedy, 33, became involved in a fight with Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers with less than four minutes remaining in the third period of the first game. Lineman George Ashley was knocked down by Kennedy as the Toronto forward tried to get at Cheevers.

Sacramento Bowler In ABC Standings

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Only one bowler was able to crack the standings of the 66th annual American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday as none of the amateurs was really hot.

Howard Braun of Sacramento rolled a 647 series, good enough for fourth place in the classic singles. He had games of 200, 234 and 213.



SAIL TOWARD SEASON OPENER

Skipper Joe Madrigli of San Francisco Yacht Club at Belvedere and crewmen Roger Eldridge and Ted Goldbeck practice spinnaker handling for Small Yacht Racing Association opener to be held April 20 under sponsorship of the Corinthian Y.C. of Tiburon. Some 200 members of the SYRA are expected to compete in the opener, first in 12 regattas scheduled this season.

ANNUAL A.P. POLL

Cardinals, Giants Favored

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis and San Francisco in the National League and Detroit and Minnesota in the American have been chosen to win titles in major league baseball's new four-division setup in the annual Associated Press poll.

The Cardinal and Tigers were selected to repeat as pennant winners in the voting by 654 sports writers and broadcasters.

The order of finish in the balloting by the experts was:

NATIONAL LEAGUE: Eastern Division—St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York and Montreal. Western Division—San Francisco, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Los Angeles, Houston and San Diego.

AMERICAN LEAGUE: Eastern Division—Detroit, Boston, Baltimore, Cleveland, New York and Washington. Western Division—Minnesota, Oakland, Chicago, California, Kansas City and Seattle.

Only in the National League's Western Division were the experts relatively divided as to the winner. The Giants were named on 351 ballots while Cincinnati drew 191 votes, Atlanta 78, Los Angeles 31, Houston 2 and San Diego 1.

EXPANSION TEAMS

The Padres and Kansas City Royals were the only ones among the expansion teams to receive votes for first place. The Royals got four in the A.L.'s Western Division. The expansion Montreal Expos and Seattle Pilots plus the Mets and Senators were blanked.

In the N.L.'s Eatsern Division, the Cards were named the top team on 581 ballots while the Cubs were next with 59 and Pittsburgh and Philadelphia followed with 9 and 5, respectively.

The Tigers and Twins were solid choices to win in the American League. Detroit accumulated 403 first-place votes. Boston was next with 112 and Baltimore third with 105. Then came Cleveland, 30, and the New York Yankees, 4.

It was a bit closer in the Western half. Minnesota picked up 381 votes, Oakland 129 and the Chicago White Sox 103. California drew 37.

St. Louis and Detroit were runaway leaders in the voting for the pennant winners. The Cards were selected to capture the N.L. flag by 368 voters and the Tigers by 314.

The actual pennant winners and World Series participants will be decided in a best-of-5 playoff between the divisional champions in each league.

Santa Clara Lists 10-Game Grid Slate

SANTA CLARA (AP) — Santa Clara will play a 10-game football schedule this year for the first time since resuming the sport 10 years ago, the school announced yesterday.

Included on the schedule is a game with St. Mary's, resuming a long rivalry that began in 1909. The two teams last met in 1950.

Athletics' Pitching In Trouble

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—This is an open date on the Oakland A's spring schedule, and while the athletes rest manager Hank Bauer wonders where has all that good pitching gone.

Early in the exhibition season, when A's pitchers were getting battered around fairly regularly, Bauer dismissed it as one of those things.

LONG WAY

"It doesn't mean anything now," he said. "They're just trying to get their arms in shape. There is a long way to go."

Well, there now are only five days to go before the start of the regular season and A's pitchers are still taking their lumps.

Yesterday, it was Catfish Hunter's turn as the A's bowed to the San Diego Padres, 10-4.

ROUGHED UP

He's had trouble all spring, as have Blue Moon Odom, Jim Nash and Chuck Dobson. Dobson has come around of late and more than likely will get the starting call in Oakland Tuesday night when the A's open against the Chicago White Sox.

Irish Vs. Army

NEW YORK (AP) — The Notre Dame vs. Army football game this year will be played in Yankee Stadium Oct. 11, it was announced yesterday.

Warriors, Lakers To Resume Action

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Losers at home and winners on the road, the Los Angeles Lakers and San Francisco Warriors return to the Forum tonight with the Lakers aiming to reverse that trend in the fifth game of their playoff series.

"It doesn't make any difference at all where you play," declared Capt. Elgin Baylor of the Lakers. "The team that plays well will win no matter where the game is contested."

DOUBTFUL

Another major factor will be the physical condition of the Warriors' leading scorer, Jeff Mullins. He starred as San Francisco won the opening two games of the semifinal Western playoffs in Los Angeles. Then he was hurt in the third game.

Now the series stands 2-2.

The Warriors left Mullins home for an extra day of treatments but it would be extremely doubtful if he would be able to play up to the standards which saw him score 36 points in the opener and 20 in the second game.

DIFFERENCE

Laker Coach Bill van Breda Kolff said the lack of mobility on the part of Mullins plus the great guarding job rookie Bill Hewitt from Southern California did on Rudy LaRusso spelled the difference.

"We didn't have to worry about Mullins in the second two games," the Laker coach pointed out. It was in a collision with Hewitt, incidentally, that Mullins was hurt.

GIVEAWAY

Coach George Lee of the Warriors said, "We just gave them both games in the Bay Area. We didn't shoot well, nor were we aggressive on defense."

If Mullins can't go, ex-Laker Jimmy King takes over to team with Al Attles at the starting guard positions.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

Mannings May Be Acquired By Canadian Brewery Firm

National and international expansion of Manning's, Inc. food services is expected to result from an agreement for its acquisition by John Labatt, Ltd., Canadian brewery company.

Labatt will acquire virtually all of the business of Manning's, a privately held corporation which has been in business since 1908. The latter provides food service management for clients in several western states and owns and operates a chain of 25 cafeterias. One of these was the Hansa House at Northgate Shopping Center, recently closed. The company anticipates opening another restaurant in Marin.

Labatt has interests in both the food and beverage industries and controls General Brewing Corp. in San Francisco.

AETNA LIFE AND CASUALTY of Hartford, Conn., and Kaiser Industries Corp. and Kaiser Aluminum Chemical Corp. of Oakland have formed a partnership to engage in large-scale real estate development, including commercial, residential, resort, recreational and agricultural projects. Aetna will contribute a recently acquired 630-acre tract in San Fernando Valley and Kaiser Industries will contribute its 6,000-acre urban residential and resort property in Honolulu as well as its interest in an 87,500-acre project in Southern California.

BANKAMERICA CORP., holding company of Bank of America has had its first acquisition since the recent reorganization approved by the Comptroller of the Currency. An agreement has been entered into for the purchase of an 80 per cent interest in Digitran Corp. of San Francisco for $5 million. Digitran, formed in February, is engaged in the leasing of computer systems.

MORRIS PLAN CO. stockholders will be asked to change the name of the company to Morlan Pacific Corp. at their annual meeting April 15. The change is being recommended to avoid confusion of the holding company with its principal operating subsidiary, The Morris Plan Co. of California, a thrift and loan organization.

NATIONAL DAIRY PRODUCTS CORP. stockholders will be asked to approve a new corporate name, Kraftco Corp., at their annual meeting April 17. The company is represented in the food industry by its Kraft, Sealtest, Breakstone Sugar Creek and Humko divisions. Stockholders will also be asked to authorize 10 million shares of preferred stock and increase common stock from the present 40 million shares of preferred stock and increase common stock from the present 40 million authorized shares to 60 million.

RESERVE OIL AND GAS CO., Los Angeles, will acquire Mohawk Petroleum Corp., San Francisco in accordance with an agreement in principle approved by directors of both companies. SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Grandfather's Experience Serves As Object Lesson

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My 13-year-old grandson entrusted to me his earnings of $500 — from his paper route — to buy a growth stock. I intended to put this money into American Telephone but a professional adviser persuaded me to buy TRW at 49. Should I hold this for a comeback or take the current loss? — K. N.

A. Under the circumstances, I advise you to hold TRW for a comeback and use this incident to teach your grandson a valuable lesson about investing — to set an objective and then stick with it.

You are holding shares in a huge company that is well managed and well diversified. In my opinion it has pursued a successful policy of carefully selecting its acquisitions. The earnings uptrend, established in 1962, has not since been interrupted, and corresponding gains appear in the dividend record. You and your grandson can watch for news releases by TRW, follow its price action and mark its contributions to our national space and defense programs. You may possibly find it worth holding until he is ready for college.

Q. We are a couple, 60, planning to retire in five years. We own our home but will have little income beyond Social Security benefits. We have accumulated about 600 shares of Hamilton Funds. Should we sell or keep these shares? — D.H.

A. Since you're not experienced investors, I question the wisdom at your age of moving from a sound, conservatively managed mutual fund into the buying and selling of stocks on your own initiative. Hamilton Funds stress growth and income from a diversified portfolio of common stocks (91 per (cent), preferred stocks (6 per cent) and corporate bonds (3 per cent). Your savings in this fund have been earning about 7 per cent, if capital gains are added to dividend payments.

"Hamilton Funds offers a monthly withdrawal plan on a $10,000 minimum investment. In order to qualify, you would have to add to your holdings during the next five years.

Sugar Firm Reports First-Quarter Loss

HONOLULU (BW) — C. Brewer and Co., Ltd., has reported a net loss from operations of $1,184,000, equal to 52 cents per share, for the first quarter, ended Jan. 31. This compares to a loss of $455,000, or 20 cents per share for the same period in 1968.

Operating losses incurred during this period are generally associated with the sugar companies, which close down their mills for off-season repairs.

Auto Production Off Slightly For March

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto production by the Big Three automakers in the last month lagged slightly behind year-before figures.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler said they turned out 737,203 cars during March, 37,955 fewer than the production in March of 1968. But truck production of 144,174 units was 5,822 greater than year-before figures.

Platinum Makes Your Auto Safer

NEW YORK (UPI) — You might think platinum has little to do with you unless the wife suddenly decides she wants a fancy ring or watch.

But suppose you have a car. And suppose you want to ride on the new fiber glass reinforced tire because of its safety, wear and heat-resistant features which have prompted two auto makers to say they'll make it standard equipment in 1970.

Then a shortage of platinum, foreseen by the mid-1970's, becomes a fact of motoring life with you.

Without platinum there would be no glass yarn used to reinforce the tire rubber. And this same glass yarn is being used in hoses, conveyor belts and many defense items, including the Navy's Phantom jet fighter.

Platinum is the only material that can be used as bushings in the manufacture of fiber glass yarn. Each bushing contains hundreds of holes through which the glass fibers are drawn. Platinum, and only platinum, can keep its hole diameter constant under temperatures exceeding 2,000 degrees Faherenheit and effectively withstand the corrosive effects of molten glass.

Right now industrial demand for fiber glass is almost at the breaking point. Industry is trying to satisfy it with new processes and plants. Recently, for instance, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Industries (PPG) instituted a new fiber glass coating process at its Shelby, N.C. plant. It shortly will be putting out two million pounds per month.

It's estimated that the tire industry alone in 1971 will need 70 million pounds. Everything hinges on a continuing supply of platinum, 70 per cent of which is produced in the Soviet Union. Some comes from South Africa and Canada.

"Even at prices ranging from $114 to $240 per troy ounce platinum is nearly impossible to obtain," said Robert A. McLaughlin, vice president and general manager of PPG's fiber glass division.

PPG and other producers see a way out. The government has a platinum stockpile which is in a slight surplus condition. It was suggested to congressional stockpiling committees last year that the government could lease platinum to industry, making money off its platinum rather than using up space. In fiber glass production, only .5 per cent of the platinum used in bushings is lost per year in the manufacturing process. So it wouldn't be a question, say industry spokesmen, of their using up a material which the government might need in time of national emergency.

"The government would have the opportunity, if necessary, to recall the leased platinum," said McLaughlin.

No final action was taken on the platinum quota bill in the last Congress because legislators couldn't agree on whether the government should charge more than the usual domestic price for surplus platinum released from the stockpile to help meet the balance of payments deficit.

If such a plan can't be worked out, said McLaughlin, a barter agreement to get more platinum from behind the Iron Curtain might be feasible. Japan made such an agreement and now is selling it to home industries at about $140 per ounce.

Taxpayer Has Become Winner In Ruling On Witness Pay

Wikel

The taxpayer has been the big winner in a case involving payment of witness fees and mileage allowances. The IRS has announced in technical information release 995 that it will follow the U. S. Court of Appeals at New Orleans in the case of Roberts, et al, in which the IRS had to pay witness fees and mileage allowances to four persons whom it had ordered to appear in connection with tax examinations.

Two of these people were witnesses and two were taxpayers whose returns were being examined.

Can you collect a witness fee and mileage allowance if you are required to go to San Francisco to see the IRS? Apparently you can if you are handed a formal summons.

Technical Information Release 995 issued Oct. 15, 1968 says:

"The IRS today announced that it will follow the decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit dated July 2, 1968, in the case of Lloyd Roberts, et al., 68-2 USTC 9450 and 22 AFTR 2d 5065.

"Accordingly, the IRS will upon request under Title 5 United States Code Section 503(b) pay witness fees and mileage fees to witnesses who are required to appear before Service officers under Section 7602 of the 1954 IRS Code by the issuance of a formal summons. The fees payable are prescribed by Title 28, United States Code Section 1821."

High Rise On Fill Is Not Liked

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A $25 million high-rise development proposed on 15 acres of fill in Richardson Bay should be rejected by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, its staff strongly recommended yesterday.

The project would not be in accord with the commission's adopted master plan for the bay, which states that a "substantial protion" of such a project must be built on existing land, the commission was told by its executive director, Joseph E. Bodovitz of Mill Valley.

Also, the eight-acre legoon in the project would "use property not owned by the applicant, thus an important part of the proposal could not be carried out unless a public agency were to acquire the property for a lagoon and devote it to this use," Bodovitz reported.

If the commission granted a fill permit to the developers, Sausalito Associates, the action "would establish an open season on Richardson Bay, with each owner expecting to receive the same fill permission as that granted to the present applicant," Bodovitz told the commission.

The commission, as is its policy, postponed a vote on the application for the fill to 2 p.m. on April 17. Approval would require 13 "yes" votes from the 27-member commission.

The vote previously was set for April 18, but commissioners voted yesterday to change their regular second monthly meeting from the third Friday to the third Thursday. The first monthly meeting remained the first Thursday.

The place of the April 17 meeting is to be announced.

Bodovitz also presented a staff proposal that Richardson Bay property owners pool their land, instead of seeking to develop it piecemeal on the basis of the present fragmented ownership.

"The appearance of Richardson Bay as a body of water is now quite fragile," Bodovitz said, adding that the staff proposal "does not permit as much filling as some of the owners would like, but permits more filling than many members of the public would like."

Discussion of the staff alternative, however, was cut short when chairman Melvin B. Lane of Menlo Park ruled it irrelevant to the hearing on the application by Sausalito Associates.

The attorney for the applicants, however, Albert

Nixon Eases Curb On Foreign Trade

Replaces Three LBJ Diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon moving to redeem one of his campaign pledges, ordered today an easing of restrictions on investment by U.S. companies in their affiliates abroad.

The Commerce Department said the revised rules, effective retroactively to Jan. 1, are designed to permit $3.4 billion in investment in overseas subsidiaries this year instead of the previously announced 1969 target figure of $2.95 billion.

The foreign direct investment controls were slapped on last year by the Johnson administration to cut down the amount of capital flowing out of the country.

During the presidential campaign, Nixon promised that the controls would be removed as soon as possible.

CUTBACK TOO STIFF

The office of foreign direct investments, the special Commerce Department agency created last year to run the program, said the controls cut foreign direct investment by U.S. businessmen last year from $3.7 billion to $1.5 billion. The Johnson administration's goal was a $1 billion cutback.

One of the principal changes announced by the Nixon administration is a raising of the minimum investment quota from $200,000—last year's base—to $1 million. Companies whose capital outflows for foreign investment are below the minimum are exempt from regulation under the program.

Nixon announced today in Key Biscayne, Fla., he will nominate veteran diplomats to be ambassadors to Hungary and Turkey.

Alfred Puhan, 56, a government employee since 1942, will go to Budapest, succeeding Martin J. Hillenbrand who has become assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

EX-LBJ AIDE

Robert W. Komer, a close adviser to former President Lyndon B. Johnson on Vietnam policy, has resigned as ambassador to Turkey and will be replaced by William J. Handley, 50, a foreign service officer since 1944.

Nixon, in another action, assigned Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans to undertake a

TO COOL INFLATION

Federal Reserve Interest Raised

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board, in another action to curtail inflation, has reduced the amount of available money and increased the interest rates banks must pay to borrow money from the board.

Leading bankers and brokers viewed the board's action as another indication of the government's determination to cool the nation's overheated economy.

They declined to speculate whether there will be a rise in the prime rate—the interest banks charge their biggest and most trustworthy customers—which went up to a record 7.5 per cent two weeks ago.

Effective today the board raised the discount rate from 5.5 per cent to 6 per cent, the highest in 40 years. The discount rate is the interest charged by the Federal Reserve on loans to its 6,000 members banks. This in turn affects the interest banks charge their customers.

In another board action announced in Washington yesterday, it ordered the banks to increase the level of reserve requirements they must hold in their vaults or on deposit with Federal Reserve banks.

The order, effective April 17, will idle an additional $650 million. That will be a painful obligation for the banks to meet since it will mean cutting down the volume of their loans by an even greater amount. Banks normally are able to lend several times the amount of their cash reserves.

"The double-edged move was specifically designed for the doubting Thomases who could not believe that the Federal Reserve intended to see through its stated policy of slowing down the economy," said Don Conlan, vice president of Chemical Bank of New York.

"It will have more psychological whammy than actual effect," he added.

Civic Center March Pays King Tribute

A group of 30 county employees sang "We Shall Overcome" and marched through the hallways of the Marin Civic Center today in memory of Martin Luther King Jr. who was assassinated a year ago.

Twenty-nine women and one man, most of them employees in the Department of Public Social Services, were led by Mrs. Iniece Bailey, an eligibility worker in the department.

After the March, Mrs. Bailey asked the group to work for Reverend King's dream of equality for all.

"As we look around us, at what is happening in Chicago and San Francisco, we wonder how much of his dream has come true," she said. "We should look at all people as human beings, not as groups or races."

Some of the words of "We Shall Overcome" were changed to apply to the late Dr. King. "He will march with us today," the group sang. "They can't take his soul away. Martin Luther King is here today. Deep in our hearts we do believe. We shall overcome some day."

ANNIVERSARY OF SLAYING

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Only a few hours after President Nixon had called upon Americans to honor King by "rededicating ourselves to the principles of justice and nonviolence," and Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, King's successor in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), pleaded for calm, Negro youths went on a rampage of violence and vandalism in Chicago last night.

At least 79 persons were injured and 234 arrested as gangs of youths roamed the city's West Side, attacking buses and motorists, smashing car and store windows, looting some businesses. Sporadic gunfire was reported.

Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie ordered a 7,276-man force of soldiers into Chicago and flew to the city to appeal to parents of the youths to "cool it, if you know what I mean." Mayor Richard Daley imposed a 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew on persons under 21 years of age.

There also was violence in Kalamazoo, Mich., yesterday when a dispute over memorial ceremonies for King boiled into rock throwing at a high school and in downtown Kalamazoo. Windows were smashed and one car overturned.

A few fires were set and windows smashed in Washington, D.C., but the capitol was relatively quiet. Police arrested 40 youths.

Arriving in Memphis, Tenn., last night to lead a memorial march of an expected 18,000 persons in the city where King was slain one year ago today, Abernathy called the Chicago Violence "most unfortunate."

"We cannot pay tribute to an American who taught nonviolence by participating in violence," said Abernathy, who set up his headquarters in the Lorraine Motel where King was felled by a sniper as he stood on a balcony.

The admitted killer, James Earl Ray, is serving a 99-year sentence at the Tennessee State Prison in Nashville. Warden Lake Russell said he would keep "a few more people on duty inside the prison" today as a precautionary move against possible demonstrations outside the 12-foot high walls. As for Ray, he was to receive further classification tests today to determine his disposition within the prison system.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass yesterday praised King and said the organizers of his assassination remain sheltered by American justice.

Tass, commenting that "terror and violence are permanent attributes of American society," said Americans "hated Doctor King with a purple passion and with good reasons.

"King was the sponsor of mass actions. He stirred to action the most downtrodden sections of the Negro population in the South and worked for the unity of all Negro organizations."

King's widow, Coretta, said

Hayakawa Sees A Calmer College

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, appeared at the University of Oregon today amid increased security precautions and said he thinks a tide of revolution was stemmed during months of strife at his California school.

He told a news conference that things at San Francisco State have calmed down at the superficial level.

He said he thought his college was a testing ground on the part of revolutionaries to see how far they could go, and he declared:

"We have stemmed the tide of revolution."

But, he added, we may have passed it on to other places. He said there will be more disturbances at other campuses.

Sirhan's Guilty Plea Talk Called 'Genuine'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan, whose chances of going to the gas chamber seem more remote each day, once declared he wanted to plead guilty and get the "damn thing" over, a psychiatrist testified today.

The probability the 25-year-old Arab defendant would not receive the death penalty was enhanced when even the prosecution's own psychiatrist said his life should be spared because of mental illness.

Dr. Seymour Pollack, under further cross-examination at today's half-day session, revealed Sirhan told him in his cell that he wanted to plead guilty. The court then recessed until Monday.

"He said he wanted to get through with the whole damn thing," Pollack said. "He wanted through with the psychiatrists buzzing him. He wanted out. He wanted to plead guilty. He said he had enough."

The doctor said it was the same sort of outburst Sirhan had displayed in open court when he told the judge he wanted to plead guilty and go to the gas chamber.

"Do you think he was faking?" Cooper asked.

"No, it was genuine. He wasn't doing it for effect. He wasn't putting on a show for me, and I don't think he was putting on a show for the jury at his outburst here."

Cooper asked whether he considered that "normal behavior" and the psychiatrist agreed it was not, but added it did not change his opinion of Sirhan's ability to premeditate Kennedy's killing.

Cooper wound up the cross-

Spanish Vessel Begins Visit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The four-masted schooner Juan Sebastian Elcano, a Spanish Navy training vessel, arrived here today for a five-day visit during which the public is invited aboard.

The 300-foot Elcano, built in 1927 and modernized in the mid-1950s, carries an auxiliary 1,500-horsepower diesel engine. It has been around the world three times and sailed more than a half million miles.

Cmdr. Alvaro Fontanals Baron, captain of a crew of 300, was to receive a commemorative scroll from Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke late today at Pier 17N.

The Elcano previously visited Los Angeles and Monterey and will leave here Wednesday for a visit in San Diego.

Soviet Jets Fly Close To Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP) — A flight of eight to 10 Soviet jet bombers flew to within 65 miles of the northwest coast of Alaska Tuesday, Pentagon sources disclosed today.

The Soviet aircraft, described as TU16 Badgers, did not penetrate North American air space, it was said, but veered away and returned toward the Soviet Union.

Jerusalem Pilgrims Trace Sad Walk

JERUSALEM (AP) — A gray drizzle drenched the walls of the Holy City this Good Friday as 1,000 Christian pilgrims trudged along the route tradition says Christ walked to his death almost 2,000 years ago.

The Easter ceremony was one of peace and solemnity as the throng of devout wound along the Via Dolorosa — Street of Sorrow — to the Church of the Holy Sepulchure, which tradition holds is the site of Christ's tomb. Black-robed monks and nuns, modestly clothed pilgrims and wizened fathers with their children walked along the cobbled road, many of them sobbing.

They paused at each of the seven Stations of the Cross, including where Jesus fell, where he saw his mother, where He addressed the daughters of Jerusalem.

The tiny dusty shrines, flecked by tears of rain, were almost unnoticeable among the candy, trinket and soft drink shops.

Moslems sat along the route, impassively puffing on nargila pipes.

Arab, German, Swedish and Spanish delegations, each carrying a cross the height of a man, converged on the 400-year-old church scarred by a scaffolding and a crane as it undergoes renovation.

White-capped Israeli police mingled with the crowd. One Arab guerrilla organization had warned it would not be responsible for the pilgrims' safety, but no incidents were reported.

It was the second Easter in the Holy City under Israeli rule, and its passes peacefully.

But attendance was thinned by the absence of pilgrims from Arab countries.

Chanting hymns to the Virgin Mary and her Son, the procession, led by Irminio Roncari, acting custodian of the Holy Land, reached the sacred church as a blaze of sunshine burst through the grim rain clouds.

Prayers were held inside the dark, musty basilica. Then the pilgrims began preparing for the evening service, in which a doll is nailed to a cross to commemorate the crucifixion.

6 Months, $4,000 Fine For Thoresen

WILLIAM E. THORESEN
Free on $10,000 bail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Illinois steel heir William E. Thoresen III, who collected 77 tons of guns and ammunition for which he paid $500,000, has been dealt a six-month prison term and $4,000 fine for interstate shipment of firearms.

He and his wife, who also was fined $4,000 for her part in helping amassing the collection, had asked U. S. District Judge William Goodwin for leniency before the sentencing yesterday.

The two who claimed they were well off but no longer wealthy, announced they would appeal the sentences. Thoresen was freed on $10,000 bail, his wife on $2,500 bail. They live in Phoenix, Ariz.

They were indicted two years ago after federal agents uncovered the caches of munitions at their Pacific Heights mansion in San Francisco and in East Bay storage houses.

When the judge asked Thoresen if he had any comment before sentencing, he stammered, wrung his hands and finally said he didn't know he was acting illegally.

After the sentencing, Thoresen appeared relieved. His wife smiled and declined comment. Both are 31. In addition to the jail term, Thoresen was placed on 9½ years' probation. His wife got three years' probation. Thoresen reportedly told acquaintenances he inherited $70 million from a trust.

He and his speech therapist wife were arrested 10 years ago for stealing six color photographs from a ferry terminal in Bar Harbor, Maine. He was convicted and received two years' probation.

Their attorneys had asked Goodwin to consider that the couple had no ulterior motive in the munitions collecting.

The point was conceded by U. S. Atty. Cecil Poole, who said exhaustive investigations showed the couple "had no evil in mind."

After Thoresen was convicted last month in Fresno on charges of transporting two antitank guns from New York to Alameda, Calif., Thoresen said he was switching hobbies to model trains.

Mrs. Thoresen was convicted of aiding and abetting the transport of 20,400 rounds of .45-caliber ammunition from Tucson, Ariz., to Oakland.

24 Die In 'Worst' Viet Crash

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied headquarters today listed 24 U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers dead and 53 injured in the worst helicopter crash of the Vietnam War. The nationwide Communist offensive dropped to its lowest level of intensity.

The war's costliest copter mishap occurred Wednesday in South Vietnam's far northwest corner when a CH47 Chinook lifting the Allied soldiers from a combat sweep snagged a tree and plummeted to earth, the announcement said.

AMERICAN TROOPERS

One of the dead and four of the wounded were American troopers. The other casualties were the South Vietnamese irregulars they had led as part of Operation Maine Crag, aimed at blocking Communist supply roads into the area from Laos.

Military spokesmen said the helicopter went down 10 miles south-southeast of the Marines' old Khe Sanh combat base. There were no reports that it was shot down by Communist ground fire, although the North Vietnamese in that area reportedly have antiaircraft guns.

GROUND ATTACK

Not far from the crash site today, U.S. Marines beat off a ground attack by 130 Communists and reported killing 15 of them. Two Leathernecks died in the fight before dawn, according to military reports from the scene.

In Saigon, headquarters reported 10 overnight Communist salvos into cities and military camps—the fewest since the nationwide offensive began 41 days ago. But there was no indication that the drive was over.

The command said U.S. and South Vietnamese troops patrolling southwest of Saigon had killed 99 guerrillas yesterday in five battles, one of them 16 miles from the city. One American was wounded in the clashes, while government losses were five killed, 10 wounded.

Pope Removes Ring To Fast And Mourn

POPE PAUL VI
'Schismatic ferment'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Deeply saddened by the strife inside his Church, Pope Paul VI fasted today with millions of other Catholics to mourn the crucified Christ.

The Pope removed the ring of his office as a sign of mourning for the death of Christ to redeem mankind. The bells of Rome's 500 churches will remain silent and altars stay bare until tomorrow night.

The 71-year-old pontiff was taking part in two major services in Rome—the "Dry Mass" in the Rome Basilica of St. Mary Major and a torchlit Way of the Cross procession in the shadow of the Colosseum.

CHURCH DISARRAY

So far during his Holy Week addresses, Pope Paul has made major pronouncements on the disarray in the Roman Catholic Church. He has severely condemned several developments which followed the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

He spoke out during a general audience Wednesday against priests who are "crucifying the Church," by refusing to submit to authority, or by quitting to marry.

On Thursday, he went farther and deplored "a practically schismatic ferment" tormenting his church.

It was the first time the Pope used such strong words to describe the rebellion by many laymen, priests and bishops against Church policies on birth control, priestly celibacy and papal authority.

SAD MOOD

In a rhetorical question he asked whether "we, too, have schisms, rifts such as those which are painfully denounced by St. Paul in his letter to the Corinthians?"

His mood of sadness and disillusion was clear, as he finished his 20-minute address in a rough, halting voice before an audience of 8,000 in Rome's St. John Lateran Basilica.

The Good Friday ceremony in St. Mary Major Basilica is called a "Dry Mass" because for the only time during the year it does not include the consecration of the bread and wine, which symbolizes Christ's flesh and blood.

Judge Orders Hearing In Cargo Fuss

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—West Coast longshoremen have been ordered by a federal judge to show cause why their union should not be held in contempt of court for refusing to handle containerized cargo.

U.S. Dist. Judge Robert Peckham set a hearing for Monday on a complaint by the Pacific Maritime Association (PMA) that the longshoremen were still refusing to load containerized cargo — despite having been ordered to do so by Peckham last Monday.

If found guilty of civil contempt, the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) and its leaders would become liable for fines and compensation of shipping losses estimated as high as $1 million a day.

Peckham ordered 22 union leaded business agents to appear at the hearing Monday. The 22 were men the PMA claimed were identified on the docks as seen telling longshoremen not to handle containerized cargo.

The PMA, which represents shipowners and dock firms, said it would file affidavits proving the union had refused to handle containers at the ports of Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mamie Back In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to the capital today on the same private train that carried her husband's body to Kansas and said she intends to return to their home near Gettysburg, Pa.

Lt. Col. Maurice Shahrabani, deputy information officer for the Military District of Washington, said Mrs. Eisenhower had told him she would return to Gettysburg, but said her long-range plans were indefinite.

The special train backed slowly into Washington's Union Station at 7:55 a.m., 30 hours after it left Abilene, Kan., where Eisenhower, who died last Friday, was buried Wednesday.

Nearly an hour after the train arrived, Mrs. Eisenhower stepped from the rear platform of the silver car to greet the military personnel who escorted her from Abilene.

Then, dressed in black but smiling, she kissed a few of the waiting civilians, apparently old friends or relatives.

Then she got into a black limousine waiting a few feet from the train and was gone.

Mrs. Eisenhower's grandson, David, and his wife, the former Julie Nixon, preceded her from the train.

Czech Journalists Deny Charge Of Brewing Unrest

PRAGUE (UPI)—The Union of Czech Journalists today rejected Communist Party claims mass media was responsible for anti-Soviet outbreaks that prompted Moscow to impose new restrictions on the population.

The journalists said the newly imposed press censorship would bring "a serious weakening" of the people's confidence in the government.

In a resolution passed by the union presidium and published today, the journalists supported the party leadership in its present crisis with the Soviet Union but did not support the censorship program imposed Wednesday at Soviet insistence.

Blaming "antisocialist" sentiment and the news media for supporting it, the Communist leadership Wednesday cracked down following anti-Soviet demonstrations triggered by a Czechoslovak hockey victory last Friday over the Soviet team.

"To lump together all the unsolved problems and to put blame from them at the door of the mass media would be to knowingly and one-sidedly simplify the whole problem of the society," the journalists' resolution said.

The imposition of new censorship "is a step which...creates the opportunity for a return to a serious weakening of the contact of the press, radio and television with millions of citizens in a dialogue which is the expression of mutual confidence between the people and their leadership," it said.

For the second straight day, President Ludvik Svoboda and other top government officials visited military bases of the Czechoslovak army, which pledged its support to putting down any further "antisocialist" outbreaks.

Communist Party leader Alexander Dubcek said yesterday that the country was at its gravest crisis since the Soviet bloc invasion last August.

Man Is Slain In Hotel Lobby

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man entered an Eddy Street hotel yesterday afternoon, leveled a pistol at a man reading a book in a chair and shot him six times in the chest.

Police said the victim, Frank Adams, 33, a hotel resident, died about two hours later in Mission Emergency Hospital.

After the shooting, police said, the gunman stuck the weapon in his belt and strolled out. Police are looking for witnesses to the shooting.

Oxygen Tank Room Blast Kills Four

TOKYO (AP) — An explosion in a room-size high pressure oxygen tank for patients with brain tumors killed two patients and two doctors treating them at Tokyo University hospital today.

Police said the explosion was caused by high voltage electricity that a member of the hospital staff and a medical student from Formosa were using to treat the two patients. The tank is 16 feet long and six feet wide.

City Revenue Up By $3.6 Million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — City revenue from all sources but property taxes will hit $259 million during the coming fiscal year, says city controller Charles Navarro.

That would be an increase $3.2 million over the current year. Navarro said yesterday all city revenue would be up because of economic growth.

Plastic Windows Due 16 Schools

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco's building of department and grounds has decided to spend $100,000 to substitute glass with plastic in 16 schools often hit by vandals.

The department figures it will still make money in the operation, since it had to pay out $180,000 to replace broken window glass last year.

Tale Of Rabies Baffles Army

FORT ORD (UPI) — An unidentified AWOL soldier has Fort Ord medics confused and worried today.

The soldier assumed the name of Sgt. 1.c. Carlton D. Lawrence of Natchez, Miss., and told officials he had been bitten by a rabid dog in Vietnam. He received 22 Pasteur shots.

The real Sgt. Lawrence turned up at Fort McArthur, and hadn't been bitten by a dog. And the unidentified soldier developed an allergic reaction to the antirabies shots.

He walked out of the post hospital Wednesday and was last reported seen by a local motorist who told police a hitchhiker told him of receiving antirabies shots.

Judge Defends Act

DETROIT (AP) — Judge George W. Crockett says he may have headed off serious racial disorder by freeing more than 100 Negroes detained in a shooting outburst which killed a policeman.

At a courtroom news conference yesterday, Crockett defended as "legal, proper and moral" his action — which has been heatedly attacked by the police.

Crockett, a Negro, set the 100 free when he learned that some of them had been subjected to nitrate tests to determine whether they had fired guns. He said the police had failed to advise them first of their right to consult a lawyer.

Crockett declared that if he had "ignored my judicial and constitutional responsibilities, justice would have been denied."

Sebastopol Bank Merger Opposed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The federal government has filed antitrust action to stop the merger of Crocker-Citizens Bank with the Bank of Sonoma County, in Sebastopol.

The complaint, filed yesterday by the antitrust division of the Department of Justice, said the banks entered into an agreement Sept. 17, 1968, to merge and that the proposed merger was approved by the controller of the currency March 6, 1969.

The suit said that the merger would lessen competition and create a monopoly in the Santa Rosa-Sebastopol area.

"Sonoma bank will be elimated as an independent competitive factor, thus reducing the number of banking alternatives from 11 to 10 in Sonoma County and 8 to 7 in the Santa Rosa-Sebastopol area," the suit said.

LOOTING IN CHICAGO — A gang of youths—some of them carrying bricks as weapons—removes produce from a truck trapped on Chicago's Near North Side. she would observe the anniversary quietly in Atlanta. "My children and I will visit the cemetery and then return home for the day," she said, adding she would not participate in any public memorials or functions.

President Richard M. Nixon sent a personal letter to Mrs. King in the hands of HEW Secretary Robert Finch, who talked with her for 45 minutes.

She said she "personally endorsed" the efforts of Abernathy, who was to lead 18,000 persons on a march to the Memphis City Hall for a two-hour rally featuring civil rights dignitaries and nationally-known entertainers. Police said they expected no trouble, and Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington asked citizens of his state to "reflect on the tragic event... and rededicate themselves to the ideal of living together in a peaceful and productive society."

Abernathy was to go to Montgomery, Ala., tomorrow for services in King's old church. About 300 persons were to make a symbolic march today from Selma, Ala., where King began his voting rights march to Montgomery four years ago.

A "memorial vigil" was planned for Times Square in New York City, and other observances were scheduled in Washington, Philadelphia, San Francisco, New Orleans, Detroit, Houston, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Little Rock, Boston, Minneapolis and Atlanta.

Students at Eastern Washington State College in Cheney, Wash., said they would re-enact King's funeral. "The only thing missing will be King's body," said program leader Al Sims.

At Southern University in teachers man picket lines while New Orleans, students said they would help some 800 city taking a "black holiday" in memory of King.

A "national citywide tag day" will be held in Philadelphia tomorrow to raise funds with contributors receiving a tag bearing King's silhouette and the words, "I gave."

In Boston, the Roxbury Businessmen's Association will dedicate a loan guarantee fund in King's memory. Its purpose is "a pooling of black financial resources to achieve economic security," said association president Emanuel Eaves.

Ban On Shellfish Still In Effect

A ban on taking shellfish from Richardson Bay because of gross sewage contamination is still in effect, county health authorities reminded Marin County residents today.

The ban was imposed Feb. 27 after state bacteriological tests indicated contamination of clams and other edible shellfish as a result of raw sewage being dumped into the bay.

Eating the contaminated shellfish, health officials warned, could result in typhoid, infectious hepatitis, salmonella or similar diseases.

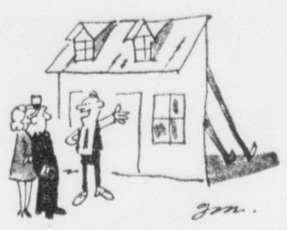
LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Sellers Ruled Guilty Of Fraud



Bill and Mary Sharp, handy fixer-uppers, owned a five-room house with a big basement. They re-did it into a four room apartment, and rented it.

Later Bill and Mary sold the Joneses the house for $20,000. A few years later the health department ordered the Joneses not to rent the basement apartment.

The Sharps replied that they did not know they needed a health department or building permit, and that they had hired a carpenter to help them, and thought he would get the needed permits to list their place as a multiple dwelling.

The court held the Sharps liable to the Joneses for misrepresentation. There was fraud.

The way the Sharps listed their property as one with rental income, and their implied knowledge of building permits showed they were saying, in effect that their house was suitable for rental as two units.

The victim of a fraudulent statement of fact may hold the other person liable for his losses.

The law expects you to know or find out about the law. The seller of a drugstore said his area was zoned to keep out another drugstore. But it was not. In a lawsuit the buyer got nothing since he could have checked out the law for himself.

But a person who claims to be an expert on law or real property may have the courts treat his statements as facts. If he lies, he is liable to the person he has injured.

Such statements do not include obvious "bragging" or "puffing." People can "puff" their property or goods. They can claim that it will go up in price, that rentals are low and should go up, or that the house or car is as sturdy as Mount Rocky. No one in his right mind should rely on such statements alone. He should check them out himself.

To say the tires are new, or the water heater holds 50 gallons, or the coat is all mink, these are all statements of fact. If they are made in order to mislead a buyer, the seller will most likely be responsible for any loss the buyer suffers.

Dairy Cow Struck, Killed By Auto

A dairy cow, believed to be from the adjoining Silveira Ranch, was killed on Highway 101 near Marinwood when struck at 3:05 a.m. today by a car driven by Roy Johnson, 25, of 593 Louis Drive, Novato, the California Highway Patrol said.

An incomplete highway patrol report said Johnson was driving north when he saw the cow running south in the middle lane, swerved but could not miss the animal. Johnson was not hurt.

Candidates' Night Scheduled At College

Candidates for the College of Marin Board of trustees will be questioned on their ideals, programs, practices and policies for institutions of higher learning at a candidates' night to be held at 8 p.m., Wednesday in the college's Fine Arts building.

Candidates in the April 15 election are Donald K. Felt, Robert E. Oliver and Theodore C. Wellman, incumbents; and James Eaquinta and Richard C. Sloan.

Starlings Stake Claim On Clock

BARROW-IN-FURNESS, England (UPI)—The residents of this community don't know what time it is because of thousands of starlings who have staked a claim on the town hall clock.

The starlings, who were driven away from the local shipyards, resettled on the hands of the clock.

Whenever too many gather on one hand, their weight moves it. Town clerk A. M. Woll published an official notice warning that the clock was unreliable.

trade mission to the Far East next month.

Stans, who will leave April 11 for a similar seven-nation tour of Western Europe, will go abroad again on May 9 for talks with government and business leaders in Japan, South Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong.

The statement came as the President huddled with key advisers at his waterfront home.

One of Nixon's major problems is to try to deal with pressing home front needs and still spend less money than the $195-plus billion originally blueprinted by former President Lyndon B. Johnson for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

Since the chief executive figures that inflation and miscalculations already have put the Johnson-proposed budget at $197 billion, he has little leeway to start new domestic programs and still keep a promise to hold spending substantially below the level Johnson forecast.

Gathering for the conference with Nixon were Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch, White House counselor Arthur F. Burns, White House counsel John D. Ehrlichman, and presidential assistants Daniel P. Moynihan and Bryce N. Harlow.

Nixon spent yesterday morning handling official paperwork, including preparations for the domestic policy conference. In the afternoon he took a two and a half-hour salt water cruise aboard the 64-foot presidential yacht "Julie" with Ehrlichman and C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, his Key Biscayne neighbor and friend.

The commission is sponsoring the conference, which will be held from 12:30 to 5 p.m. in Room 400 of the administration building.

The first section will be from the Marin County line to Petaluma, then from south of Rohnert Park to south of Santa Rosa, and from north of Santa Rosa to the Chiquita Road undercrossing near Healdsburg.

Urge To Steal During Pregnancy

HEBBURN-ON-TYNE, England (UPI) — A 36-year-old housewife charged with stealing five spoons and a pound of sausage told a court she has a compulsive urge to steal when she is pregnant.

A defense lawyer read the court a medical report on Mrs. Norma Doyle which said she "developed a compulsive urge to steal during her first pregnancy 11 years ago."

The lawyer said she again had an urge to steal during a pregnancy three years ago but "was able to restrain it." The court put Mrs. Doyle on probation for a year.

Four hundred seventy-five children swarmed over the Tamalpais Valley School playground yesterday for an Easter egg hunt sponsired by the Tamalpais Community Services District, board member Gale E. Bishel said.

Five children won prizes for finding numbered eggs among the 2,000 hidden on the school yard. Tonki Smirnoff, 5, Richard Davey, 11, and Gary Johnson, 7, won first prizes, and Jennifer Martin, 5, and Davey Wilde, 7, won second prizes.

Bianchi of San Rafael, termed the staff proposal "disappointing and unimaginative" compared to his clients "more sophisticated and more imaginative" plan.

The developers plan a 550-room, 14-story hotel, a 130-room motel about 10 stories high, a botel-motel with shops up to four stories high, a restaurant, cocktail lounge, gas station, lagoon, and "transportation center" for boats and helicopters.

Bianchi argued unsuccessfully that the commission had no authority to be concerned about the use of the proposed 15 acres of fill, or that high-rise buildings would be put on the fill, but the commission's legal advisor, Deputy Atty. Gen. E. Clement Shute, disputed Bianchi's contention.

Adocates of the project, repeating praise voiced at previous commission hearings, included spokesmen for the Marin County chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Marin Builders Exchange, Marin County Building Trades Council and Marin Property Owners Association.

Taking a "middle position" was the attorney for adjacent property owner Donlon Arques, who said his client also would want high-rise buildings if the fill application were granted to Sausalito Associates. The attorney, David Gold of San Francisco, added that he could not "reconcile such a decision with the responsibilities of this commission."

Opposing the application were spokesmen for the Save San Francisco Bay Association, Marin Conservation League and Sierra Club.

Voting on an application by Edgewater Yacht Co. to fill one sixth of an acre on the Sausalito waterfront was postponed to the April 17 meeting.

Pollack testified yesterday the young Arab's mental illness was so substantial he hoped Sirhan would get a life sentence and undergo medical treatment.

After almost three months of a trial that has cost an estimated $1 million, Pollack admitted under cross examination he personally had told the district attorney Sirhan's mental disease should spare him.

Pollack, a professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California, stressed he still felt Sirhan had the mental capability to plan the murder of Kennedy and to know the consequences of his act.

Mideast Talks Begin; Shooting Flares Again

Israeli U.N. Ambassador Yosef Tekoah said: "The expectation of the talks has brought about a marked hardening of Arab intransigence," and feared the talks would take a Russian tack, pro-Arab.

Jordanian Ambassador Muhammad H. El-Farra said: "We shall certainly cooperate with the Big Four and wish them luck."

The Big Four's chief delegates at the United Nations — Armand Berard of France, Lord Caradon of Britain, Jacob A. Malik of the Soviet Union and Charles W. Yost of the United States — held their first session yesterday after weeks of individual preliminary discussions.

After four and one-half hours of talk yesterday, they said they had gotten down to business right away and would meet again on Tuesday.

Their communique said the four based their approach on the U.N. Security Council's resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, containing principles for settlement of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

It said they "reaffirmed their support" of Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden, U.N. special representative in the Middle East.

An Israeli delegation source said the communique confirmed Israel's fears because it followed Soviet language "about a peaceful settlement" and avoided the council resolution's language "about a just and lasting peace."

Cairo newspapers gave prominent coverage to the talks. The semiofficial Al Ahram said France had suggested that the thorny question of Jerusalem be left out of the prelminary discussion.

"The French in making this suggestion apparently seem to have the conception of an international status for Jerusalem," the paper said.

Nasser's special adviser on foreign affairs, Mahmoud Fawzi, remained in Washington after former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's funeral and met for 45 minutes yesterday with Secretary of State William P. Rogers. U.S. officials said they reviewed the Middle East and briefly discussed a resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Egypt. Egypt broke off relations during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Rogers said the United States is ready to resume relations, but Egypt made the break and will have to make the first move to restore them.

Meanwhile, Israel and Egypt battled with artillery, tank guns, mortars and small arms across the Suez Canal for two hours today before U.N. observers arranged a cease-fire. It was the first fighting across the canal in 11 days.

Each side claimed the other started the fighting.

The Israeli army reported no casualties but said it twice silenced the Egyptian fire. Egypt claimed its gunners downed an Israeli helicopter and silenced most of the Israeli guns, which it said concentrated on Port Suez.

The clash came as thousands of Christian pilgrims crowded the streets and alleys of Old Jerusalem for the Holy City's second Easter under Israeli rule. But they were 200 miles from the fighting. Jews throughout the nation are observing Passover.

Trustees To Discuss New Grade Ideas

Proposed credit or no-credit and pass or fail marking procedures will be discussed by the Tamalpais High School District board at its 8 p.m. meeting Monday.

Pass or fail rating would be solely for coures in driver education and driver training.

Credit or no-credit rating would apply in courses running the gamut from physics and advanced algebra to music and stagecraft.

A student may choose instead of grades to receive credit only — that is, units — if he meets minimum requirements in the usual A to D grade range or no credit if he does not meet minimum requirements.

Some advantages of the plan proponents say, are that students could take subjects which interest them but which they have avoided because of grade consciousness and that it would encourage a student to focus on mastering a subject rather than on getting an external reward — a grade.

Trustees will also hear proposals for elective English programs at the district's three high schools, the most comprehensive of these coming from Redwood High School.

Redwood's basic assumption is that an elective program with a wide range of courses will be more responsive to student need and interest than the present required sequential program.

Grade level distinctions would be abolished under the Redwood plan. Courses — now based on sopholmore, junior and senior English — would emphasize content or method. And students would choose their own classes based on need or want.

Specified English courses are now required for ninth through eleventh grades and strongly recommended for twelfth grade. English electives are minimal now. Thirty elective courses would be offered in Redwood's program.

A closed session will be held to discuss discharging an employee on grounds that impaired health is interfering with the person's work.

Trustees will hear a second revision of the 1969-70 budget forecast and will be asked to cut back on its first stage building program plans for new construction and portables because recent estimates are $100,000 in excess of earlier ones.

Battery Stolen

A battery was stolen from her car at 2 a.m. today, Ella Davis of 419 Drake Avenue, Apt. 20, Marin City, told sheriff's deputies. She told deputies she surprised someone prowling near her car in the apartment parking lot at that hour but the person fled and she found the battery missing.

Chain Link Fence Discussion Set

A meeting between Marin City citizens and government officials has been set for 8 p.m. Thursday at the Marin City Community Center to discuss the controversial chain link fence along the Highway 101 underpass from Marin City to Sausalito.

The fence, constructed by the state Division of Highways to protect passing motorists from thrown rocks and other objects, has been vigorously attacked by some Marin City residents who say the state is trying to fence them in.

All community groups in Marin City have been invited to the Thursday meeting with representatives of the Division of Highways, the California Highway Patrol and local and county governmental agencies.

Palm Springs Police Send Hippies Packing

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Hundreds of students and hippies, many of whom had been cavorting nude, streamed out of town today after police swept through picturesque Tahquitz Canyon and routed 2,500 squatters.

This fashionable desert winter resort was reported calm although police said about 13,000 Easter vacationers remained in the community in the face of a "firm but fair" policy from authorities.

The canyon campers were routed yesterday after police warned them from a helicopter they were trespassing on Indian lands.

More than 250 officers armed with riot guns, tear gas, rifles and gas masks swept up the canyon on foot and horseback yesterday, routing the motley band that had occupied the area since last weekend.

Police met little resistance as they walked up the one and one-half mile canyon, turned around and walked back down, herding the squatters before them.

They used tear gas to discourage some youths who tried to roll boulders down onto the police officers but no other incidents occurred.

An estimated 1,000 were still holed up on the upper slopes today and police prepared to send in a party mountaineers to flush them out.

Injuries Minor In Ditch Accident

Two persons were treated for multiple cuts last night at Novato General Hospital after their car went into a ditch at the Hicks Valley fire station, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The accident occurred at 10:45 p.m. on the Petaluma-Point Reyse Road, the patrol said, when Thomas J. Moats, 19, of 22 Boulevard Terrace, Novato, lost control on a curve. His passenger was Mary E. Halloran, 18, of 337 McDaniel Boulevard, Apt. 27, Petaluma.

Plea Of Guilty To Manslaughter

James E. Miner, 23, of Penngrove, pleaded guilty yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to a manslaughter charge and was sentenced to a year in jail.

Miner was involved in the Jan. 1 automobile accident on Highway 101 at the Lakeville Highway overpass that took the life of Joanne M. Greene, 18, of Windsor, Sonoma County.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon suspended the jail time, but said Miner would serve 32 days in the Petaluma Jail, spending each weekend there until the time is served. Miner was also placed on probation for two years and fined $1,000 which he was directed to pay at $50 per month.

Budget Hearing

Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District directors last night heard that the preliminary 1969-70 budget will be submitted to the board on May 1, Fire Chief Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported. A public hearing will be set after the board receives the budget, Heynen said.

Joerger To Seek Council Post Again

Seeking his second council term, Joerger ran twice unsucesfully for county supervisor. Employed in real estate and construction, Joerger lives at 1 Jensen Drive.

Exclusive report

Thousands in No. Calif. trapped into feeding sneaky, harmful soil bacteria!

ZEEK saddened at loss of his grass seed.

Northern California residents are actually feeding harmful soil bacteria by planting unprotected grass seed, it was learned today.

Many local people, like Saratoga resident Charles Zeek, never thought there was any risk in planting bargain grass seed until harmful soil bacteria ruined his weekend's planting effort.

"I got the lowest priced grass seed I could get," said Zeek, "and I read all the books and followed the instructions to a 'T'. But now my lawn is spotty and unhealthy – that bad soil bacteria just gobbled up my seeds."

Solution Found

A solution to this menacing problem is on the scene, however. A local grass seed dealer has come to the rescue with a specially protected grass seed. It's called Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green grass seed.

"According to scientific research, this is the only grass seed that can't be killed by harmful soil bacteria," said the dealer, "and it's made only by the Ferry-Morse Seed Co."

Coated Seeds

"Each seed is coated with a special chemical solution called Ultra-Green," the dealer continued. "This coating protects each seed against the attacks of harmful soil bacteria."

Other reports say that Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green treated grass seeds can germinate faster and grow to a lush, extra-thick lawn because of their protection against these types of soil-born diseases.

ULTRA-GREEN: A Recent Discovery

The wondrous bacteria-resistant coating known as Ultra-Green was discovered by research scientists of Ferry-Morse Seed Company in late 1967. Ultra-Green is actually a disease-killing chemical that protects against harmful soil bacteria. Scientists say this protective coating will enable grass seeds to grow healthier and makes lawns lush and a more richer green. "Ultra-Green is only available on Ferry-Morse grass seed," one scientist said.

Bacteria Responsible

Scientists have not as yet released the exact names of these soil bacterias, but do state that they (the soil bacterias) are mainly responsible for the destruction of newly planted grass seed.

Bright Hopes

As the situation now stands, hopes are bright that with Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green grass seed, Northern California residents will be freed from the agony of watching their precious grass seed be destroyed before it has a chance for life.

Residents Get Versatile Protection

Northern California residents can now obtain Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green grass seed in two different mixtures, a company spokesman reports. The official stated that the most popular protective grass seed is "Golden Gate Park".

"This seed mixture has proven to be best suited for Northern California as it's been the leading brand for over 50 years," the spokesman said.

Another protected mixture is called "Ascot".

"This seed mixture is for fine lawn use, as it contains the best of new Kentucky Bluegrasses for a fine bladed and even-textured lawn," he commented.

"No matter which Ferry-Morse mixture the customer chooses," concluded the spokesman, "he will be sure of getting bacteria-resistant Ultra-Green seeds."

EXCLUSIVE SEED NOW AVAILABLE

News has just been released that residents in Northern California can immediately get their supply of Ferry-Morse Ultra-Green grass seeds. Numerous local outlets have been pressed into service by Ferry-Morse to make bacteria-resistant grass seeds conveniently available to area residents. Outlets as released are:

$18 Million Payment Made For Redwoods

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harrison Loesch began his second day as assistant secretary of the Interior today by handing over a check for more than $18 million—partial payment for timber land taken by the new Redwood National Park.

"This is my first public sort of thing since I got my feet under the desk yesterday," said Loesch, assistant secretary for public land management, as he handed the check to John B. Tacke, an attorney representing the Arcata National Corp., a timber company which owned some 11,000 acres now included in the park.

The Redwood National Park Act, signed last Oct. 2, authorized a 58,000-park in California including an estimated 22,542 acres held by four lumber companies and some 4,969 acres owned by other private parties.

The land was acquired by the government immediately upon the signing of the act which authorized later compensation to the former owners.

The green government check delivered to Arcata—looking like any other except for the $18,289,794.52 figure—included $539,794.52 in interest accrued during the last six months.

The final settlement with Arcata is still under negotiation but by making the large down payment now, Loesch said, the government will save another half million dollars in interest charges which would otherwise have built up during the next six months.

Former Fairfax Nurse Denies Manslaughter

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Vera Mae Walsh, former Fairfax practical nurse, yesterday pleaded innocent to charges of involuntary manslaughter and forgery in Sonoma Superior Court.

Judge Lincoln F. Mahan will set the jury trial date next Thursday at 9 a.m. Mrs. Walsh filed a waiver of personal appearance at the proceedings.

She is scheduled for trial April 14 in Marin County on grand theft charges concerning the theft of a diamond ring and glassware from the home of her former employers.

In Sonoma County the manslaughter charge resulted from the Jan. 5 death of her patient, Mrs. Gloria Giannis. Toxicology tests showed the former mental patient died from an overdose of drugs. Mrs. Walsh is also accused of forging Mrs. Giannis's name to two checks after her death.

Hughes Ferrets Out Plans For Larger Nuclear Tests

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Future underground nuclear tests in Central Nevada will have a punch of several megatons and detonations in Alaska will be larger, it was disclosed today by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The revelation came when the AEC played 10-questions with industrialist Howard Hughes, who expressed concern about the effects of nuclear testing in Nevada where he owns $200 million in real estate.

It marked the first time the AEC publicly revealed the approximate size of its planned tests in Central Nevada or Amchitka, Alaska. Scientific aides to Hughes submitted 10 written questions to the AEC and the government replied in writing.

The largest underground thermonuclear devices triggered by the United States to date have been slightly more than one megaton, the equivalent of one million tons of TNT. The atomic bombs used in World War II had a maximum equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.

An apparent feud between Hughes and the AEC began a year ago when Hughes attempted to delay one of the giant tests and failed. The Hughes organization questioned the effects of nuclear testing on seismic activity, radiation and contamination of underground water supplies.

The AEC repeatedly said its nuclear weapons test program did not present a threat to public safety and was a necessity to national security.

Burglars Hit Three Autos

Three car burglaries took place in San Rafael yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Elise Starling Richter reported that her car was parked at Fourth Street and Tamalpais Avenue, between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m., when someone unsnapped her car's convertible top and took a handbag containing three credit cards and her passport.

Dennis F. Leahy of 101 Edward Avenue said his car, parked near 61 Worthington Lane, lost its $20 battery.

Raymond E. Arata of 727 Francisco Boulevard lost a $7 bottle of perfume and a box of silver gun powder when a thief managed to unlock his pickup truck, parked overnight at 737 Francisco Boulevard.

Toolbox, Cash Reported Stolen

A tool box containing a complete set of mechanic's tools and $69 in cash were stolen from Parks Auto Electric at Second Street and Lincoln Avenue sometime Wednesday night, San Rafael police reported today.

The tool kit, belonging to auto electrician Jerry Lee Routh of 1297 Lombard Street, Petaluma, weighed 150 pounds and the tools were valued at more than $500.

The burglars entered a hole in the wall of an adjoining business, Wagner and Weiland Custom Builders at 292 Jacoby Street, police said.

Fire Bombs Ravage Six Topeka Firms

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Police Chief Dana Hummer said fire bombs ravaged six business places early today causing nearly a quarter-million dollars damage.

At least two firemen were injured battling the blazes in widely scattered sections of Topeka. No arrests have been made.

The biggest of the six fires did damage estimated at $175,000 at the Metzger Salvage Center near downtown Topeka. Flames destroyed a brick building, several trucks, a bus, a food store and a house.

The house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Coffman and their son, Kenneth Jr. The son awoke in time to alert other members of the family, and they escaped but lost all their possessions as well as their collie dog.

All the fires broke out in a 90-minute period early this morning. No looting was reported.

Hummer says his department will put extra men on patrol in Topeka tonight.

The first power-driven knitting machine was made in Cohoes, N.Y., in 1832.

Mormon Leader Sees Degenerate Upswing

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — "In the well-ordered home, we may experience on earth a taste of heaven," President David O. McKay told his followers as the 139th annual world conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) opened today in the Tabernacle on Temple Square.

"The strength of a nation, especially of a republican nation, is in the intelligent and well-ordered homes of the people," the 95-year-old church leader said in remarks prepared for delivery by his son, Robert.

Doctors advised President McKay not to attend the conference, a spokesman said, but he was to guide the conference by a telephone hookup.

McKay, believed by Mormons to be a prophet, warned that degenerating forces were rampant in the world, that the conflict between truth and error was being waged with accelerating fury, and "at the present hour error seems to be gaining the upper hand."

"Increasing moral turpitude and widespread disregard for the principles of honor and integrity are undermining influences in social, political and business life," he said.

"The world needs more godliness, and less godlessness; more self-discipline, less self-indulgence," the church leader said.

He admonished youth to prepare for the responsibility of parenthood.

"Often the health of children, if a couple be blessed with such, depends upon the actions of parents before marriage," he said.

McKay's message, and other sessions in the 102-year-old Tabernacle, were to be broadcast over radio and television throughout the world.

Membership of the church is expected to nearly 2.75 million persons—double what it was when McKay assumed the presidency 18 years ago.

Soldiers Jailed On Coast Thefts

Two young soldiers from the Presidio of San Francisco, who pleaded guilty to a burglary in the Panoramic Highway area, yesterday were given a suspended sentence, placed on two years probation, and ordered to spend four months in County Jail.

Judge Harold H. Haley of Marin Superior Court also gave the youths a concurrent 30-day sentence for a misdemeanor charge of joy-riding.

Teen Title To Missouri Girl

Tearful but smiling as she was crowned last night by actor Bobby Sherman, Miss Bunton remarked: "I have never been so shocked in my whole life."

Miss Bunton, a senior at Center High School and a member of the National Honor Society because of her B-plus average, was entered as "Miss Teen Plains States."

Nine Months' Jail Set For Burglary

Melvin Razo, 23, of Berkeley yesterday was sentenced by Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court to nine months in Marin County jail as a condition of two years probation for a burglary Oct. 30, 1967 in Sausalito.

Razo was arrested after a high speed chase when police saw him fleeing from the home of Maurice J. Flantzman at 81 Crecienta Drive, Sausalito.

FUTURE SONOMA STATE COLLEGE HOUSING

Students at Sonoma State College will eventually live in this planned residential complex at the college. Plans for the facility have been approved by the California State College trustees, over the objections of neighboring landlords now renting to students. The college plans to accept bids of the facility in January and hopes it will be completed by September 1971. The living quarters, which will include a swimming pool and cafeteria, will be located on the northwest corner of the campus.

Park Proposal On San Rafael Panel Agenda

The San Rafael City Council will discuss a proposal for a modern park and recreation unit to include tennis courts and an Olympic-sized swimming pool at its meeting at city hall at 8 p.m. Monday.

The city's backing for development of such a complex was urged in a petition with more than 450 signatures presented to the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last month.

The council will also continue consideration of a plan to extend Montecillo Road and develop a three-acre park site. A low bid of $51,000 for the project was submitted last month by Bobo Construction Co. of Novato but the council deferred action until the Monday meeting.

Agreements with Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Terra Linda to pay full costs for the construction of the roadway over the hospital's property and the Dixie School District for a slope and drainage easement will be acted upon.

In other action, the council will consider a resolution to set fees for zoning permits, subdivisions, police reports and other items and a claim by Mrs. Carol Ann Fust in connection with the drowning of her son at the Civic Center Lagoon.

To Hear Plan

The Belvedere City Council will hear an informational presentation by Tom E. Nowell of the Nowell Plan for a convention center in Richardson Bay at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

School Officials To Hear Budget Talk

The Marin Association of School Administrators will meet at a noon luncheon Wednesday in the Tiburon Lodge to hear talks on program budgeting by Dale H. Scott, Santa Clara County Taxpayers Association executive director, and John A. Hulbert, executive officer, State Advisory Commission on School District Budgeting and Accounting.

The association did not meet Wednesday of this week, as scheduled, because of the California Elementary School Administrators Association meeting in progress in San Francisco, H. Joe Edgington, president of the Marin association, reported.

Male Hormone Linked To Shorter Life Span

NEW YORK (AP) — A State University research team reported today that male sex hormones appear to be responsible for men living a shorter life span than women.

The scientists based their finding on a study of mentally retarded men that showed that castrated males live significantly longer lives than otherwise normal men.

The effect of castration on life span is especially great, the scientists said, if it takes place before puberty.

Their report was presented in a paper delivered at the meeting of the American Association of Anatomists in Boston and released here by the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center.

The researchers said the finding also holds for cats: Castrated cats, both outbred and the somewhat inbred name breeds, live longer than normal males. The extension of life is longer if castration takes place before maturation.

Dr. James B. Hamilton, professor of anatomy, led the research team, which included Gordon E. Mestler, assistant anatomy instructor, and Ruth S. Hamilton, an associate and Dr. Hamilton's wife.

Dr. James Hamilton, investigating why females live longer than males, said the difference is about seven years.

"It is clear," he said, "that most of the major causes of death in humans occur more commonly, or at an earlier age, in males than in females, and that males are penalized by the great majority of those diseases which occur more frequently in one sex."

Dr. Hamilton said one theory for the male vulnerability concerns genetic makeup, but said the study supports the theory that male sex hormones called androgens, produced by the testes, the male sex glands, are to blame.

Tiburon Trails Plan Due Study

The controversial Tiburon trails plan and a resolution on Angel Island State Park plan will be discussed by the Tiburon City Council at 8 p.m. Monday in the music lecture room of Del Mar School.

The council's lands and development subcommittee has recommended the trails plan not be adopted until an implementation study has been completed while the city's parks and recreation commission has asked that the plan be adopted immediately with the implementation study following.

The Angel Island resolution will outline city objections to preliminary state development plans for the park.

The council has also scheduled a closed session to consider an appointment to the planning commission to replace Commissioner Joseph H. Bacheller III whose term expires June 24.

TV, Watch Stolen

Jerome C. Testo reported to Corte Madera police last night that someone entered an unlocked window of his home at 56 Crescent Road and stole a portable television set and a woman's diamond-studded wrist watch, the total value being $250. Entry was made between 6:30 and 11:30 p.m., Testo told officers.

Smaller Rat Litters Produce More Brain Cells

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rats which are surgically altered to have only half as many offspring as normal, produce babies with more brain cells than normal, two UCLA researchers report.

According to Dr. Stephan Zamenhof and Edith Van Marthens the reduction in litter size allows more nutrients for each of the babies.

This may mean the surgery alters a mechanism for determining the amount of nutrient to be supplied to each baby in a normal litter, says Zamenhof.

Previous research indicated that a lower protein intake during pregnancy resulted in reduced numbers of brain cells in the offspring.

Zamenhof feels this adds to the evidence that prenatal nourishment affects the eventual intelligence of mammals.

Carpeting Stolen

Petaluma police reported yesterday that a roll of gold carpeting valued at $75 was stolen Wednesday night from a home under construction in the Petaluma Gardens subdivision.

Underground Lighting Plan Prepared For Fairfax Nod

The Fairfax Design Review board last night recommended to the city council that it approve a plan for the first underground street lighting project in Fairfax.

Estimated cost of the project was $2,100, according to figures presented to the board by Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The plan calls for poles against buildings in the first block of Bolinas Road south of Broadway, with brackets and lanterns overhanging the sidewalks.

At intersections, the same lanterns would be used on poles on the street side of the sidewalk with triple fixtures for added light.

Where Bolinas Road widens, according to the plan, free-standing poles and lanterns would be used.

The board will meet at the site of the lighting project at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday to discuss the precise location of the poles, according to Norman T. Gilroy, board chairman.

In other action, the board continued its study of a sign ordinance for the city until its May 1 meeting; approved an application for a sign by Dell's Drive-In Secretarial Service at 85 Bolinas Road, and approved an application for a car deck at 109 Live Oak by Ronaldo Gove. The Gove request now must be approved by the council.

Candidates To Discuss Issues

Candidates for the Mill Valley School District board will speak at a candidates' night Thursday sponsored by the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club and the Tamalpais Valley School Parent-Teacher Association.

The meetinv will be at 8 p.m. at Tamalpais Valley School, with Improvement Club president Charles H. Norton Jr. as moderator. Candidates will first give prepared speeches, then answer questions. Last night's scheduled club meeting was canceled in favor of the candidates' night, Norton said.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Wisteria In Bloom Is A Delight To Outdoor Diners In San Rafael

But La Petite Auberge in San Rafael can. A lush vine was planted perhaps 40 years ago, long before Paul Devaux ever thought of opening a French restaurant. Originally it was out of doors, and older La Petite customers have only to look at it to evoke a flood of memories.

When Paul first started business the vine was larger and untrimmed. It filled an enclosed courtyard which could only be used in the summer because there was no cover across the top. Even then a sudden off-season shower might send diners scurrying for shelter in one of the little crooked-brick ells that made up the regular dining area.

I recall how Paul and Pierre Grigaut, who later joined him as a partner by then, acquired their general onsale license. If I am not mistaken it was Paul who stood in line for hours at the Alcoholic Beverage Control board to apply for one of the several new licenses being issued for Marin. By the time he reached the front of the line there was just one left — and he manage to get it. I believe it was the last new general onsale license ever issued for this county. All other licenses since then have been transfers.

All this retrospection comes about because next Wednesday is a 10th birthday for La Petite Auberge, which started out tiny and increased in stature and in customers through the years. Although there is a modern Rollamatic sliding roof over the dining room, the wisteria continues to bloom, and so does the restaurant. Happy days.

SPECIAL EASTER DINNER menu will be served Sunday from 1 p.m. at Bill and Adolph's West End Villa, San Rafael. And if the weather is fair it's possible some of the diners will spill over into the outdoor dining room for an al fresco experience.

Easter dinner choices include roast rack of spring lamb, prime ribs of beef, veal parmigiana, chicken saute, steaks, lobster tail and caneloni. Fried cream is the dessert.

Accordionist Al Stone will be there as he is now every Friday, Saturday and Sunday. And I am happy to hear that Adrian Mager is back again with his smooth flambe performances. West End impresario of the salad bowl these days is still young Ron Bisson who shows off to best advantage when he launches into a Caesar.

If you should miss West End on Easter but visit there some subsequent Sunday, you might take on an old specialty here: chicken in the pot.

THERE WILL BE no Easter dinner served at Gregory's in Corte Madera this year. For the rest of the spring and summer, Sunday will be a day of closing.

For this new schedule you can hold the rugged Mendocino coast responsible. This is where Gregory and Mary Alyce now have their home, and with both Sundays and Monadys free they'll be able to take more time to enjoy it. Dinner hours are now from 5:30 to 10:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

PAUL DEVAUX
Celebrates 10th year

Gregory's has a new dinner menu. Among the entrees now are Mendocino salmon steak, chicken cooked in whitewine and fresh Petaluma duck. Pepper steak, the dinner steak, pork chops and German enchiladas are still retained and favorites of many. Price range fro dinners is $3 to $5.95; a la carte $1 less.

EASTER YOURS for Rubini's in Fairfax this year will be cocktails starting at 3 p.m. and dinner service beginning at 4.

Current art showing for the month of April is that of Ludwig Limberger of San Anselmo.

LOOK FOR AN OPENING of Senor Alfredo's Mexican Restaurant in San Anselmo Tuesday, April 15. Address is 115 San Anselmo Avenue.

Senor Alfredo's occupies a part of the former Safeway Store building — now completely remodeled. The San Anselmo Post Office will open in the rest of the building as soon as lock-box equipment is installed.

The resaturant is a model of careful Spanish design, modern equipment and clever arrangement of the space, making it appear much larger than it actually is. Owner Alfred Barthel, also an interior designer, is responsible for this. I must say he's put together a neat package, pleasing to the eye and most comfortable.

Alfredo's menu will feature a number of combinations from $2 to $3.50 that include the popular enchiladas, tacos, tamales, tostadas, frijoles and rellenos. Also offered are a low-calorie, high-protein, marinated burgers, guacamole salads and various side orders. Anything on the menu is also available to take out.

A number of beers are listed — domestic, Mexican and other imports, and several brands of good California wines will be available.

Present schedule calls for the restaurant to be open daily except Mondays, with lunches from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and dinners from 5 to 10. Sunday dinners will probably start at 4 p.m.

ANJO'S (new name for the former Quan Lin of Marin) opened at 535 Fourth Street, San Rafael last week with new food, a new food director, remodeled dining room and kitchen and probably some of the most sanitary culinary equipment you have ever seen.

The name Anjo's, as explained previously, is a contraction of the first names of Angelo Camilleri and Joe Scotto, and being short should be easily remembered.

Angelo and Vera Camporeale are both handling the food, he in the kitchen and she in the dining room. Lunches and dinners are served; hours are from 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. everyday except Sunday.

The menu offers several charcoal-broiled steaks, barbecued sirloin, pork and spareribs as well as fried chicken and several seafood entrees. Price range is from $2.50 to $4.25, including soup and salad. Also featured is a number of a la carte salads, sandwiches and desserts.

It's a very attractive and clean place.

THERE HAS BEEN REMODELING going on at the Villa Rafael Restaurant at 1600 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, including new kitchen equipment. This has called for an expanded menu.

Villa Rafael is open for breakfast, lunch and dinner from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. Several breakfast specials and combinations are available. There are soups, salads, sandwiches, broiled items, chicken, shrimp, barbecued ribs and fish and chips either to eat on the premises or take out.

GRAND SPECIALTE DE MAISON at Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo is still the 10-course dinner. Tonight a sumptious new menu is being introduced which essays to capture the spirit of the lavish French court feasts.

Try these three dishes for size and savor: Filet of petrale Sandra, stuffed with salmon and served with chablis and cream sauce; Cornish game hen baked in clay, stuffed with wild rice and mushrooms and served with a hot madeira sauce; rack of lamb marinated in a cask of burgundy and served with three vegetable purees. All of them are included in the 10-course dinner.

WINE DISCOVERIES at CAFE BON VIN
THE BEST IS NOW TO BE!
Le Gala Universel brings you ten courses and nine wines of surpassing excellence. Cafe Bon Vin is half a year old now, and we have solved some of the difficulties which high standards create. You've provided encouragement with your patience and approval—and now, with this "Presentation" Gala, we're prepared to offer our food and wine to gourmet, scribe, or scholar with the happy assurance it measures up to the best.
AH! SUCH GALA FOOD . . .
A WORLD OF WINES . . .
accompanies the repast. Each—from aperitif to after-dinner drink—is the proud product of a different country. Each—a personal discovery of Fred Cherry—has earned the flavorful right to enhance the course it accompanies.
TEN DOLLARS
is still the price you spend for all ten courses of the Gala Universel—unless you count the three or four hours you spend enjoying them all. Four dollars gets you a modest sampling of the Gala cuisine in four courses; six dollars a bigger selection of six courses. Wines by the bottle, the half bottle, or a glass or two of each wine served with its appropriate course. That, of course, is the most rewarding way to dine at Cafe Bon Vin. Reservations are always recommended, often required . . . so call our 24-hour Telephone Secretary (456-6660) as soon as you can; she can tell you about all the special wine events, too.

Draft Evading Sentence Given

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge ordered a two-year prison term yesterday for a man who resisted military service for three years.

Randall T. Millikens, after being sentenced by Judge William T. Sweigert, asked freedom for an additional "week or so."

"I'd like to be free for Easter and Buddha's birthday," he said. The judge refused.

Millikens, 22, registered for the draft in 1964 at his home in Pleasant Hill. But one and one-half years later he said he would refuse instruction in killing.

In October 1967 he wrote his Selective Service board he had thrown away his draft cards. Later he was arrested at a peace demonstration at the Oakland Military Induction Center and last June he refused induction.

That same month, while at the University of California at Davis, he burned half a draft card, the judge noted.

Airport Manager Sees More Gnoss Field Use

When the runway is extended and the lights installed at Gnoss Field, there should be a big upswing in the use of the airport, Frances E. Torr, airport manager, yesterday told a noon meeting of the Novato Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

The airport now has a 2,200-foot runway. The current work will expand this another 1,100 feet. This will cost approximately $65,000 in a $105,000 contract. The remaining $40,000 will install the lights at the airport, he said. This work should be completed the first part of July, Torr said.

There are now 300 pilots making about 1,500 flights per month out of the airport, Torr said. When the new runway extension and lights are in use, he looks for some small airline, such as Skymark which now serves Santa Rosa, to add Gnoss Field to its regular schedule.

The airport has contributed approximately $575,000 to the economy of Marin County during its first year of operation in its new location, Torr said. This includes the sale of airplanes, rentals of airplanes, sales of gasoline, sales, tax, gasoline tax and personal property tax on the 65 planes stationed there, he said.

Although the airport is operating at a loss at present, Torr sees growth of the airport as a continuing thing. He envisions a possible cross runway if a year's study of the winds at the airport show it to be a necessity. A tower may be added to the airport when the traffic warrants it. He said that the airport is getting increased use by businessmen who are finding it an easier access to San Francisco than the airports on the Peninsula.

He said that it is possible eventually to put in a 5,000 foot runway to handle light jet aircraft.

Torr said that he had worked with SFO Helicopters Inc. and that the cost per seat for helicopter service to the county airport was not economically feasible. Helicopters cannot operate economically from north of the Marin Civic Center to the San Francisco Airport, he said.

Museums To Share In Magnin's Estate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Nearly half the estate of Grover Magnin, merchant and art patron, eventually will go to the M. H. de Young Memorial Museum and the California Palace of the Legion of Honor.

A will filed for probate yesterday provides that half the estate go directly to Magnin's widow, Jeanne, with the other half placed in trust in her name. Upon her death, most of the proceeds from the trust will go to the two museums, with minor shares earmarked for several other institutions.

Labor Council Votes Oil Firm Boycott

The Marin County Labor Council has voted unanimously to support a consumer boycott of Shell Oil and Shell Chemical Co. products.

The action came Wednesday after the council heard reports from representatives of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, recently on strike against major oil companies.

'Lion' Just An Escaped Pet Bobcat

Novato's "mountain lion" which has been sighted occassionally in the past six weeks in the creek and hill near Rancho School probably is a pet bobcat which escaped from its home.

The big cat, which has been reported as a mountain lion, has been declawed and its fangs blunted, so it is harmless, according to its owner, Mrs. Warland Ray of 1 Regent Court, Novato.

The Rays moved to Novato from San Francisco in January and brought their pet bobcat and Siamese cats with them. The bobcat escaped on Feb. 11, Mrs. Ray said.

The cat has been reported by several people near Rancho School and within a quarter mile of the Rays' home.

"It is harmless and we would like it back very much," Mrs. Ray said. She said that the cat was tame enough to feed by hand, but would not allow the family to handle it yet. It is only 10 months old.

"I'll go anywhere, anytime that the cat is sighted to try to get it back with food," Mrs. Ray said.

Melvin L. Morse, director of the Marin County Humane Society, said that his organization would help Mrs. Ray in getting the cat back when it is sighted again.

A RINGING CONTROVERSY

Bloomfield's Bell To Appear Again

The long lost Bloomfield bell is scheduled to come out of hiding in the next ten days and onto the auction block soon after.

In the Central Sonoma Municipal Court yesterday, the Bloomfield Community Club Inc. was ordered to deliver the bell, which has been missing for more than a year, to the office of Richard V. Godino at the Marin County Counsel's office for safe keeping for the Tomales School District.

The school board must then offer the bell for public sale with the stipulation that the buyer keep it in the Bloomfield area for historical purposes.

Godino said if the bell is in his possession by the April 21 school board meeting, he will ask the board to set the auction date for the near future.

Leon R. Beck of the community club, said he would remove the 24 inch bell from its hiding place in the stipulated time period, but did not know exactly when that will be.

Saying he was pleased with the outcome, Beck said, "This bell is very important to the people of Bloomfield and this is what we've been asking for." He said the club, of course, will consider making a bid when the auction is held.

Beck said he still has hopes that the bell will one day ring from the specially built tower at the Mary C. Weeks Memorial Park which was ceremoniously dedicated minus the bell last May 26.

How high the bidding will go is anybody's guess, Godino said. In the court complaint the district listed the 100-year-old bell's value at less than $200.

The feud in the community of 84 residents, a tavern, Masonic lodge and fire house developed when the Tomales School District annexed the Bloomfield School and triggered a question of possession. Although the bell legally belongs to the school district, both the community club and the Bloomfield Volunteer Fire Company have claimed custody rights.

Whatever the outcome of the auction, the only thing certain is that the bell will remain in Bloomfield, with the purchaser determining its exact location.

The bell was brought around Cape Horn in a sailing ship by Henry Hall, an original settler of the community in southwestern Sonoma County.

Panel Agrees: Enough Student Regulations

San Rafael Board of Education, with an eight-page stack of regulations on hand, saw no need last night to enact any new policies covering student demonstrations or employee strikes.

Sections of the Education Code, board policy and administrative regulations covering conduct and disturbances were presented to the board by Supt. John F. Plank.

"With all this verbiage, I don't know what else we could do," said board member Herman L. Childress.

Faced with the prospect of running short of operating funds during the 1969-70 school year, board members authorized formation of a citizens finance advisory committee to study the finances of both elementary and high school districts.

The committee should include "those who disagree," said board member John C. Pfeiffer.

Paul McMullen, chairman of Your Elementary Schools Committee, the bond campaign committee, reported that committee is planning to conduct a canvass "to determine voter attitudes toward elementary schools" and toward the $2.1 million elementary bond measure, which will be voted upon June 10.

After long discussion, the board approved application for federal funds for four proposed programs, on the condition that there is full review of the proposals before any money is spent on them.

One proposed program, recruitment and training of local residents as teacher aides, estimated to cost $29,800, would be financed entirely by federal funds.

Board president Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. said the question to consider was whether the district was prepared to continue the program after one year, if federal funding dropped off.

On an application for 50 per cent federal funds for equipment and meterials for the elementary mathematics program, estimated to cost, $13,400, Kramer noted that "you can't substitute materials for imagination."

The elementary district also will apply for 50 per cent matching funds for elementary reading project, estimated to cost $16,775, and consultants in elementary reading, estimated to cost, $1,500.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

STATE FUNDING — Supported AB 409 which, if passed, would provide another $372 million in state funds for public education. Superintendent Plank estimated that San Rafael High School District would receive $275,000 and San Rafael Elementray School District, $75,000 if the bill were passed.

SHORT SCHOOL — Received a report from Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte that construction of the new Short School is scheduled to be completed Aug. 25.

BOND ARGUMENT — Approved a draft of the printed argument for the passage of the elementary districts $2.1 million bond measure in the June 10 election, with a recommendation that it be reviewed by persons not active in school affairs for their comment.

ADULT EDUCATION — Hired as instructors for the adult education program at $6.50 an hour Beverly Charton, bookkeeping and accounting; William Fitzgerald, fundamentals of data processing; Albert Mahood, introduction to photography; Helen Mason, knitting; William McMillin, basic ground school, and introduction to aviation; William Pearson, basic education; Kenneth Rosenberg, cinema photography; Muriel Sparks, tailoring; John Staples, effective speaking; Edward Troy, cinema photography; and Hank Yamagata, body conditioning for men.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Frances Collens, mathematics teacher at Davidson Junior High School, after 11 years, and Joseph Thomas, custodian at Gallinas School, after nine years, and the resignations of Virginia Wirtz, librarian at Terra Linda High School and Barbara Lewin, second grade teacher at Gallinas School, all effective June 30.

LEAVES — Granted Hildegard Berliner, now on leave with the Marin County Community Mental Health Center, Mrs. Cheri-Lee, second grade teacher at Glenwood School, and Roger deJarnette, art teacher at Terra Linda High School, leave of absence for the 1969-70 school year.

GIFTS — Acknowledged as gifts 50 books from Mrs. Frances Rhodes, copies of Scientific American magazine from Mrs. E. B. Heinlein and the book, "The Family of Man" and Commentary magazine from Alan Ellsberg, all for San Rafael High School library, and $25 from the Terra Linda High School Parent-Teacher Association for the school's music department.

NEGOTIATIONS — Named John C. Pfeiffer as the board's representative to meet with the San Rafael Teachers negotiating council April 24 on salaries and working conditions.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until April 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Building, Third and E streets.

Board member Paul L. Jones and Carl J. Brown were absent.

Drake Newspaper Again Honored

The Jolly Roger, Sir Francis Drake High School's student newspaper, has received its ninth consecutive "All-American" rating from the National Scholastic Press Association, the school news bureau reported yesterday.

In judging at the University of Minnesota, student newspapers from more than 1,200 high schools were rated on basis of content, writing, makeup, frequency of publication and printing.

The "All-American" rating, highest attainable, requires a minimum overall score of 3,800 points. The Jolly Roger received 3890.

George Gray is editor of the newspaper and Mrs. Pat Houck is the faculty advisor.

'Vigil For Peace' Set At Courthouse

A "vigil for peace" will be held by the Marin branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom from 1 to 5 p.m. tomorow in front of the Marin County Courthouse, San Rafael.

The vigil is part of a four-day series of demonstrations being staged throughout the nation, according to a spokesman for the Marin branch, Mrs. Carol Shattuck of San Anselmo.

Participants in the vigil will offer a petition to passersby which urges the U.S. to stop fighting in Vietnam while the peace negotiations are being conducted, she said.

More than 1 million big game animals were killed in Wyoming by hunters in 1967.

More Sessions On Food Stamp Program

The list of public briefings throughout Marin County on the new food stamp program — published in yesterday's Independent-Journal — was incomplete.

Omitted from the schedule were briefings set for 7 p.m. May 19 in the West Marin and Tomales Elementary schools. Meetings at 10 a.m. April 28 at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City and at 7 p.m. April 28 in Central School, Sausalito, were added to the schedule by the Marin County Department of Public Social Services Department, which is administering the food stamp program.

Reducing Of Bus Route Costs Eyed

The San Rafael Board of Education heard a report last night on how bussing costs could be cut and asked for further details.

Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte said about $19,000 could be saved annually by increasing the mileage limit for pickups.

At present kindergarten students living more than three-quarters of a mile from school, fourth to eighth graders living more than a mile and a half and high school students living beyond two miles are bused.

SAVINGS SEEN

If the distance for fourth-eighth graders were extended to two miles and the distance for high schoolers to three miles, the savings would be about $19,000, Condrotte said.

There could be an additional savings of about $19,000 if the school opening and dismissal times were revamped, Condrotte reported.

Under this proposal, all high school students would arrive for classes at 8 a.m., Davidson and San Pedro School pupils at 8:30 and all other school pupils by 9 a.m.

Last year the cost of the transpirtation system was just under $114,000 and state reimbursement dropped to $22,853, reported Walter Manley, transportation supervisor.

FUNDING DROPS

In the past 10 years state funding has dropped from 30 to 20 per cent and the cost of operating the buses has risen by 14 per cent per bus, Manley noted.

Condrotte noted that many "ineligible riders," students living within the bus limits, are riding buses.

To halt this practice, the intention is to have bus passes at all schools in the coming school year, he said.

Seminary Choir Will Sing 'Crucifixion'

"The Crucifixion," a musical presentation of the vents around the death of Jesus Christ, will be presented at 8 p.m. today by the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary Oratorio Choir at Broadus Hall Chapel on the Strawberry Point campus.

Carlyle Bennett, professor of church music at the seminary, will direct the hour-long production, and Michael England, a master of divinity student from Mill Valley, will be bass soloist.

"Charge of the Light Brigade" — Biting English film describes events leading to the historical military debacle in the Crimea. Realistic expose of the stupidity of war.

"Charly" — Poignant dramatization of a factional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"Impossible Years" — A slick spurious farce about teenagers and parents. A good cast is wasted on a mediocre film which has nothing constructive to say.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say (Adults Only)

"Dark of the Sun" — Adventure tale of turmoil in Congo in 1960 is so filled with blood and gore that the plot is lost in an orgy of violence.

"Petulia" — Trite story of illicit love, sophisticated comedy highlighted by imaginative photography.

ADULTS ONLY

"I Love You, Alice B. Toklas" — This satire makes free love and drugs seem the life of happiness.

"Dear John" — This Swedish film should have been a clinical study and entitled "Anatomy of Sex or Love."

"One Hundred Rifles" — Excessively brutal melodrama revolving around 1912 uprising of the Yaqui against the Mexican government. Seduction of a white woman by a black man has no logical place in the plot.

"Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" — Story of the unethical and uninhibited conduct of a teacher in a girls school in Scotland in the 1930s. Her conduct is presented as amusing and acceptible. Nudity and sex are explicit.

"Tony Rome" — Fast paced mystery showing the posh high life of Miami and its seamy underworld. Film spreads as much violence, sex and plain filth as can be crowded into two hours of viewing.

A Joint Exhibit

Mill Valley artistts Christine Menkin and Mare McIntyre are showing their tie-and-dye wall hangings this month and next at the Reisinger Galleries, 830 Taraval Street, San Francisco.

Two-Part Seminar Set On Racism

A seminar on "White Racism and Black Protest: Black Revolution — The White Dilemma" will be presented on two consecutive weekends this month at the San Rafael Unitarian Church.

Speakers will include Berkeley City Councilman Ronald V. Dellums; Leonard H. Carter, regional director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Jesse Spicer of KQED and Rev. Samuel Banks Jr. of Marin City.

Sessions will be April 11-12 and 25-26. All sessions start at 7 p.m.

Sonoma Tidelands Study Committee Unable To Agree

A final but inconclusive report on public access to state tidelands will be presented to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors at 3 p.m. Monday.

The adhoc committee, which has been meeting since December, will offer some recommendations, but chairman A. E. Galli reports a consensus of opinion is impossible.

Dr. William Kortum of Cotati and Dr. Kenneth Stocking of Sonoma State College have maintained that the public should have access to all useable tidelands. Committee members Joseph McClelland, director of the Sea Ranch coastal development, and George Charles, representing the coastal landowners, question what determines "useable" tidelands.

Kortum and Stocking consider it to mean any tidelands the public can reach, while McClelland and Charles see a more limited meaning.

Buffet To Help Student Travel

A buffet dinner featuring foreign dishes will be held April 13 at the girls' gymnasium at Sir Francis Drake High School to raise funds for the student exchange program.

Entertainment will be provided by a group of Israeli folk dancers and by Drake High senior Chris Cone, who will sing and play her guitar.

Four students from the school are scheduled to travel in Europe this summer. The dinner will start at 6 p.m.

Author To Discuss Academic Freedom

Dr. Russell Kirk, author and columnist, will speak on "Academic Freedom and Academic License" at 8:15 p.m., next Friday at the College of Marin.

Sponsored by the Concert-Lecture Series, Kirk writes a daily newspaper column, "To the Point" and is author of the book, "The Conservative Mind."

Bipartisan Plan To Help Creditors

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Democratic senator and a Republican assemblyman said today they will introduce bills designed to protect individual rights in reporting credit ratings.

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, and Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, said in a joint statement that their legislation is designed to regulate the credit rating industry.

"All other legislation introduced in Sacramento and in Washington recently does not regulate the industry, but instead aims at isolated abuses or problems," they said.

Their measures would be aimed at assuring the consumer that his credit records are accurate and complete, subject to correction by him; that the information will be used for proper purposes by legitimate concerns; that no highly personal information will be included, and that derogatory information will not be reported after errors have been corrected.

Rec Budget Tentatively At $8,098

A tentative budget of $9,780 for fiscal 1969-70 was approved last night by the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission, chairman George Ellman reported. This year's budget is $8,098.

The budget proposal will be sent to the city council for modification and final approval during budget sessions tentatively scheduled for June.

Included in the commission's budget request was $1,500 for landscape consultants fees for the planning of Richardson Bay Park and some miniparks throughout the city; $1,500 for a summer youth work program; $1,500 for special and civic events, and $1,000 for matching funds with the county for youth and senior citizens programs.

The commission also allocated $750 for planning for city lanes, $500 for signs and Richardson Bay Park playground equipment, $500 for paths and lanes title search, $500 for summer program for kindergarten-eighth grade children, $500 for summer teen-age program; $450 rental of restroom facilities for Richardson Bay Park, $300 for benches to be scattered throughout the city, $280 for commissioners' expense accounts, $150 for development of a nature trail through Reed School Park and $100, weeding at Reed School Park.

Kaiser Nurses Win Pay Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Nurses Association has won $50 a month pay increases for 1,500 registered nurses at 11 Kaiser hospitals and 14 clinics in Northern California.

The $600 a year increases will be given for each year of the two-year pact. The 1969 salary range is $8,160 to $9,600. The pay scale on Jan. 1, 1970, will be $8,760 to $10,200.

Longer vacations and paid educational leaves also were granted.

Pleads Innocent To Stolen Goods

Paul Chaney, 18, of 328 Post Street, Petaluma, pleaded innocent yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Chaney was arrested by Petaluma police after a search of his home produced a television set believed to have been stolen from Silva's Appliances on Jan. 15 and a portable phonograph believed to have been taken from the Cherry Valley School on Nov. 12.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon appointed Michael O'Donnell, deputy public defender, to represent Chaney in future proceedings.

Injuries Minor

David S. Hayes, 16, of 602 Tamalpais Boulevard, Corte Madera, was treated for multiple cuts, scrapes and bruises yesterday at Marin General Hospital after his motorcyle overturned in a driveway off Dover Road in Point Reyes National Seashore at 4:30 p.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

Program's 'Religious' Flavor May Be Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's character guidance program may be tested in court unless the Pentagon makes attendance voluntary or removes "its overall religious flavor," the American Civil Liberties Union says.

The ACLU prediction followed Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's announcement yesterday that such words as "God," "Supreme Being," "Creator," "faith," and "spiritual values" will no longer be banned from the lectures. He in effect reversed a policy set out last December.

Lawrence Speiser, head of ACLU's Washington office, said the organization would not file a suit on its own, but might be asked to represent soldiers dissatisfied with the program, which is a regular part of troop training.

Speiser's complaint resulted in the Army's decision to delete religious material from character guidance training manuals, covering such subjects as chastity and driving safety.

Publicity last week about the decision triggered strong complaints from angry congressmen who said their constituents were appalled by the new policy.

Religious leaders, however, reacted generally favorably. Many said they believed a clear distinction should be maintained between a chaplain's religious duties and lectures given as part of a mandatory secular training program.

Laird's statement said the program is conducted by unit commanders, but Defense Department sources have said the lectures are commonly given by chaplains and the chief of chaplains directs preparation of the manuals.

The secretary specified that the program's purpose "is to instill and strengthen patriotism and a sense of individual moral responsibility in members of the armed forces.

Speiser acknowledged the "legitimate secular purpose of the program" in a letter he sent Laird Wednesday, but contended it "is entirely lost, if not belied, by materials which often amount to texts for religious indoctrination."

In the wake of Laird's reversal, Speiser said some soldiers may decide "they don't want to go to character guidance courses that include what they consider to be religious indoctrination—and they may refuse to attend.

"We hope that the secretary of defense would also issue an order that an individual who objects to the religious aspects of mandatory character guidance courses would be excused from attending."

Only Xerox Tax Protest On Long List

The Marin County Assessment Appeals Board has completed all tax protest hearings for 1968-69 except for 24 protests by Xerox Corp., Asst. Assessor Herschel Johnson reported today.

Xerox filed protests in 24 tax code areas of the county where it has duplicating equipment. The assessor set the total market value of the equipment at $1,506,000, which Xerox contends is too high. No date has been set for the Xerox hearing, pending a review by Assessor Bert W. Broemmel.

Of the 624 tax protests filed, the appeals board heard 231 cases since last September. The board granted 171 reductions totalling $1,417,181 in market value, which comes to about $32,600 in taxes. In three cases, the appeals board raised assessments totalling $19,695 market value, or about $450 in taxes.

Fifty-four of the original protestors withdrew their applications, and 315 were settled by stipulation between the taxpayer and the assessor. Stipulations accounted for a reduction of $3,017,398 in market value, or about $69,630 in taxes.

Tiburon Trails Stand Shunned By Fire Board

The Tiburon Fire Protection District board last night decided to take no official position on the Tiburon trails plan after hearing a plea by Mrs. Leo Bodian for opposition to the plan on grounds it will increase fire hazards.

The board also was told Northwestern Pacific Railroad property behind the fire station has been appraised at $10,500, and agreed to meet with the county counsel to decide whether to proceed with condemnation. The district wants the land for expansion of the station.

The Tiburon Fire Protection District board also:

HOSE — Agreed to buy 600 feet of four-inch hose and four adapters for $1,380 from D. D. Bean and Sons of Jaffrey, N.H.

MEETING — Set a special meeting for 8 p.m. April 16 at Fire Station 1 to complete review of the fire prevention code and to hold a preliminary discussion of the 1969-70 budget.

The Greenbrae Improvement Club last night re-elected Howard R. Gold of 49 Greenbrae Boardwalk as president of the club. The club also named Ray H. Smith as vice president, Margaret Savage as secretary and Oscar Tyroler as treasurer for the 1969 term.

Miller, recording secretary of the group reported work on the new Greenbrae boardwalk will begin this Saturday.

Sleepy Hollow Road Policy Panel Formed

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Association board agreed last night to appoint a committee on road policy to provide a position on Ross Valley-Terra Linda access, association president Frank Berto said today.

The association was also presented with the 1968 proposed budget, which is balanced, Berto said. The budget will come up for approval at the association's quarterly meeting Thursday.

San Rafael High Student Wins Speaking Contest

Reagon Wilson Jr., a student at San Rafael High School, last night won the Region 4 student speakers' contest sponsored by Marin County Lions Clubs at the Marin Civic Center.

Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reagon Wilson Sr. of 36 West Crescent Drive, will now compete in an inter-regional contest April 15 at the Flamingo Hotel in Santa Rosa.

Wilson is sponsored by the San Rafael Lions Club.

Runners up last night were Alice Jacobs of 56 Loring Avenue, Mill Valley, a student at Tamalpais High School, sponsored by the Mill Valley Lions Club, and Catherine Madden, of 1748 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael, a student at Terra Linda High School who was sponsored by the Marin Civic Center Lions.

Bill Proposes Temblor Study

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, says he will propose the creation of a 27-member Bay Area seismic safety commission to prepare comprehensive plans aimed at reducing the effects of earthquake hazards in the Bay Area.

The proposed legislation would require the commission to report to the Legislature within four years on the results of a detailed study of existing seismic hazards, and the effect of such hazards on future decisions on planning and urban development, housing and industrial location, construction design, specifications for dams and reservoirs, fault-zoning and planning, regulation of filled land construction, particularly those susceptible to slides, and the need for removal or modification of parapets.

Alquist daid, "It is vital that communities of the Bay Area know what must be done to protect the lives and property of their citizens. What is needed now is adequate planning for the

Fluoridation Proposal Is Due

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — In what is expected to be a highly controversial move, Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, today announced he plans to introduce legislation which would provide fluoridated water to all Californians.

Vasconcellos says he will offer his bill next week, following the Easter recess, with the proposal to provide the State Department of Public Health to mandate that appropriate levels of fluoridation be contained in all California domestic water service areas.

The bill also would provide for a petition effort by voters of a given water service area to oppose the fluoridation mandate and call for a special election. A negative vote by a majority of the voters would rescind the mandate.

Douglas N. Parkhurst of 36 Tiburon Boulevard, Alto, reported to the sheriff's department that someone stole his auto stereo and an umbrella from his car Sunday while it was parked at his apartment building, officers said today.

Hungry I Owner Pays Tax Tab

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Owner Enrico Banducci of the Hungry I today paid $26,000 in back taxes to the Internal Revenue Service, which slapped a padlock on the nightclub last month.

Banducci, accompanied by two attorneys and a bookkeeper, presented the check to IRS officials at the federal building. It covered his employees' withholding taxes for the third quarter of 1968.

He announced earlier the new Hungry I in Ghirardelli Square would reopen in about a month.

To Elect Officers

The Old Tiburon Property Owners Association will meet at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Old St. Hilary's Church to choose new officers and to hear a report on the Tiburon trails program by George Ellman, Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission chairman.

ACLU In Censor Role; Freedom Documents Next?

The army disclosed last week that it has ordered its chaplains to eliminate all reference to God from their moral lectures to soldiers.

This was done, said a Pentagon spokesman, because of a complaint from the American Civil Liberties Union.

THE POWER of the ACLU appears to be indeed formidable. The military establishment has been known to defy Congress, the public, and even the President who is its commander in chief. But a word from the ACLU, and its policy is altered.

Since the ACLU by this accomplishment has validated its contention that reference to a Supreme Being somehow infringes on somebody's civil liberties, we suppose it will turn next to expunging such references from various documents that have their places in our history and our statute books.

FIRST, IT MIGHT give its attention to "sanitizing" the Declaration of Independence. Wherever it is read in public, that statement on which our republic was erected would, of course, have to be censored of passages such as these:

"When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them . . . "

And: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights . . . "

And: "We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in general congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions . . . "

And finally: "And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

With such odious passages eliminated, the Declaration will be reduced to a recital of the wrongs of King George III. Since these might somehow impinge on the civil liberties of some thin-skinned Anglophile, perhaps it would be best to eliminate them also.

HAVING THUS DISPOSED of the Declaration, the ACLU might turn its attention to the Pledge of Allegiance.

In 1954, the United States Congress added the words "under God" to the pledge, making it read "one nation, under God, free and indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

We never cared much for the addition, because it breaks the rhythm of the beautiful pledge. But for quite different reason, the ACLU ought to get those words out of there. They must be terribly offensive to some atheists, damaging their civil liberties no end. Perhaps a quiet word to Congress, like that to the Pentagon?

WITH THINGS well taken care of at the federal level, the ACLU then could censor the Constitution of the State of California. It is a most obnoxious offender. It opens with the words (please don't read this if your civil liberties might be infringed):

"We, the people of the State of California, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, in order to secure and perpetuate its blessings, do establish this Constitution."

Horrors!

The Unhappy Account Book

April is the month of reckoning for many Marinites. The income tax brings troubles to the account books of those who are already tightly in the squeeze of creditors and credit payments.

Those of us who manage to avoid the latter have a natural resentment that the government doesn't do likewise. Instead, we are all forced to chip in to pay the tremendous interest for debts which many of us did not wish to incur in the first place.

For almost everyone, April is the month of the unhappy account book.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — As interest continues throughout the state in "tax reform," at least one state senator has some harsh words on the subject.

He is Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, who has long been a consistent critic of government financing, and now is attempting through a measure before the legislature to keep the public at least partially in control of school financing through retention of the right to vote on school tax increases.

IN COMMENTING on his measure, and the growing controversy over continuation beyond 1971 of the right of the people to so vote instead of giving educationists an unlimited authority ot increase school taxes as much as they choose, Schmitz says the arguments against his bill "are met with soothing assurance of tax reform in 1971 or sooner to ease the blow."

"In five years in Sacramento," he sayd, "I have yet to see a tax reform that actually reduced the over-all burden on any major group of taxpayers. Tax reform in practice has proved to be no more than a pleasant-sounding and deceitful way of saying 'higher taxes.' "

THIS FACT is apparent as far as the tax reform program of 1968 is concerned. Homeowners were supposed to get a $70 rebate, and probably will get it, maybe before the end of the current fiscal year.

But the rebate will do them little good, for the tax increases levied by cities and counties are expected to eat up the $70 next year.

Thus, little will have been accomplished except for the additional salaries the state and the counties will have to pay for bureaucratic employees to figure out the rebates and the additional printing and postage for the costs of carrying the message to the people.

THE OUTLOOK for the future is not much better, for the proposals being considered for the legislature contain no provisions for limiting the taxes which can be assessed by local government.

Only one plan has any such limit. It is the package submitted by Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, which would substitute a gross margins tax for most of the property tax, and make numerous other changes which require approval by the people through a constitutional amendment. Coombs would fix the local taxes on property at two per cent of market value.

"Tax reform" so far has been all talk and no action, at least, as far as the taxpayers' pocketbooks are concerned.

With the schools carrying the greatest demand for more public money every year, naturally the greatest controversy ranges over the powers of school districts to impose heavier taxes. Passage of the Schmitz measure, SB 35, at least would give some measure of assistance.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Sanitary District's Planning Questioned

Not many people know about the pollution that is taking place every day in the North Bay and in the Novato Creek. Since it was formed, the Novato Sanitary District has built sewage treatment plants, and now operates two plants discharging into the Novato Creek.

If you take a hike along the creek banks in the summer, you will see large ponds of algae floating in the tidal areas of Novato Creek, and the State Health Department has said that the concentration of sewage waste, no matter how well treated, in the Creek causes a public health danger . . .

Novato Sanitary District's own master plan prepared in 1965 calls for constructions at Black Point and new outfall sewers. These facilities have not even reached the detailed planning stage nor has land been acquired for them. In fact, the sanitary district doesn't even have plans for a long-term bond financing program. It has rested its present financing program on connection charges and because of slow growth in recent years, these have not produced any substantial revenue.

In effect, taxpayers today are paying on a pay-as-you-go basis for the new $300,000 pumping station at the Novato plant, which exceeded estimates by 100 per cent . . .

It is obvious the sanitary district needs some long-range guidance and planning. It can get these through merger with the water district, which has shown that it can plan and execute long-range financing programs on time and within budgets.

Interest Conflict Should Be Stopped

The I-J issue of March 25 has a well written editorial entitled "Ticklish Interest Conflict For Teacher-Trustees," which brought into the open the conflict of interest trend which is now growing in the Marin County school system.

. . . This could be a case of "you scratch my back and I will scratch yours."

This practice should be stopped now before it gets out of hand and becomes another system of gouging the taxpayer.

Also this constant demand by the teachers for salary increases should be called to a halt. As of now, they receive a $300 salary increase each year, but on top of this they still demand more of our tax money.

In closing I wish to state that according to the Ralph M. Brown Act, all these salary discussions should be held in open meeting so that the poor taxpayer can see just who puts on the pressure and which trustees hold the line. This is not being done in most cases.

Report On 'No' Votes Distressing

The lead article of the March 20 I-J about the San Rafael school bond's failure distressed us greatly.

Your editorial of Feb. 14 urged a large yes vote on the school bonds. Actually there were 724 more yes's and 179 ness no's than the October 1967 elementary elections. Does seven "no" replies constitute adequate coverage of why the bond issue failed as you state in the March 20 article? Is this responsible journalism?

Some of these well meaning people see the problem as the system's inability to explain the need for a bond issue. Possibly those that were interviewed would be willing to work on the June bond issue to get it better understood or to raise in public the legitimate questions being asked. The reaction of the board to the bond issue failure appears to be a rather human one. They must have felt that their open sessions at the board meetings had answered the need for those willing to spend an evening with them. Did the people who didn't understand the issues attend many meetings where it was discussed? Have they been to the board meetings to ask questions? Or is this the proverbial griping?

There are several specific projects seeking funding we'd like to comment on. One is the condition of fields. Who can be proud of a public facility like Davidson that has a dirty, mosquito infested moat around it part of the year, and occasionally a raging water runoff. Can the taxpayer afford the $5 tax per $20,000 home per year vs. the horrible possibility of harm or worse someday because of this open sore?

Another comment. Portable rooms made necessary by continual "no's" on bonds diminish money for curriculum. This is the worst kind of economy for which aur children must pay . . .

(Editor's note: To the query in the letter's opening paragraph: The repeated failures of school bond issues call for examination of the causes. This is responsible and responsive journalism.)

High Standards Aid Local Control

Wherever regional government is being considered, we are likely to hear the chorus: Local Control — a sacrosanct phrase.

Yet if our local standards and controls are as high or higher (as they should be) than those set regionally, what have we to fear?

Let us be sure we are not simply hiding behind the "local control" shibboleth through fear that we might have to spend money to meet regionally acceptable standards, or worse, that we may be profiting through lower standards at the expense of the region.

Finally, let us not be provincial, vain big frogs in our little puddle, but rather show a generous and cooperative concern toward the problems facing our entire Bay Area.

THE DRUMMONDS

The Case For ABM System: 'Limited' Deployment Or None?

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Don't let anyone tell you that the antiballistic missile issue is too complex to grasp.

It isn't and before long that will be evident. The reason is that the ABM foes in Congress will run out of rhetorical arguments and technicalities and then the heart of the matter will be exposed where your opinion and ours will be just as valid as anyone else's.

Then the core of the question will be exactly this:

Whether to resolve honest doubts about how best to keep the United States safe from nuclear attack on the side of prudence.

Or whether to take unnecessary chances with the nation's security and hold up even limited missile defense until we can see how much greater the Soviet and Chinese nuclear strength will be.

LET'S BE CANDID and clear-headed with oursleves. This ABM deployment issue can't be settled as though it were a matter of geometry. There are too many unknowns in the equation. No one can know for sure how far the Soviets are going with their own ABM deployment or how rapidly they may be eroding our own deterrent by installing their new and vastly more destructive SS-9 ICBMs. No one can known for sure exactly how well our own ABMs will work. There are honest differences of opinion. But after the experts have testified and the witnesses have argued pro and con, there is a single, simple question which must be answered and which every American, expert or not, can answer with his own judgment:

Is it wise to resolve doubts on U. S. security on the side of no missile defense or beginning some missile defense?

That's the key question and it is on this question that the American people can and will render a decision in the next few weeks.

OUR OWN conviction is that the case the ABM opponents are making becomes weaker the more it comes into the open.

Here's an example: Sen. J. William Fulbright uses epithets instead of facts in trying to counter Defense Sec. Melvin Laird. Laird cites the rapid Soviet deployment of new offensive nuclear weapons. Fulbright doesn't deal with the facts but accuses Laird of using "the technique of fear." Laird isn't fearful and he isn't asking anybody to act on fear; he simply wants to do something about the facts and to act on reality, not ignore it.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, another opponent, argues that it is the United States which is taking "the first step in the deployment of a new system of nuclear weapons for both area and missile site defense" and he suggests this will escalate the arms race.

The fact is that the Russians are already deploying ABMs and that the United States would be matching limited Soviet deployment with limited American deployment.

The critics of U. S. missile defense argue that limited U. S. deployment will destroy the prospects of U. S./Russian arms-control talks.

That's the argument they brought against the Johnson Administration's ABM program, that it would destroy the prospects of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty. But it didn't.

IF YOU WERE President of the United States, negotiating with the Russians, which of these two alternatives do you believe most likely to get results:

1. U. S. ABMs partially deployed as Russian ABMs are partially deployed.

2. The ABM discarded by Congress after approval by the President.

If the opponents of the President's decision are going to reject limited ABM deployment in favor of no deployment, then they ought to be willing to say openly to the American people: "We ask you to take the risks of no deployment."

Conglomerates Stir Fear Of Aftermath Of '20s

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

Hamer H. Budge, the new chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, is concerned about the current uptrend in conglomerate mergers, those transactions that link firms engaged in disparate lines of business. He has reason to be worried.

What alarms Mr. Budge is not the fact that the mixed corporate marriages are producing some huge concentrations of economic power. While that facet of the situation deserves attention, it's largely the business of the Justice Department, which has shown no hesitancy to move in on suspected violations of the antitrust laws.

The new SEC chairman's concern — shared by New York Stock Exchange President Robert Haack — is mainly the manner in which an increasing number of mergers are handled. In some cases, he told a House Commerce subcommittee the other day, the financial arrangements are disturbingly reminiscent of the creation of utility holding companies during the 1920s. . . .

The utility holding firms pyramided companies, in the process contributing heavily to the speculative boom that ended with the crash of 1929. After the crash, many of the holding companies collapsed, with huge losses for private investors.

Like the utility firms, companies assembling conglomerates sometimes take over other firms by issuing not common stock but a variety of complex securities, such as convertible preferred stock, stock warrants and convertible preferred debentures. Mr. Budge is right when he says that many investors simply do not understand what is going on. . . .

It does not serve the public interest for conglomerates to be used as vehicles for financial manipulations, for them to become targets for unknowing speculation. Mr. Budge's concern is therefore not only proper but significant as a warning.

Surely no one is eager to recreate the aftermath of those roaring twenties.

ABM And Military Mind

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The weird world which the military mind inhabits was never better depicted than in an exchange between Senator Stennis and the Defense Department's research director at the ABM hearings recently.

To counter the great weight of scientific opinion that the complex electronic controls of the system would prove ineffective under actual conditions of a nuclear attack, Senator Stennis solemnly asked Dr. John S. Foster to stake his professional reputation on his belief that the system would work. Dr. Foster just as solemnly did so. And neither gentleman saw anything ludicrous in the fact that there is no way Dr. Foster's professional judgment on this matter can be tested except by a nuclear holocaust, in which case his professional reputation would not matter much to him or anybody else.

Though the technical objections to the ABM from highly qualified experts are important, the critical issue is not whether the system would work, a question nobody can answer for sure. Even assuming that Dr. Foster rather than all of the presidential science advisers of the last three administrations turned out to be right, the basic objection would remain — namely, that a fully deployed ABM will represent one more escalation of the nuclear arms race which is bound to provoke responding escalation on the other side. Successive escalations in the past have not increased anybody's national security, and neither would this one.

Black Students At Redwood Claim Progress And Satisfaction

Much of what appeared in this column two weeks ago, quotes by two black students about a black history class at Redwood High School, was not true, according to Mary Ann Compton, president of the Black Student Union at Redwood.

The two students were critical of the class and of the Redwood Third World group in articles which appeared in "Right On," the newsletter of Project Breakthrough.

Miss Compton's primary objection was that the articles, written at the start of the semester in early February, no longer give — if they ever did — an accurate picture of the class or the Third World group (now BSU).

She said one girl, Deborah Perry, is a Tamalpais High School student and wrote her articles after attending only one history class session as a guest.

THE OTHER article, by Frances Tate, said black students weren't allowed to have a Black Students Union. The BSU was formed shortly after the semester started, Miss Compton said, and "there was no opposition" from the school.

The articles, Miss Compton said, seemed to indicate that Redwood is "trying to use the black student . . . and didn't have any interest in the black student."

In fact, she said, "We have more freedom at this school than the white kids — we don't stay in anybody's place."

There was more, but her main point was in that last quote — that the black students of Redwood are neither disorganized nor subservient as the two articles seemed to imply.

Redwood, incidentally, is expanding its black studies next year with addition of a black literature course, possibly with a black teacher, Miss Compton said.

Among BSU activities are fund-raising dances and bake sales to buy more books for black studies.

Eulogy For Beloved American; Question On Bus System Study

Fusselman

From the fields where the corn grew higher and higher came the man we all loved and admired so much — the man with the earnest, sombre face, which could burst into such warmth of understanding — the man destined to reach the world's highest levels of authority without losing the human touch.

Now, he whom we have been praying for during these past many years of illness has finished the long journey home to lie peacefully in the Chapel of Meditation, built in the midst of the fields he used to tend as a boy.

He must have been the most loved man in the world.

IT HAS BEEN possible for me to watch all that took place during the three days of the army's impeccable handling of the farewell. Those of you who were likewise privileged to watch must have been impressed, as was I, with the gentleness — the tenderness, if you will — of every step of the proceedings. They really cared, each and every one of them.

These thoughts crossed my mind as I watched. You see, I was born in Kansas two years before he was born in Texas, so know of the things he witnessed during his remarkable life.

He saw the development of the automobile from the very beginning, the airplane and the submarine, electricity from the first steam-powered generators to the mammoth hydro-electric and now the atomic power plants, the emerging of communication from out of the dot and dash era to wireless dot and dash, then to radio-voice and television.

He witnessed all the scientific advances in medicine and surgery, which gave him 14 more happy years with his beloved Mamie and his family, especially with David, his only grandson.

Even though he wasn't able to be present, he could delight in the marriage of David and Julie and could watch by television the inauguration of her dad as president.

Of the many things in which he had participated, that have been mentioned since last Friday, one was hardly mentioned in passing — his eulogy of and farewell to his old comrade and friend, Winston Churchill, which was so genuine and earnest and revealing of himself, the man we affectionately called Ike. Our love goes out to the gentle Mamie, too, who at St. Louis came out on the train platform, with David, to say, "Thank you for coming down to express your deep affection for him. We are very proud." Said her 15-year-old granddaughter, "She is a strong lady." We think so too.

NOW ON the local scene: In the I-J issue of March 18 was a story that was kind of hard to figure out. The heading was, "Bus System Accounting Backed." Then that the transit district directors voted 5 to 2 to hire a financial consultant to work out accounting methods for a Marin-San Francisco bus system at a cost of $14,000 (this figure to be trimmed down.)

Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley made the motion, Michael Wornum seconded it. They were joined by John F. McInnis, Peter Arrigoni and Louis H. Baar. Edward W. Colthurst and Bill Gnoss voted no. Gnoss said the county transit district staff should be able to work with the Golden Gate Bridge staff to do this. Colthurst said the physical layout of a bus system should be planned before the financial study.

McInnis suggested some curtailment of the study to bring the cost down. One of the items he suggested tossing out was a study of what it would cost the Marin Transit District to operate a bus system of its own, as such would be useless as the district lacks funds to operate such a system on its own.

Question: Why spend the $14,000 or any part of it for any study at all at this time?

Jail Sentence On Gun Charge

Harold Dean Arrasmith, 32, of San Rafael, yesterday was given a suspended sentence for possessing a concealable weapon and placed on two years' probation with a condition that he serve 90 days in the County Jail.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court sentenced Arrasmith, who had pleaded guilty to having a revolver in his apartment building in San Rafael in February 1968.

Mother Claims Police Beat Her Son Twice

A Santa Venetia mother has accused two members of the San Rafael Police Department and two members of the Marin County Sheriff's Department of working over her teen-aged son on March 26.

In a letter dated April 2 to Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, with copies to the Marin County Board of Supervisors and the Independent-Journal, Margaret H. Johnson of 401 Vendola Drive says her son, Stuart, was beaten twice, once during his arrest and again at Marin County Jail.

The youth was arrested 10 days ago booked at the jail on suspicion of malicious mischief and resisting arrest. San Rafael police said Johnson kicked the door of an unmarked police car, scraping the paint, then put up a fight when arrested.

Mrs. Johnson — a teacher in Sonoma on sabbatical leave — wrote that witnesses have told her that her son was "violently knocked to the ground and kicked . . . by (San Rafael) officers (Carl) Selby and (Robert) Wade" in the struggle at Northgate Shopping Center.

She charged that later at the sheriff's headquarters her son was beaten again by two deputies, "one tall sandy-haired man and a short man with dark hair."

The two deputies, she said her son told her, rammed his head into an office cabinet several times before "heaving (him) bodily into a padded cell."

The latter incident, Mrs. Johnson said, was witnessed by a group of people who were not in uniform and unknown to her son. "(They) stood by, watching without a word," her letter states.

After being released from jail, the youth was taken into a room by "an officer named Texeira (who) threatened he would have my son back inside the jail within a week," Mrs. Johnson said.

Her son's draft card was missing from his wallet when he got it back at the jail, she said. The sheriff's department told her that they didn't have the card, she said.

The day after Stuart left jail, Mrs. Johnson said she took him to Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital. X-rays showed no broken bones, she said, but he was given medication to relieve his pain.

Mrs. Johnson's letter closes:

"As an elementary school teacher for 13 years I have always tried to give my pupils the impression that the police are our friends, that we should trust implicity these kind, patient and wise men who are there to help, not frighten us. But it seems Selby, Wade, Texeira and company are out to kill that confidence."

Campus Unrest Warning Issued

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California has warned students again it won't tolerate "the use or threatened use of force" on campus.

The warning from Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Johnson came as students prepared to return to classes today in the opening of spring semester.

Johnson said the school would respond to force with dismissal and noted that university president Charles J. Hitch has ruled that property damage must be paid for by the offenders.

He also said that a student-faculty committee is working on new guidelines for peaceful picketing. The Third World Liberation Front strike is still on, according to its leaders, although there has been no talk of resuming picketing.

Cyclamates Face New Label Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has proposed new rules for labeling foods and drinks containing cyclamates, the most widely used type of sugar substitute.

The Food and Drug Administration estimated yesterday that the regulations would be made effective in an official order within two months. Manufacturers will have 30 days before then to file comments and objections.

FDA Commissioner Herbert L. Ley Jr. said the labeling changes would require listing the cyclamate content and a statement that adults should not consume more than 3,500 milligrams a day or children more than 1,200 milligrams.

Dairy Princess Committee Is Announced

A committee of 12 Petalumans has been formed to plan the May 10 district Dairy Princess ball at Petaluma Veterans Memorial Building; according to Ned Davis, manager of the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce.

Heading the group as general chairman is Henry Tomasini. Assisting him will be James Ordway.

Dairy officials report that last year more than 1,100 persons attended the local contest, making it the largest in the state. The local dairy princess selected at the ball will compete in June for the state title. The dairy district includes Marin, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Napa and Solano counties.

Board Concerned Over Election

The Marin County Board of Education will consider adoption of a resolution Monday urging the Marin County Committee on School District organization to stipulate that any unified election proposal be voted upon from the total district and not a portion of the district.

If this is not done, said Robert E. Spain, director of administrative services, it would be possible for one portion of the district within the unification proposal to vote "yes" and thus become unified while other portions would remain nonunified.

The board will meet in closed session with Spain as negotiator to discuss guidelines for negotiating teachers salaries for 1969-70.

The meeting is at 8 p.m. in the County Schools Office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Misplaces Watches

Dr. Thomas Hart, who reported that someone had taken two watches, valued at a total of $50, from the glove compartment of his car while parked at the United Market, San Anselmo, last Saturday, told police yesterday that he found the watches in his house on Upper Road West, Ross. Hart told officers he evidently had misplaced them.

Far-Ranging Summer Class Program For Sonoma State

Summer session classes at Sonoma State College ranging from anthropology to travel study tours of Europe and Mexico have been planned by Dr. Carroll V. Mjelde, dean of summer sessions and educational services.

Most of the courses are scheduled during a one-week intersession, June 16-20; a six-week session, June 23 through Aug. 1; and a three-week session, Aug 4-22.

The courses are open to all high school graduates without the filing of official transcripts and other records, providing they meet the prerequisites of the course. Regular college credit will be offered in the courses and all classes, except the tours, will be held on campus.

Registration will take place at the first class meeting, but intent-to-register forms should be filed with the college as soon as possible. Catalogues and registration forms may be received from the summer session office at the college, 1801 East Cotati Avenue, Rohnert Park.

Judge Refuses To Review Case Of Dick Gregory

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dick Gregory today remains in the Cook County Jail after a federal court judge refused to review a state court conviction of the Negro entertainer and civil rights leader.

Gregory began serving a five-month sentence for battery and resisting arrest on Tuesday.

U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman refused yesterday to review Gregory's state court conviction in dismissing a petition for a writ of haebeas corpus.

In dismissing the petition, Hoffman said the Illinois Appeallant Court had already decided that Gregory had had a fair trial, and the U.S. Supreme Court had refused to review the case.

Superstitions Surround Good Friday

By GRACE HENDERSON

Whether the day is called Karfreitag, Long Friday, Holy or Great Friday or Good Friday, many myths and superstitions surround the Friday before Easter, the anniversary of Christ's crucifixion.

The Anglo-Saxons used to call it Long Friday, because of the length of their services that day. In Greek churches it is known as the Holy or Great Friday and Germans refer to the sorrowful connotation of the Crucifixion by naming it Karfreitag.

In England, some years ago, blacksmiths refused to shoe a horse on Good Friday, as hammer and nails were associated with the Crucifixion. In Yorkshire, people wore no shoes to church because the nails would leave marks in the ground. And nails had been used on the Cross.

Why the term Good Friday was developed is a mystery. Some feel it is a corruption of the term God's Friday, based on the recent farewell "Goodbye" when it replaced the "God be with you." Maybe it was begun to stress the good that came from evil, no one seems to know.

Pagan influence is strong in Lenten traditions. Items such as Pennsylvania Dutch farmers not selling eggs laid on Good Friday are almost unbelievable in the 20th century but at one time such myths were considered "gospel." That these eggs could cure ailments is now considered fantastic and being handy in extinguishing fires seems farfetched but practical, maybe. We do know that eggs laid on Good Friday will not keep fresh indefinitely as the superstitious believed. We can agree however, that eggs laid that day are a good omen if eaten the same day (doesn't everyone prefer fresh-laid eggs?)

How many mothers would wean their baby on Good Friday because it is the best day of the year for weaning babies? In the past the practice was traditional.

Some people say it is unlucky to plant garden seeds and potatoes on Good Friday while others maintain potatoes planted that day will bring a good crop. The latter myth holds true today in the western United States, with widespread usage.

"The sun never shines on Good Friday" is another belief by some. Others break pottery in their homes in the belief their house will be spared of any damage the coming year. Somehow the breaking of dishes was related to bruising Judas, thus atoning for at east a portion of Christ's suffering on the Cross.

A quaint ceremony is conducted at St. Bartholomew's Church in Smithfield, England each year on Good Friday. It is held on a flat tombstone in a church graveyard. A warden of the church places 21 new six-pences on the surface and 21 widows come, one by one, to kneel and pick up a coin.

The origin of this ceremony is unknown and it seems surprising that a tradition involving coin would continue without more knowledge. One theory has it that the person buried beneath the stone left money to be distributed in this manner. But, again, nobody knows.

Agriculture has always been involved where there are supersititions and myths. Some, however unlikely, do seem to hold true while others are purely speculative.

In the Old World it was considered fortunate to plant parsley and good also for beans and peas. It was also a very good day to graft fruit trees. In Spain melons and marrows (beans) are set and country tradition says that seeds put into the earth on Good Friday will always survive. The reasoning is that on that one day of the year the soil is redeemed from the powers of Satan.

Fishermen considered it unlucky to go fishing but beekeepers could, with good omens, move bees that day.

If it rained, one should catch the rain in a bottle because this would cure eye troubles. Gypsies would not use water on Good Friday because of Pilate's washing his hands that day and they wanted no part of Pontius Pilate.

The Irish went all out in observing Good Friday by calling it "Black Fast" and eating nothing, only drinking a little water or tea. In Central Europe vegetable soup and bread were served at noon, and only cheese and bread at night. Both these meals were eaten standing, and in silence. The entire day was somber, the children being forbidden to play games, laugh, joke or even do noisy work.

In some parts of Europe it was considered fortunate to die on Good Friday, thus assuring a speedy entry to Heaven as shared with the "Good Thief."

Today, all over the world Good Friday has come to have a different influence on people and is declared an official holiday in numerous countries, including Great Britian and some parts of the United States. For some it has come to mean chiefly an escape from shops and factories but for most there is a deep-rooted feeling that this is a day apart from all others.

Many churches in America and abroad conduct Good Friday services, lasting from noon until 3 p.m. in remembrance of the time spent on the Cross by Jesus. This is the "Service of Three Hours" or "The Seven Last Words."

The service was first held in Lima, Peru in 1732 but spread through Latin countries, thence to England from Italy and from there to the United States. The service is conducted in Protestant and Catholic churches, with united or ecumenical services becoming more frequent as churches bind themselves in brotherhood.

But as Good Friday is considered a day of deep mourning or sorrow for believers throughout the world, then so is Easter Sunday the climax of Holy Week, bringing joy and celebration. And with Easter comes more pagan customs and many beautiful traditions celebrating the Resurrection of Christ.

MRS. WILLIAM G. SCHENDEL hopes to spare her house of any damage the coming year by breaking pottery on Good Friday. The old belief originated with the idea that in some way breaking dishes would bruise Judas and atone for Christ's suffering on the Cross. Her eyes closed against flying crockery, the Novato housewife dreams of the good that could come from the mess. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

"THE SUN NEVER SHINES on Good Friday" is one of many supersitions connected with Good Friday. The rain water Mrs. William Schendel is catching is good for washing hair and will also cure eye troubles, some people believe. Other myths are associated with water and Good Friday (see story). Today, Marin residents are observing the day by attending church services in preparation for Easter Sunday. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Soft Voice Relieves Crisis

By GARY CLAXTON

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — "I have plenty of time," the soft female voice said to the man on the other end of the telephone line. "Go ahead and cry."

The man broke into heavy sobs.

"A lot of pressure is leaving, isn't it?" asked the young housewife.

"I have, lady, believe me," the hoarse voice said. "I have, but now I'm going to be fine."

A central switchboard had directed the nighttime caller to the woman's home, one of hundreds of calls handled during the past year by Omaha's two telephone counseling services.

"This is humanity at work in the gut position of really loving our brother," the housewife said. "Is there anything more important than helping where there is no help?"

The Lutheran Medical Center supports Guideline which is staffed by 10 persons with degrees or several years of experience in sociology, psychology, psychiatry and social work.

Personal Crisis Service, staffed by 54 trained volunteers from physicians to housewives, depends on private donations.

The services attempt to remain nonsectarian in response.

"I've never had a problem theologically," one counsellor said. "The people who are desperate enough to call us want to hear about the God who loves us. It would be an insult to the problem to say, 'Do you want the Catholic or the Protestant version,'" she said.

The services aim to let the troubled know that help can be found.

Much of the counseling involves directing individuals to one or more of the 206 public agencies offering the Omaha area medical, legal and social aid.

"Most callers say they don't want anybody to come to help," she said. "But they really do. That's why they're calling. We tell them who can help. And if they're sincere, they'll call."

Here are some of the people, with names changed, who have turned to the telephone for help.

Mary was afraid to be alone. She had weathered her divorce. But staying alone, with her three children, was getting to be too much.

Her counsellor said. "All she wanted was the assurance that she could make it through one particular night. And I don't think she was so fearful of the night as she was fearful of the future."

The counsellor reviewed the basic actions Mary could take in securing her house for the night, assuring her that other women also face long nights alone. Long-range planning resulted in Mary finding employment.

Lynn faced a different problem.

Her husband had been gone four days on another drinking bout. She was out of money, food, family and friends.

A package of programs involving the whole family resulted in vast improvements in her home life.

Many teen-agers, disturbed about home or social situations, call the service. They feel misunderstood, unloved, pressured or that their lives have no purpose.

Diane, age 14, called after undergoing six weeks of hospitalized psychiatric theraphy. Extremely depressed, she showed no interest in socializing, especially with boys, and couldn't study.

She confessed that her despondency resulted from incest with her father since the age of 11—a truth that psychotherapy had not uncovered.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Employee Establishes Rapport Through 'Silent Communication'

DEAR HELEN:

My boss doesn't act normal. For the three years I've been working here, he has never once said, "Good morning." The most we ever get out of him is a sort of cleared-throat "Er-umph."

He never tells us our duties. He ignores questions. When he's ready to start out on jobs, he puts the material in the truck and jumps in. That's our signal to follow. We don't know what job we'll be on till we get there, and afterwards we follow instructions on the work sheet, or follow his silent lead.

He can talk, but he won't. How do you cope with a guy like that? — STILL WONDERING

DEAR S. W.:

If you have questions, write them out and tape them to the truck's dashboard. Since you've made it three years without communication, I'd say you've established more rapport than you realize. . .at least you can follow your boss' nonverbal lead. Leave him his silences. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I would appreciate your opinion concerning a dispute between my wife and myself. She feels it is perfectly okay to dance with another man cheek-to-cheek if this is the way he dances. I feel that cheek-to-cheek should be reserved for someone special (like me).—R. R. H.

DEAR R:

I feel that if a husband has a reasonable request, his wife should not get cheeky about it — or with other men. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband is a dentist, so I feel qualified to answer "Indignant Mom" who resents not being allowed to watch her child receive dental care.

In this day of pre-medication even a shot doesn't hurt. So why must parents plant the idea in childrens' minds by saying, "Don't worry, honey, it won't hurt." If they'd treat a visit to the dentist as part of the routine of daily life, there would be no strain. And if two-way mirrors were installed in the waiting room, these apprehensive parents would find out that little patients are precious to the dentist. There's no need to worry. — MRS. PEDO

DEAR HELEN:

As a dental assistant I can say children are much better patients when Mom stays in the waiting room. I've seen mothers talk constantly to children and even read them stories while the dentist is trying to do his job. I wonder how "Indignant Mom" would like constant chatter or someone looking over her shoulder while she is doing her housework or other jobs?

So far as a dentist changing his manner when the child is left alone, forget it. He wants the children to feel happy and confident. — ASSISTANT

DEAR HELEN:

It isn't that I distrust the dentist, but if a child wants his mother or father to stay with him for the first visit or two, it should be allowed. Think how alone he must feel in that big chair. — MRS. W. G.

DEAR HELEN:

You drew a parallel with the school (on the dentist business) in implying that a parent would likewise be out of place "to camp at the school to clock the teacher's every move." As a teacher I would like to make clear that parents should not only be free to visit classrooms but should be encouraged to, most particularly when they feel, rightly or wrongly, there may be some divergence between them and the child's teacher. — LEWIS H.

DEAR LEWIS:

But you can't deny, Mr. H., those parents would be highly unpopular with the teacher! — H.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Duplisea of Greenbrae have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lynn Carol Duplisea of San Francisco, to Franklin George Burnside of Orinda.

The couple plan a June 14 wedding at Holy Innocents Episcopal Church in Corte Madera.

The sister of Gail Bissattini of San Rafael and the granddaughter of Silvio Boitano of Redwood City, Lynn was graduated from Redwood High School and Grace Ball College in San Francisco. She is employed by Del Monte Corp. in San Francisco.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lavin Burnside of Castro Valley and the brother of Gail Burnside. He is a graduate of Yonkers High School, Yonkers, N. Y., and of California State College at Hayward. He is a graduate student at the University of California in business administration.

Shoulder To Toe Stocking

A variety of stockings that go calf-high, knee-high, thing-high or waist-high have become a familiar part of every woman's accessory wardrobe. Now, the newest addition to the stocking wardrobe extends leg fashion coverage even further—clear to the shoulder.

Belle-Sharmeer knits this new shoulder-high bodice stocking of opaque stretch nylon to cover up what fashion is leaving newly uncovered. In a blushing beige skintone, this seemingly uninhibited cover up is the latest accessory to wear under new see-through fashions.

Tom-Tom For Tots

A 2-pound coffee tin with plastic lid makes a fine tom-tom for small children. After washing in hot soap or detergent suds and drying carefully, wrap the can with colorful self-adhesive plastic. Put on the plastic top and let the youngsters go on a "bongo" spree.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT BROWN

Robert N. Brown Claims Susan Hardy As Bride

The First Unitarian Church in San Francisco was the setting for the Sunday nuptials of Susan Hardy of Larkspur and Robert Noel Brown of Los Gatos.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hardy of Larkspur, Sue chose four attendants, Ann Blakeslee of Hingham, Mass., as maid of honor, and Nancy Casanova of San Jose, Mrs. Douglas Westwater of Los Angeles and Mrs. Andrew Fossgreen of Novato, the bridegroom's sister.

Andrew Fossgreen was best man and ushering were the bride's brother, Jeffrey Charles Hardy of Sacramento, Richard Walker of Santa Clara and Richard Lawhead of San Jose.

A reception was held in the Thomas Starr King room of the church, and an interesting note is the fact that the bride's great-great-grandfather, Israel Whitney Lyon, was superintendent of Dr. Thomas Starr King's Sunday school of the church in the 1850s.

After an Hawaiian wedding trip the pair will live in Los Gatos.

Sue is a graduate of the Katharine Branson School in Ross, and the University of California. She is employed with the First National Bank of San Jose in Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel J. Brown of Saratoga are parents of the bridegroom. He is a Camden High School graduate and attended San Jose State College. Bob is employed with D. W. Dorrance Co. in Campbell. Glenn E. Brown of Los Gatos is his brother and Mrs. Esther Brown and Mrs. Hattie Hartman, both of San Jose, are his grandparents.

To Be Panelists

Two San Domenico School students will be guest panelists on Channel 4 "Youth Inquires" show on Sunday at 4:30 p.m. They are Pamela Williams and Leigh Bellingall. Also on the show will be Mrs. Helene Nemschoff of Kentfield, executive director of the Volunteer Bureau of San Francisco, and Miss Katie Spencer, Red Cross Youth director in Oakland.

Television Rule

To encourage reading and discourage excessive television viewing, make a rule that youngsters have to spend as much time reading as they do watching TV. They'll be more selective about their programs or be very well-read.

Polka Dots Parade On Spring Scene

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Spring fashions for the girls spell prints, not fine, refined prints but big splashes of abstracts and florals. And in almost every manufacturer's collections some of the prints are the timehonored polka dots, true circles sometimes big as an all-day lollipop or abstract shapes splashed against white or dark backgrounds.

ADD in big, softly colored plaids and checks and it all shapes up to a many-patterned spring. There are patterns for the day, patterns for late day and evening.

POLKA DOTS show on blouses in suit combos, on huge scarves with otherwise severe little dresses, and in dozens of the at home trouser costumes. Bill Blass, designer at Maurice Rentner, does formal pants, like a jump suit, in huge black and white polka dot combinations.

And bloomers, looking a little like elegant gym suits, are in assorted polka dot shades. Red and navy on white are favorite combinations. Tops are long-waisted, collarless and fitted.

Designer Chester Weinberg does black and white polka dot in chiffon panels that float over the narrow shape of a short black formal. He repeats the theme in floor length formals too.

SOME of the biggest polka dots of all are the abstract shaped ones at Ferdinando Sarmi's—these covering half a bodice or hip, set on white backgrounds in long formals.

To go with the polka dot and floral look for spring are the checks, stripes and plaids; and designers these days don't hesitate to combine a check top with a plaid skirt.

NEWEST are the bonded organdies, reversible, barely see-through, but with enough body to go into dresses without linings or a starched look. Sheer silks, synthetics, cottons and blends all are for both the day and evening scene.

Here by manufacturer are some of the highlights from the collections seen thus far:

Chuck Howard. Giant dots here too, in black and white combinations. The designer makes much use of "Bandura," a pure nylon fabric, uncrushable, and with the feel and look of crinkly silk. He uses it for dresses with ruffles, with shirring, with lampshade skirts and harem-type evening pants.

REMBRANDT. Designer Ole Borden makes much of interchangeable parts for wardrobe "packages" and also much of the jumper look. The latter shows as dress or coat, without superfluous details, only a simple rounded or straight neckline slashed down the front and in the case of the coats, with front pocket flare and a high back vent.

Harvey Berin. Highlights of the collection are the flowing evening chiffons, yards and yards of material in white or palest pastels, jewel-decked tops, cut low and figure revealing.

ORIGINALA. The message from this firm, which used to make coats only, now is pants also for spring. It shows city pants for night, for day, pantsuits with sleeveless coats or jackets, with short sleeve jackets, with regulation jackets. In coats, Originala offers the choice between slim or full. The slim usually are belted, showing in whites and pastels. Cape-like coats mark the full silhouette.

IQ Tests Attacked As Simple-Minded

By RICHARD V. OLIVER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A long term controversy among educators over the worth of IQ testing in the public schools is out in the open in a public dispute between a Harvard psychiatrist and a Berkeley psychologist.

The debate centers on a scholarly report by the psychologist who concluded that intelligence is determined more by a child's heredity than by his environment.

The findings, which have racial overtones, could have a major impact on the future of education, particularly the education of disadvantaged children.

For, as one argument goes, if a child's mental ability is primarily the result of his genes rather than his upbringing, the learning ability of disadvantaged children through Head Start and similar programs may be a waste of time and money.

In fact, this is the point from which the 123-page study begins: "Compensatory education has been tried and it apparenty has failed."

The report uses IQ testing to measure and compare the learning abilities of children.

The findings of the psychologist, Dr. Arthur R. Jensen of the University of California at Berkeley, appear in the current issue of the Harvard Educational Review, which is published by Harvard graduate students.

Until this week, the discussion has been almost entirely limited to education journals and in rumblings to letter-to-the-editor columns.

But the dispute broke out into the public with a searing attack on the Jensen study by a prominent Harvard psychiatrist, Dr. Robert Coles, of the Harvard Health Service at Cambridge, Mass.

Coles, an expert in the field of the education of minority group children, was addressing the National Committee for Support of the Public Schools, which is currently holding its seventh annual conference here.

He told an audience of about 300 educators: "I also work in Boston, which is near Cambridge, and the Harvard Educational Review in 1969—just gave dozens of its pages to one more discussion—about the IQ test, and what it does, and what does it not do, and what does it tell us about genes and environment in 1969."

Coles made the point that intelligence testing, particularly the testing of Negro children, is not relevant to education.

"These young children have never been graded in an IQ as to what they do know—for their wit and guile, cleverness, and resourcefulness, and cynicism, and worldliness and poignancy in their own vibrant language which I have trouble understanding. My children would flunk their IQ test."

Coles continued, saying that people should try to understand one another. Then he asked: "What do we have in place of this?

"We have these things that are punched, we have curves, we have things called IQ, we have multi-phasic this, and something-else that. And people are hired, fired, and tested and evaluated and screened. And children are sent here, there and every other place on the basis of this.

Man Arraigned In Murder Case

AUBURN (AP)—A San Francisco Peninsula resident was arraigned yesterday on charges of murdering his wife and their young son at their summer cabin in the Sierra Nevada foothills.

William E. Nelson, 56, an import-export executive from San Mateo, was charged with fatally shooting his wife, Betty, 47, and their son, David, 9.

The bodies were in a shallow grave found March 13 by Placer County sheriff's deputies who used a diagram Nelson drew at Dewitt State Hospital where he had been taken after he was found last December hysterical in the Todd Valley cabin.

Both the mother and her son were last seen alive Oct. 10 by neighbors in San Mateo.

No motive was given for the killings.

Stereo And Tapes Stolen From Auto

A $178 stereo speakers was stolen Wednesday night from the apartment of James E. Kelley at the Bermuda Palms Motel, 737 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael police said yesterday.

The apartment was locked and there were no signs of forcible entry, police reported.

Sanitary Board Denies Claim

The San Rafael Sanitation District board has denied a $25,000 property damage claim submitted by Alfred G. Scottolini of 30 Bret Harte Road, San Rafael, and turned it over to the insurance carrier.

Scottolini claimed January rains in a road cut for a sewer line undermined his property, according to Norris M. Rawles, director of public works. The district contended the road cut had nothing to do with the damage, Rawles said.

The board on Wednesday also authorized inspection of a sewer line installed by Charles E. Paganini off San Pedro Road on Paganini Point because the district may one day want to take it over, Rawles said.

Fine, Probation

George John Nielson Jr., 22, of San Francisco, has been fined $100 and placed on one-year probation by Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court for driving under the influence of alcohol and drugs. He was arrested Jan. 13 on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Western Union Adjusting To The Age Of Computers

By JOANNE GRANT

Western Union, once engaged exclusively in the laborious, handtapped transmission of messages hand delivered on yellow blanks by men on bicycles, is hardly recognizable as the same firm as it approaches its 125th anniversary — May 24.

Today, while many people still have a Western-Union-Morse-keys-yellow-blanks paste-up kind of picture of the firm, it is operating with computers, microwave and leased private wire systems for the bulk of its business.

The old-fashioned telegram is still around — Marinites send and receive an average total of about 11,200 a month, but that kind of telegram accounts for only one in every six messages sent over the Western Union system.

And in Marin, like the rest of the country, hand delivered telegrams are becoming the exception. Here, those that are delivered are carried by a man in a car, according to John J. Mudge, manager of Western Union in Marin (except Tiburon and Belvedere which go through San Francisco).

"We have need for one bicycle messenger," he said, indicating that form of delivery is not yet dead.

In most of the rest of the country, a 75-cent extra charge (paid by the sender) is now being made for telegrams which are delivered, Mudge said. However, the California Public Utilities Commission has not yet approved the charge here, he said.

Neither has the utilities commission acted on a new rate schedule which is now in effect everywhere else, Murch said. The new schedule sets standard rates for telegrams no matter where they are going and some of the rates do not depend on the number of words.

Even without the charge by the utilities commission, telephning or mailing messages (to spots outside city limits) is becoming the rule in Marin, and Mudge predicted the delivery charge would cut into deliveries even more.

The busiest telegram sending times for Marinites are holidays, with Mother's Day topping them all, Mudge said.

The "instant" gift business is also big in Marin, especially on Mother's Day, he reported. However, the gifts are frequently not "instant" because they have to be mailed if they go to persons outside of San Rafael.

Most popular of these gifts are candy and dolls and they are kept on hand at the San Rafael office. "We have a freezer full of candy up there," Mudge said.

One of the biggest sources of revenue in Marin is wiring money, Murch reported. "Business can be slow, but they still wire money."

Most of the Western Union business, however, is conducted over leased private wire systems. The Western Union system, Telex, has 26,000 teleprinters and in January, the firm contracted to buy the Bell System's Teletypewriter Exchange (TWX) service with 40,000 stations.

Several Marin firms use the leased wire system, such as A. G. Schoonmaker Co. of Sausalito; Holiday Magic, the San Rafael cosmetics firm, and McGraw Hill Book Co. of Novato.

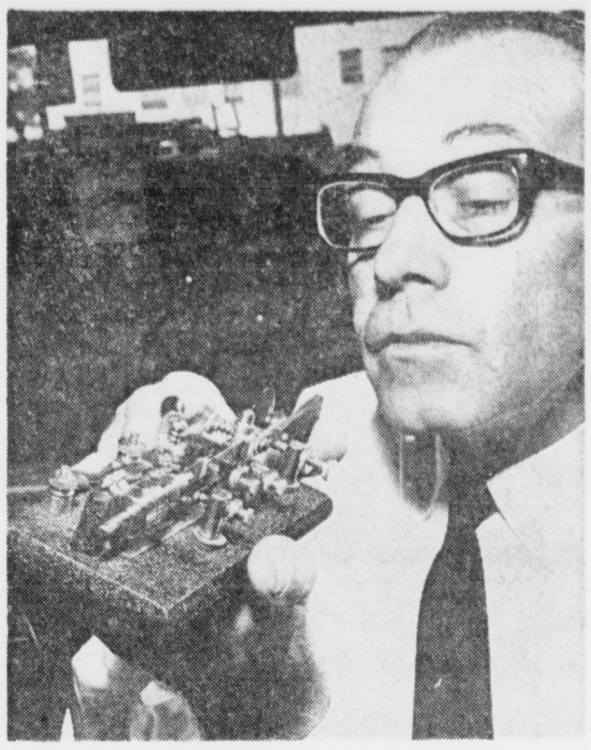
Mudge pointed out the leased wire system is less expensive than telephone because you only pay for the time used.

Western Union is using computers for transmitting messages and some are being installed in San Francisco, Mudge said.

Marin has none yet, but "we could stand a little computerizing around here," he said indicating the 30 to 40-year-old machines in the San Rafael office at 1004 Tamalpais Avenue.

Mudge, who started with Western Union in Lander, Wyo., and still has his Morse key, came to California on a vacation in 1937 and "didn't bother going back."

Mudge said the question most frequently asked of his office is "How long will it take?" The answer varies, he said, explaining if the circuits aren't busy it can be done immediately; if they are, it can take hours as it competes for time with some of the other 60 billion words sent annually on the 125-year-old system.



THE KEY TO IT ALL—John J. Mudge, Western Union manager in Marin, looks over the telegraph key with which he started his career. The key, once the source of all telegrams, has given way to complex electronic relay systems, through the messages themselves, particularly on Mother's Day, remain pretty much the same. McInnis Note On Courthouse Arrived Late

A letter from the chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors inviting discussion of a Courthouse Square land swap, was not put on the agenda for the March 17 San Rafael City Council meeting because it arrived too late, according to the city manager.

The letter by chairman John F. McInnis was dated March 6. But it was not received at city hall until March 12, declared City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, who returned to work today after a week's vacation.

SWAP PROPOSAL

The letter invited city-county discussion of a swap of city corporation yard property on Francisco Boulevard for the Courthouse Square. It was not brought up at the city council meeting, at which the council by 4-1 vote agreed to sell 3.25 acres of the corporation yard for $425,000, with $72,446 down and the rest on time payments.

Andersen said the agenda for the meeting had already been prepared when McInnis' land swap letter, along with two other letters from the board of supervisors — also dated March 6 — arrived on March 12.

COPY INSTRUCTIONS

He said he instructed his secretary to make copies for the agenda packets of all city council members, and assumes this was done. Three of the councilmen, Fred E. Jensen (who voted against the land sale), Harry A. Barbier, and Fred C. Robbins Jr., have said they never saw McInnis' letter.

Asked why he had not called the letter to the council's attention when the purchase offer for the Francisco Boulevard property was being discussed, Andersen said he "forgot about it."

A sales agreement on the corporation yard property disposal, prepared by City Atty. David Menary Jr. at the council's direction, is scheduled to be considered at the council meeting Monday at 8 p.m.

NOVATANS HEAR ISSUES

Sewer District Merger Pros, Cons

By THERON A. NEWELL

The advantages and disadvantages of dissolving the Novato Sanitary District into the North Marin County Water District were argued last night before an audience of 27 persons at the Novato Community House.

The public meeting was sponsored by both the committee for and the committee against the dissolution of the sanitary district, which will come before the voters on April 15.

Arnold E. Heise, chairman of the water district board, and George A. Amaroli, a strong advocate of dissolution, argued for the proposition. Edwin V. Grundstrom, member of the sanitary district board and Novato City Councilman J. Wayne Womack took the opposite stand.

Amaroli claimed a savings of $40,000 per year would result. Grundstrom said that a study made by both districts and the city council showed a savings of $9,000 per year and said it would probably be less than that because the larger district would hire more help according to "Parkinson's Law."

Heise calimed that there would be a savings in labor, because the water district crews were busiest in summer and the sanitary district crews were busiest in the winter and a reduced combined crew would be busy year round.

Grundstrom countered that the sanitary district crews were already busy all year, claiming they did construction and repair in the summer like the water district crews and then had the extra load in the winter.

Amaroli told Grundstrom, an attorney, that he, himself was not a lawyer so he would not advise Grundstrom about legal matters but that he was a cost accountant and knew that dissolution of the sanitary district would result in a saving in labor cost. (Grundstorm has been on the sanitary district board for eight years.)

Grundstrom answered that the history of mergers in North Marin did not bear this out. He pointed out to the unification of the two school districts which did not result in the loss of any supervisory personnel.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors made an error when it changed the originally proposed boundaries of the City of Novato on its incorporation said Womack. These were to have been the same as those of the sanitary district, a lack of contiguity which now stands in the way of permitting the city to take over the district.

"This error has bost thousands of dollars because it made it more difficult for Novato to operate as a city," Womack said. (He was referring to the loss of revenue which the city would have derived had it had the sewer department in the city government and the easier annexations to the city which would have resulted in more tax revenue.)

Operation of the sanitary district, if dissolved would be done as an assessment district within the water district, Heise said.

Dissolution opponent Grundstorm said that according to the sanitary district's attorney, James. T. Morton, this would freeze that territory and prevent further annexation to this assessment district. He claimed that new areas hooking onto existing sewers would get a "free ride" because they would not be required to pay their share of the original cost of the system.

Amaroli said he had legal opinion to the contrary, but did not name his source.

The problem that the Novato Sanitary District could not handle the areawide sewage was raised by Amaroli. He referred to the county's Brown and Caldwell report which has recommended a county-wide sewage system, or creation of several regional systems within the county.

Womack said that the supervisors had that report for 18 months and had not yet adopted it, but they immediately jumped on the chance to force this election on the sanitary district. He described the dissolution of the sanitary district as a "shotgun wedding."

"I agree that water and air pollution are big problems, they are area problems. I do not think that the North Marin County Water District is big enough to handle the sewer problems any more than the sanitary district," Womack said.

Womack said he believed that the dissolution of the sanitary district into the water district should be defeated so that when the sanitary district and the city have the required 80 per cent contiguous territory that the voters would be given a choice of merger with either the water district or sanitary district.

In a question period at the close of the discussions, Jerome B. Gilbert, former manager of the water district and now executive office of the State Water Resources Control Board, asked Grundstrom to explain why the sanitary district had not furnished service to Indian Valley, West Novato and the area north of the city.

Grundstrom said that such service was in the district's master plan which was drawn up in 1964, along with a major treatment plant in the Black Point area to dispose of the waste in San Pablo Bay.

"It will take the same financing to do it whether it is done by the sanitary district or the water district," Grundstorm said.

The water district board started the action to dissolve the sanitary district and take over its functions. This was possible because the water district encompasses all of the sanitary district. This was approved by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission and the board of supervisors which set the election date.

The sanitary district board and the Novato City Council have passed resolutions against the dissolution of the district.

Mill Valley Eyes Library Users' Fee

The Mill Valley Library board voted last night to charge nonresident book borrowers a fee if the county refuses to subsidize the library's operation, Librarian Dorothy Thomas reported.

Mrs. Thomas said the board directed her to develop a plan to establish a library borrowers' card system and a nonresident users fee which would be based either on an annual fee or a per-book-borrowed charge.

Trustees said they will adopt the plan at their May 1 meeting and implement it July 1 if the supervisros deny the city's request for $41,000 to supplement the city's library budget.

A survey by the library board in January showed 48 per cent of the library's users were not city residents.

Bannister Stolen

Someone stole a 58-inch wrought iron bannister with a wood cap from the home of Stanley A. Feingold, 412 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, Feingold reported to police at 4:30 p.m. yesterday. Value of the bannister, taken between Saturday and Monday, was placed at $50.

Tri-Partite Board Meeting Postponed

The Tri-Partite Transportation Committee, composed of representatives from Marin, San Francisco, and the Golden Gate Bridge board, will not meet this month, Marin Transit District Mgr. Seymour Kashin announced today.

The next regular meeting of the committee will be May 14 at the Golden Gate Bridge administration building, probably at 2 p.m.

$40,000 Gift Drive Slated By Boys' Club

The Boys' Club of Southern Marin, down to its last $400, will hold a fund drive this month aimed at raising $40,000 to keep the Marin City club house in operation.

The campaign is make or break for the club, president Richard N. Bale of Tiburon said. "It is the first fund-raising project we have undertaken, and we do so only because we want to survive," he said.

The club has applied for membership in the United Bay Area Crusade, but even if accepted will get no crusade funds until 1970.

Meantime, the club needs the $40,000 to stay open for the next year. The fund drive will be in two parts, Bale said — an April 19 "Youth March" by high school students collecting funds in residential areas of Marin, and another drive for donations from Marin business firms.

Preliminary arrangements for the student march are being made at Tamalpais, Terra Linda, San Rafael, Sir Francis Drake, Redwood, Marin Catholic and San Domenico high schools. Student volunteers should get in touch with the deans of student activities, Bale said.

All money raised, except for minor printing bills, will go to the club, Bale said, because help is being donated by publicists, professional fundraisers and volunteer businessmen.

The money will maintain the club and be used to try to raise membership from 250 to 400, and to expand programs in recreation, photography and arts and crafts.

Contributions may be mailed to the boys' club at 640 Drake Avenue, Marin City.

Mexico Tremors

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Three strong earth tremors were felt in this south Baja California state city this morning causing inhabitants to flee to the streets.

Judge Helps Subdue Prisoner In Court

A Marin judge jumped down from his bench yesterday to join deputies, attorneys and other courthouse bystanders in wrestling to the floor and handcuffing a husky young prisoner who was determined to get to his estranged wife.

The wild fracas in Municipal Court ended with 39-year-old Judge Hadden W. Roth, clad in his black robes, and five or six other men finally subduing Fraiser Frank Sweet, 26, of San Rafael, who eventually was handcuffed and leg-chained.

Earlier, Judge Roth had arraigned Sweet on charges of battery against his wife, Glenna, destroying another person's property and resisting arrest in Novato Wednesday night.

The young wife told the judge that she thought her husband was "sick" and that she did not intend to drop the charges. Judge Roth then refused to release Sweet on his own recognizance because he said he felt Sweet would not stay away from his wife.

Two deputies led Sweet, who obviously wished to discuss the matter further with the judge and his wife, from the courtroom. A few seconds later with loud banging of doors and shouts, the angered husband attempted to get back into the courtroom.

Bystanders and the judge rushed to help the deputies as the defendant got as far as the center aisle bellowing at his wife, who finally at the shouted advice of Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony fled through a side door.

After the judge and his helpers finally subdued Sweet and he was carried off to jail, the judge brushed off his robes, returned to the bench and ordered Sweet's bail increased from $625 to $2,000.

Six Drunken Drivers Fined

Five persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

All were placed on six months probation by Judge Hadden W. Roth.

Henry Jorday Revels Jr., 20, of Oakland, who was arrested March 22 on Highway 101, was fined $50.

Mervyn Julius Goodman, 66, of San Francisco, who was arrested March 28 on Highway 101, was fined $250.

Robert H. McDonough of 170 Reservoir Road, San Rafael, was fined $250. He was arrested Dec. 31 on Highway 101.

William Hardie Taylor, 46, of 88 Wood Lane, Fairfax, was fined $150. He was arrested Sunday in Fairfax.

Thomas Julius Oliver of 10 Liberty Street, Petaluma, who was arrested Sept. 12 on Highway 101, was fined $100.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Defender Must Use The Plays Employed Also By Declarer

The plays that you're familiar with as declarer are also available to the defenders. They can ruff, discard, set up a suit, hold up, and they should also know enough to duck at the right time.

DEPLORABLE PLAY

West led the five of spades to East's king, and East returned the nine of spades. South put up the queen, and West hastened to win the trick with the ace. About this deplorable play all I can say is that I would expect better of my tropical fish, Herkimer, who is only a few weeks old.

West's hand was worthless after the second trick since he could never get back to cash his spades evern if he led a third spade to set up his long suit. South eventually lost a diamond in addition to the first two spades, but he was happy to win the rest of the tricks, scoring the game, the rubber and an overtrick.

SHOULD SEE PLAY

It's easy for us to see the correct play since we are looking at all four hands, but West should have seen it also. At the second trick West should duck. That is, he plays low instead of taking the ace.

West knows that East has returned his top spade. If East's top spade is the nine, South must hold both the queen and jack and is therefore sure to win a spade trick sooner or later. West should let South win his spade trick sooner.

MUST TRY FINESSE

If West refuses the second spade trick, South must try the diamond finesse. East takes the king of diamonds and returns his other spade. Now West takes the ace of spades and defeats the contract with two good spades.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ Q J 7
♥ A Q 6
♦ 10 9 8 3
♣ A J 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 2 no-trump promising 13 to 15 points in high cards, with strength in each of the unbid suits.

You have the required strength and distribution, but your diamonds are a bit weak. In spite of this, you are so close to the required diamond strength that you can afford to use 2 no-trump as a description of your hand.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, April 4, the 94th day of the year with 271 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Mars. The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1818 Congress ordered the American flag redesigned and the number of stripes reduced from 20 to the original 13.

In 1841 President William Henry Harrison died in the White House one month after being inaugurated. John Tyler became the first vice-president elevated to the Presidency.

In 1917 the Senate approved a resolution of war against Germany.

In 1968 Martin Luther King, Jr. was assassinated in Memphis, Tenn. James Earl Ray pleaded guily and was convicted of the murder 11 months later and was given a 99-year prison sentence.

A thought for the day: Euripides said, "Second thoughts are ever wiser."

U.C. Davis Law School Is Honored

DAVIS (UPI) — The School of Law at the University of California's Davis campus has been elected to membership in the Association of American Law Schools, the top accrediting agency for law schools.

Dean Edward L. Barrett Jr. said the school was honored to be accredited by the association even before it had graduated its first class of students.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Inflammation Of Temporal Artery Can Cause Great Pain

VAN DELLEN

A most unusual form of inflammation involves the arteries leading to the head and brain. A 75-year-old woman, admitted to an eastern clinic, had sharp pains in her head for three weeks.

The distress was most severe over both temples, and spread to the back of the head, and to the jaws in front.

ONE WEEK BEFORE entering the clinic, she felt hardened, tender lumps along the course of the temporal arteries on both temples. The elderly woman also thought that her vision had deteriorated during her recent illness. She also experienced some lightheadedness on arising.

On examination, it was found that the temporal arteries were hardened and plugged with a clot. They did not pulsate as do normal arteries in this area. A biopsy was done, and the laboratory report showed that the artery was diffusely inflamed (temporal arteritis).

THIS DISEASE seldom begins before the age of 70, and both sexes are susceptible. The temporal arteries usually are selected, but the inflammation may spread to other branches, including the vessels of the eye.

Now and then the arteries below this point, including those leading to the brain, arms, lungs, and heart, are also involved. The cause in unknown.

A BORING HEADACHE that is usually more severe on one side and at night is the primary symptom. Adjacent areas such as the scalp, face, jaws, and eyes also may be painful. The involved areas are tender to the touch, and within two or three weeks of the onset, the temporal vessels become prominent and tortuous.

Shortly thereafter raised, painful nodules develop. Later pulsations disappear as the vessel wall thickens, and the blood clots. Visual impairment then starts.

MANY VICTIMS also develop fever, generalized aching, and loss of appetitie and weight. In time, the symptoms simmer down and disappear. The corticosteroids such as prednisone are the best remedies because they keep the inflammation from spreading.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

HEADS BARE AT SUBZERO

A reader writes: What is your opinion of the idiotic practice of going bareheaded in subzero weather?

REPLY

Your opinion is obvious! It must be safe, however, because many people do so without ill effects. I prefer a hat because it is warmer and keeps my hair in place. A hatless individual also loses considerable body heat from his bare dome during cold weather.

CAUSE OF SNAPPING JAW

A reader writes: Why do I feel a grating and snapping sensation when I open my mouth wide?

REPLY

When the hinge of the jaw grates on movement, the cause may be arthritis or an improper bite (malocclusion). Consult your physician and dentist for diagnosis and treatment.

CAN HEPATITIS RECUR

I. L. writes: Can a person have hepatitis more than once?

REPLY

One attack of viral hepatitis usually confers lasting immunity. This is not necessarily true of other types of liver infection.

FREEZE THERAPY

C. D. S. writes: Is dry ice ever used as a medical treatment?

REPLY

Yes. Carbon dioxide snow is used to remove birthmarks, seborrheic keratoses, warts, and other skin lesions.

Hunters Backed In Seal Dispute

GENEVA (AP) — A Swiss zoological expert who observed the annual seal hunt in the Gulf of St. Lawrence exonerated the hunters today of charges that the seal pups were skinned alive.

In a report to the Canadian government, Prof. Michael Fischberg of Geneva University said the killing of the seal pups with clubs has "brutual aspects" as does game hunting but that it is "certain they do not suffer."

Fischberg, one of four experts invited by the Canadian government to study the hunt, said he inspected hundreds of carcasses during five days last month on the St. Lawrence ice and found that all had "died instantly." He said immediate death was an aid to the hunters because it was difficult to skin a struggling seal.

San Rafael Schedules Kindergarten Signup

Children must be 5 years old by Dec. 2 to be eligible. Proof of birth should be brought for verification, school officials said.

Label Can Speed Refund On Taxes

Income tax refunds can be processed quickly and without delay if taxpayers put the preaddressed name label that came on their 1040 tax package on the return they file, Joseph M. Cullen, Internal Revenue Service district director for Northern California, said today.

Taxpayers using the card Form 1040-A should use the preaddressed form mailed them.

Cullen said that use of the name label or preaddressed form will eliminate errors in Social Security numbers that held up refunds last year. Returns filed before April 1 which used the name label can be processed and the refund issued in five to six weeks.

He was chased through the parking lot by store security police but lost them in Mount Olivet Cemetery, the police said.

Jet Booms May Rattle Marin

Marin County may expect sonic booms Wednesday night and early Thursday as units of the Western Region of the North American Air Defense Command hold an exercise, according to officials at Hamilton Air Force Base.

This will be a joint exercise in which Strategic Air Command bombers make a simulated attack on the West Coast and will be intercepted by supersonic fighters of the defense command.

The exercise of supersonic flying will not last more than an hour in any area.

In addition to the interceptor aircraft, radar units, Nike bases and long-range radar planes will take part in the exercise.

Same Day Mail Delivery At End

Accelerated Business Collection and Delivery (ABCD), begun in 1962, guaranteed letters posted by 11 a.m. would be delivered by 3 p.m. but postmasters reported a declining interest, and Postmaster General Winton M. Blunt said that to discontinue ABCD would save $1 million a year.

THE CENSOR GAME

Carson Objects To Sex-Violence Link

NEW YORK (UPI)—TV's Johnny Carson, no stranger in the battle to liberalize expression on the tube, thinks the current argument between the government and the networks over "offensive" material on television is a case of "the bland leading the bland."

He also objects strongly to the coupling of "sex and violence" in wrapping up all that's supposedly wrong with today's TV.

Carson spoke on the subject in an interview this week with United Press International. He was just back from vacation, in a relaxed mood but obviously troubled by the brickbats being tossed at TV from Washington.

"ALL SO BLAND"

"They get sex and violence mixed up. It kills me—what do you have on TV that's so sexy? It's all so bland. The violence I do find disturbing—I'm offended when I see shows that depict somebody getting beaten up with a tire iron.

"The trouble is that if you say you're for permissiveness on TV, people think you're for everything. I'm not for anything goes—I've been here for a long time and I know the ground rules. I know you can't do dirty jokes or have naked people on. You've got to have rules, but it's the creative people on TV who have to regulate themselves."

Carson mentioned the recent statement by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., who as chairman of the subcommittee on communications, has called for rigid, centralized self-censorship by the networks, including prescreening of all shows to cut "offensive" material.

"Who's going to censor the censor?" he asked. "Who governs the governing body? What is uncomfortable for Senator Pastore to see may not be for others. My taste is just as impeccable as some senator's. I don't want anybody telling me what I can or cannot watch. I think I should make my own decisions.

SEES DANGER

"There's a definite danger of heavy proscription of TV by the government. It smacks of Big Brother. 'We will protect you, ladies and gentlemen, against something you shouldn't see.'

"When the government starts to say what is bad for you, then it can turn around and say this will be good for you. Instead of 'What can't they see?' it can become 'What shouldn't they see.'

"The networks are uptight —I know that's an overworked word, but it's true —they're uptight because somebody's investigating them. They tend to go overboard. Pretty soon we won't be able to say anything.

"They want to cut something to be safe. 'Let's not take a chance on offending somebody; or they'll look at something and say, 'Golly, I don't know.' They've cut things on my show I think it's ridiculous to cut. 'Don't do jokes on divorce or death, don't do this, don't do that —it's not nice.'

"If some people had their way about not offending anybody we'd have 24 hours of Ozzie and Harriet. Sure, I've said things on the show I wish I hadn't said, but I never said anything to hurt anybody.

ASKS LATITUDE

"For example, you can't even say the word 'naked' without offending some people —no kidding. We sometimes get maybe 200 letters complaining about something like that, and the network listens. What about the eight million other viewers who aren't complaining?

"What can't we have a little latitude? All the good TV writers eventually go to the movies or the stage."

Carson admitted, however, that there is "also the danger of comedians taking themselves too seriously."

"Social consciousness does not make a show. Once a humorist or comedian starts using his show as a forum, he's in trouble of losing his audience."

SCREENING OF STAG FILM BRINGS A SLAP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The license of a California television engineer who startled late viewers by screening a stag film has been suspended for six months, according to the Federal Communications Commission.

Robert Allen Veatch of San Bernardino pleaded guilty Dec. 2 before the U.S. District Court for the central district of California of transmitting the film from KPLM-TV in Palm Springs to cable television systems in the Coachella Valley Oct. 27, 1968.

The FCC suspended Veatch's license charging he "willfully by television transmitted a communication consisting of a motion picture film containing obscene and indecent meaning."

GAS CHAMBER DEATH DATES SET FOR PAIR

Two condemned inmates at San Quentin Prison have been scheduled to die in the gas chamber June 4.

They are Earnest J. Aikens Jr., 23, convicted of stabbing two women to death in Ventura County, and Edgar L. Robinson, 29, convicted killer of a Los Angeles policeman.

Courts resumed setting execution dates this winter after the California Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the death penalty, lifting a year's moratorium. However, no one has been put to death because the U. S. Supreme Court is now examining the constitutionality question.

Parolee Denies Burglary Count

David Charles McReynolds, 19, of San Rafael, yesterday pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to burglarizing a San Rafael home Tuesday and attempting to escape from police.

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Judge Hadden W. Roth refused to release the youth on his own recognizance since he is a parolee from the California Youth Authority.

McReynolds was arrested when he was found hiding in a closet at a residence at 5 Coleman Drive.

Foster Home Parent Makes An Appeal For More To Join Cause

By WAT TAKESHITA

How does it feel to have a 15-year-old foster child suddenly become a member of your family? Is the period of adjustment a trying one?

These questions run through the minds of would-be foster parents and sometimes frighten them away from offering their homes.

Mrs. Gari Hale Ketcham of San Rafael, public relations chairman for the newly organized Marin Foster Parents Association, says apprehension is only natural, but actual experience proves that adjustment is smooth and easy, as was the case in her family.

"It seems frightening at first but you've got to remember that the child is probably as apprehensive about you as you are of him. You'll find the teen-ager no different from any other persons," Mrs. Ketcham said.

Last December, a 15-year-old girl was referred to the Ketcham family in Peacock Gap. At first, it was just a weekend visit, with no commitments.

"She sat there, eyes downcast, and said 'hello'. She was very shy," Mrs. Ketcham said. But both the girl and the Ketchams decided they'd give it a try.

In four months, real friendship and understanding have developed between the girl and the family.

"What every child needs is an opportunity to belong to a family," said Mrs. Ketcham. "This generation gap — it's not so much the kids who won't communicate. It's the parents who cut them off. Just give them the time and opportunity to talk to you, and there is no generation gap.

"The rewards of being a foster parent come from seeing the girl look up and smile where formerly there was fear, hear her talk about going to college and coming up to you to confide problems.

"We have friends who say once their own children are grown, they will get a foster child, but why wait? The time is now. Just call the Department of Public Social Services and put yourself on the foster parents list."

The Ketchams have four children of their own, aged 5 through 9. The youngsters are so fond of their new sister that seating at the dinner table must be rotated to give each youngster a chance to sit next to their big sister.

There are about 150 foster parents in Marin County today, far too few to meet the demands, said Mrs. Ketcham. "Our goal is to get 500 foster parents in the next five years. We have youngsters now at Juvenile Hall who are there because there is no foster home for them. We hope more families will open their homes."

Foster children range from infants to teen-agers. Some are newly-born awaiting adoption. Others are from broken homes or where a parent is incapacitated. Other children are recommended to foster homes by the probation department or the public social services department. Some are wards of Juvenile Court.

Foster parents are allowed $100 to $117 per month for the care of the foster child.

The adjustment of a child with his foster parents is not much of a problem because both the child and the parents are appraised by the social workers beforehand, said Mrs. Ketcham.

Rapid Reading Class Offered By College

The College of Marin will present courses in rapid reading at three locations during the spring quarter, Maximilian Spurlock, the course teacher with the community education office, announced.

A course at Del Mar School in Tiburon will begin Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Room 10. Another course at San Quentin's in-service training office will start Thursday at 4 p.m. At the college, the course will begin Thursday at 7 p.m. in Room 136 of the Fine Arts Building.

Youth Denies Drug Possession

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Judge Hadden W. Roth refused to release the youth on his own recognizance and ordered bail to remain at $1,250. He also declared he thought Borner, who was has complained he needed to go to the hospital, was being adequately cared for by a county doctor in the jail. The doctor was quoted by a probation officer as saying that Borner's symptoms were due to drug withdrawal.

Dictator Role Not Intended, Chairman Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Service Committee says he has "the greatest respect and esteem" for Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., and hasn't given him any stronger keep-quiet instructions than any other subcommittee chairman.

"I certainly don't want to appear to be a dictator or anything like that," the South Carolina Democrat said yesterday when he was asked about reports he told Stratton to quit talking about his subcommittee's investigation of the Army's Sheridan tank.

Stratton said Wednesday Rivers had asked him not to grant any more interviews or issue news releases about the tank, which he blasted as a waste of money. Told of Rivers' comments, Stratton conceded other subcommittee heads had received similar instructions.

Marin 'Cats, Redwood Nines Win

Marin Catholic High School's rousing 12-5 conquest of Harbor High of Santa Cruz and Redwood's consolation victory over St. Elizabeth's of Oakland, both in the Soquel Invitational Tournament in Santa Cruz, were the only bright spots for Marin County Athletic League baseball teams toiling on the tournament trail yesterday.

Novato High, after rolling up nine straight wins, lost its second in a row, bowing to Capuchino, 3-2, in the third-place battle in the Terra Nova Tournament in Pacifica.

TOUGHIES

Terra Linda lost a toughie, bowing in the semifinals of the South San Francisco Tournament, 5-4, in nine innings.

Marin Catholic pounded out 10 hits, including doubles by Rick Thomas and Rick Denning and a triple by Mike Parnow as the Wildcats scored in every inning but the sixth.

Harbor helped the cause by chipping in with seven errors.

The Giants got only three hits against St. Elizabeth's but two of them came in the first inning and resulted in two runs in a 2-1 victory.

FIVE-HITTER

Two errors and two scratch hits gave Capuchino three runs in the sixth inning and that was enough to win over Steve McNally and Novato.

The Hornets, now 9-2, got a solo homer from Dee Federick in the sixth inning and scored again in the seventh on a triple by Steve Majaka and a sacrifice fly by Glenn Holsclaw.

Terra Linda was down 3-0 against Sacred Heart of San Francisco, but got four runs in the third inning on a run-scoring single by Dewey Forry and a three-run homer by Rick Payne.

Courses Hike Prices On Day Of Mourning

FORE — Monday of this week was declared a Federal holiday as a national day of mourning for Ike.

Thus, a number of golf courses around the Bay Area, San Rafael's Peacock Gap and San Geronimo to name two, were quick to charge holiday greens fees.

A Peacock spokesman, queried by an I-J reporter, refused to discuss the holiday hike, saying the club didn't have to because it is a private club and could charge what it wanted.

A San Geronimo spokesman said, it being considered a "holiday," a number of clubs in the area decided to increase the tariff and added, "It's a practice for us to do what other clubs in the area do."

On the other hand, I guess if you want to play golf on a day of mourning then you deserve to pay a little more. Perhaps the next time it happens the clubs can justify the increase by giving each golfer a black arm band. Free. Or, I would suggest they close for the day.

Kenny Out Of Action

MUSCLE MAN — Kenny Henderson, the San Francisco Giants' promising young outfielder who has suffered a torn hamstring in his right leg, presently is undergoing detailed therapeutic treatment in San Francisco under the guidance of Tiburon's Bert Gustafson, the well-known physiotherapist.

Gustafson said Henderson originally injured the muscle this past winter playing ball in Puerto Rico but it didn't come to light to Giants' officials until he reinjured it running out an infield hit last week in Phoenix.

Gustafson can't pinpoint the length of Henderson's baseball inactivity, explaining, "It's a thing that has to be played by ear. It could be two or three weeks or it could be six or seven. It depends on the patient. But Kenny is young and I think it will work out fine."

'Until It Doesn't Hurt'

Gustafson said Henderson's therapeutic treatment, programmed by Dr. Robert Kerlan of Los Angeles who has had several famous baseball patients, starts with whirlpool and ultrasonic and deep massage "to tolerance, until it doesn't hurt."

Then he said the 22-year-old speedster will embark on a program of light jogging and bicycling without resistance, to be followed by light weight lifting work aimed at the scarred hamstring.

Then, with special taping, Henderson will be sent back onto the field for action, but only time will tell when.

Gustafson, who headquarters at Marines Memorial in S.F., is 56 but looks much younger because he practices what he preaches. You know the type: He runs, swims, hikes, lifts weights, does calisthenics and other ridiculous things. Gosh, he makes me feel like a physical wreck just TALKING to him.

A Simple Explanation

The Giants hired Bert last year to set up a special pre-season muscle-toning program to cut down on the rash of nagging injuries that had been plaguing the athletes.

When asked why baseballers have a Linament League all their own, Gustafson explained quite simply: "Baseball players are more susceptible to injury than, say, football or basketball players, because of the nature of the game. They exert themselves suddenly, then cool off standing on the field or sitting in the dugout."

If you've sat in Candlestick Park on a cold and windy night and watched the athletes suddenly dart for a line drive or strain to beat out a base hit you will know what Bert means.

Playoffs Move On To L.A.

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — To the Oakland Seals' Gary Jarrett, it "probably was the most important goal I ever scored in my life."

To Red Kelly, coach of the Los Angeles Kings, it was a "giveaway" that took the steam out of his players.

Whatever it was, Jarrett's goal broke a 2-2 tie after 2:44 of the third period last night and carried the Seals to a 4-2 victory before a crowd of 5,232 at the Coliseum Arena.

TIES SERIES

Oakland's dramatic win tied the best-of-seven National Hockey League semifinal playoff match at a game apiece. Los Angeles hosts the next two games, tomorrow and Sunday, with the fifth game scheduled Wednesday in Oakland.

"It was sloppy goaltending," Kelly said of the winning tally. "That's the fourth bad goal we've given up in two nights. It was a giveaway. We have to stop it."

Jarrett, who had been benched recently for lack of checking, took a pass from Mike Laughton and nudged the puck into an open corner of the net, catching goalie Wayne Rutledge out of position.

CLINCHER

The Seals clinched the victory with 13 seconds left when Bob Dillabough outraced Los Angeles defenseman Dale Rolfe and scored into an open net.

After losing Wednesday night's series opener in overtime, Oakland needed the win desperately before moving to Los Angeles. But the Kings were begrudging.

The Seals started well, opening a 1-0 lead after only 1:26 of the first period on a rebound by

Robyn Wins Second Place In Her Debut

ALBANY (AP) — Bugler Phil Kamp pealed out A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody as 12 horses paced onto the track yesterday for the third race at Golden Gate Fields.

His efforts were for Robyn Smith, 24, a one-time motion picture starlet who became the first female jockey in Northern California history.

SECOND

Miss Smith, in the irons of Swift Yorky, came in second seven lengths behind Thirteen Tricks in the six furlong race for maidens. Her mount paid $4.80 and $4 while the winner returned $8, $5.40 and $5.20.

Stewards, who must watch her race twice before deciding whether to award her an apprentice's license, said they were pleased with her efforts.

GOOD JOB

"She did very well," said steward Pete Pederson. "She did not appear to get flustered when in between horses and she helped her mount down the stretch."

Miss Smith, who took her mount to the rail under the whip down the stretch, could become this state's first female holder of an apprentice's ticket, which would entitle her to a weight advantage.

Leach Fires 72 In West Golf Tourney

Former Novato High School golf ace Ray Leach fired a 72 yesterday to move into a two-way tie for second place in the race for individual honors in the Far Western Intercollegiate Golf tournament at the Pasatiempo Golf Course in Santa Cruz yesterday.

Leach's two-day total is 147, four strokes off the pace of John Jackson of Arizona State. Leach, and former San Rafael High School star Don Hawken, both play for Brigham Young University.

Hawken, after an opening-day 74, skied to an 82 yesterday and failed to qualify for today's final round.

Arizona State leads the team competition with 597 strokes, 13 ahead of San Diego State at 610. Brigham Young has a 618 total.

Sharon Walsh Loses In Finals

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, after scoring a big upset in the morning, ran into top-seeded Eliza Pander of Palo Alto and lost 6-1, 6-1, in the finals of the Foothills Easter Junior Invitational Tournament for ranked tennis players at Palo Alto yesterday.

Sharon had earlier knocked off Kathy Kraft, of Tulsa, Okla., fifth-ranked nationally in girls 16, 6-2, 6-4.

Indians Sock It To Juan

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Juan Marichal, the National League's winningest pitcher in 1968, was tatooed soundly by the Cleveland Indians yesterday but he isn't that concerned—even if the season opener is just five days away.

The American League Indians rocked Marichal for 14 hits and seven runs in six innings en route to a 12-7 triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

NEEDED WORK

"I had worked only 17 innings this spring before this one and I wasn't too comfortable out there," he said. "But I needed the work and I got it. The Indians saw to that all right."

In addition, it was Marichal's first appearance since he underwent corrective foot surgery March 26.

Manager Clyde King wasn't upset either. "He needed the work," King said. "His control was a little off, a little high, but he was strong. Nobody was concerned."

HIATT HOMERS

Offensively, the Giants' hitting stars were Jack Hiatt, who belted a home run off Luis Tiant, and Bob Etheridge, who got two hits.

Joe Costello, battling for a job in the Giant bullpen, was tagged for five runs—all earned—in a one inning relief appearance.

The Giants take the day off today and travel to New York to play a weekend exhibition series against the Yankees before opening the regular campaign Monday night.

Oaks In Finale Against L.A.

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Western Division champion Oakland Oaks conclude their regular American Basketball Association season tonight against Los Angeles but they won't have much time to rest on their laurels.

The Oaks, who have made one of the most startling reversals in the history of professional sports, need a victory over the Stars to round out their record at 60-18. They finished dead last in 1968 with a 22-56 mark.

All-Out War Against NBA Declared By Dallas Official

DALLAS (AP) — Max Williams, general manager of the Dallas Chaparrals of the American Basketball Association, had this word today for veterans in the National Basketball Association: "If you want a raise, come see me!"

Williams, who said the NBA was signing players while they are still in college, said, "From now on, there are no rules, since the NBA won't play by any rules. We (the ABA) have declared all-out war."

NEW TACTICS

He said that the ABA had left the NBA veterans alone and concentrated on the graduating college crop, but indicated this tactic might have to be "reconsidered."

"The NBA veterans know the situation," Williams said, "Our league has had a number of them contact us. The courts have already shown in the Rick Barry case that a player can either sit a year out or play his option out.

"If a NBA player wants a raise, all he has to do is see us. He'll either get it from his present employer or we'll hire him."

CRAZY

Williams who was an All-Southwest Conference basketball star at Southern Methodist University, said, "I'll tell you this, if the NBA doesn't think we are in business to stay then they are crazy."

Williams said NBA players jumping to the ABA wouldn't lose their pension "because we make the pension retroactive. Cliff Hagan (Dallas player-coach) had 10 years in the NBA pension when he came to us and we just made it retroactive 10 years."

Williams said that Lew Alcindor, who signed with the Milwaukee Bucks of the NBA, was first offered $2.4 million by the ABA before the highly publicized $3.4 million offer.

"I believe he was in a situation where he couldn't sign with us," said Williams. "But I tell you this, we're not dead because Alcindor didn't sign with the ABA.

"It's had very little effect on us. Just tell those NBA players we're open for business if they want a raise."

NHL PLAYOFFS

Rough-Tough Bruins Again Bomb Leafs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

In what must be the understatement of the National Hockey League season, Punch Imlach said last night he was "very disappointed" by the performance of his Toronto Maple Leafs in the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

His Maple Leafs, beaten 10-0 Wednesday night by the Boston Bruins, came right back and lost 7-0 last night. They sounded like football scores.

TO GARDENS

The Bruins, who have been winless in 25 consecutive games in Toronto, now go to Maple Leafs Gardens for the third and fourth games tomorrow and Sunday. In another understatement, Imlach said, "I hope we play better at home."

In the other playoff games, Montreal took a 2-0 lead over New York with a 5-2 victory, St. Louis also took a 2-0 lead over Philadelphia with a 5-0 victory and Oakland evened its series with Los Angeles at 1-1 with a 4-2 victory.

The sites of the other series will also switch—to New York, Philadelphia and Los Angeles—for games three and four tomorrow and Sunday.

SCORERS

Johnny Bucyk scored a pair of goals and Phil Esposito, Ken Hodge, Ron Murphy, Ted Green and John McKenzie picked up one each as Boston routed the Leafs again. Esposito added a pair of assists after six opening game points on four goals and two assists for a two-game total of nine points.

Yvan Cournoyer's power play goal highlighted a three-goal splurge in a nine-minute second period span that carried Montreal past New York. New York led 2-1 at the end of one period but goals by Bobby Rousseau, Cournoyer and Jean Beliveau turned the game around.

21 SAVES

Bill McCreary scored with the game 41 seconds old and that was enough for veteran Jacques Plante as the Blues blanked Philadelphia. Plante had to make only 21 saves to pick up the triumph. A total of 95 minutes in penalties were called in the hard fought game.

Quarter-Final Win

JACK HANLEY

Jack Hiatt An Articulate Cheer Leader For Giants

MEMPHIS — Jack Hiatt is one of the handiest members of the Giants. He plays first base, can catch, play the outfield and is a fine pinch hitter. Furthermore, he is an articulate cheer leader who constantly is extolling the virtues of the Giants.

"We had a tremendous spring in Arizona," said Hiatt, looking back on the 17-5 Cactus League record of the Giants. "And the attitude of the entire club is the way it should be. We felt like we'd win every exhibition game we played and that's the attitude we're taking into the season.

"I don't care what others say about exhibition games. Sure, I know they're intended as get-'em-in-shape contests but there's nothing like winning. There's fun and satisfaction in it. More importantly, it is a good habit to acquire. It establishes a good mental attitude."

HIATT IS such a capable spokesman that the Giants keep him on the payroll the year 'round. Last winter he made scores of speeches throughout northern and central California.

"But you can't talk fans into a ball park," said Hiatt. "I don't think winter speeches sell tickets. I do think they create good will for the entire Giant organization which, naturally, I think is the finest in baseball."

HIATT WASN'T always a Giant. He first was signed by the California Angels in 1961 and rapidly moved through their farm system in three years to Class AAA ball in Hawaii in the Coast League. In 1964 Horace Stoneham was in Hawaii on a brief vacation and, like the inveterate fan he is, the president of the Giants went to the ball game.

Stoneham was tremendoulsly impressed with Hiatt's constant behind-the-plate chatter of encouragement to his pitcher and repeated reminders to the Hawaii infielders to stay alert. But he was more impressed by Hiatt's hitting.

"I HAD ONE of those series where they couldn't get me out," said Hiatt.

It wasn't long before the Giants swapped Jose Cardenal for Hiatt. It isn't often that a ball player is personally scouted by the president of a ball club.

Last season Hiatt, in a spirited contest with Dick Dietz and Bob Barton, won the opening catching assignment. He remained the regular catcher until injured in a plate crackup with Ron Swoboda of the Mets in Shea Stadium.

AS A pinch hitter he was 7-for-21 in 1968 with 5 RBIs in pinch situations. His greatest baseball thrill came in pinch roles the preceding year. In 1967 he hit two pinch grand slam homers against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A native of Bakersfield, Hiatt now lives in San Mateo. He is a handsome fellow who one day may wind up as a screen star because of his acting ability. He is an excellent pantominist who can get rollicking belly laughs from his teammates when he does a Charlie Chaplin walk or imitates and oldtime ball player's mechanical moves.

HIATT IS 6-2, 195 and one of the all-time all-around athletic heroes of San Fernando High School where he graduated in 1961. In his senior year he was voted Los Angeles' Player of the Year (baseball, basketball and football. He was attending Pierce Junior College in Woodland Hills when the Angels signed him.

Stefanich Leads Keg Tourney

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Redhot Jim Stefanich won seven of eight match-play games last night to grab the lead in the $100,000 Professional Bowlers Association Firestone Tournament of Champions.

Bowling on the same lanes where two years ago he set 13 world records, the Joilet, Ill., professional had winning games of 256, 205, 207, 212, 268, 226 and 233, with a 216 loss.

The seven wins hiked Stefanich's total to 7393 after 32 games to give him a comfortable 65-pin lead over Jim Godman of Hayward.

TO SIXTH

In taking the lead, Stefanich displaced Dick Weber of St. Louis, who could muster only three victories and dropped to sixth place.

Weber, who has won more prize money than any other professional bowler, had led the field through the first 24 qualifying games and appeared headed for his first Firestone crown.

Stefanich was the PBA's 1968 Bowler-of-the-Year, winning $67,375 and six championships.

The year before, he won the Firestone title, setting 13 records in the process and in one stretch rolling 37 consecutive games of 200 or better.

WINLESS

The strong-armed bowler has not won a tournament this year.

Stefanich moved up from seventh place yesterday, taking second at end of the last eight qualifying games and then grabbing the lead after only three games of match play.

Wayne Zahn, of Tempe, Ariz., also a former Firestone champ, won six ond lost two last night to take over third place.

Earlier in the day, defending champion Dave Davis of Phoenix failed to make the 24-man cut, along with such top stars as Don Carter, Carman Salvino and veteran Buzz Fazio.

The field of 24 bowls 16 more round robin games today, with the five high finishers meeting in the nationally televised finals tomorrow afternoon for the $25,000 first prize.

Pro League Coming Here; DeYoung Right At 'Home'

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Professional Central California Bowlers tournament play moves into Marin County for the first time April 12-13.

It will be the Novato $7,000 held at Nave Lanes in Ignacio (a suberb of Novato). The PCCB uses a format like that of the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA), and is loaded with the top bowlers in the state.

Among the regulars on the tour is Terry De Young, 18, a Novatan who already has a first place finish this year in one of the earlier tourneys in Concord. He also bowled a perfect 300 this season in league play.

He does a lot of his bowling at Nave Lanes, and works there as a part-time desk man, helping to pay expenses at College of Marin. The southpaw will be one of the favorites when the tour stops off at his "home" house.

Dan Burke of San Rafael also is bowling in the PCCB, and won $180 in the last tourney, held at Blackstone Bowl in Fresno last weekend. In addition to his 11th place finish, Burke, sales manager at Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury in San Rafael, had one of the tourney's high games, 259.

THIS AND THAT — Bob Nelson rolled his highest game ever when he had a 255 on top of his 663 series in Country Club Bowl's Mixed Mates League. . . . It was the first time over the 200 mark for Joe Paradise, the 126 average roller turning a 201 in the San Quentin Mixed Fours at Country Club . . . Dorothy Laken missed a 153 triplicate by just one pin in the San Marin League at Nave Lanes. . . . The Kellys celebrated St. Patrick's Day a little late, Pat Kelly (156 avg.) rolling a 225-607 and Evalyn Kelly (149 avg.) a 223 game and 554 series in the Firday Nite Leftovers at Nave Lanes. . . . Judy Lawrence picked up a rough 6-7-10 split in the Gutter Belles at Greenbrae Lanes.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Peg Quezada, a desk gal at Country Club Bowl, rolled her first 600 series when she put together games of 224-201-204 for 629 in the Sleepers League; the gals in that league were wide awake, 11 of them going over the 500 mark, and Gayle Chu converting the 4-10 and Pat Piver the 6-7. . . . Tommy Thompson had better turn around and go the other way, rolling games of 152-151-150 in that order in the Novato Unified Bowlers League at Nave Lanes. . . . Pat Curry, 137 average roller in the Daffodils League, rolled her first five, a 506 set. . . . In the Marin County Mixed Travel League, this time at Greenbrae Lanes, Mike Moore rolled a 246 line and Lil Scotto missed a triplicate 155 by one pin. . . . Mary Jo Hodgson, 116 average, went up to a 197 game in the Agents 1108 League at Country Club.

Harry Neal of San Rafael made a fine showing at the California Council for Retarded Children District III (Northern California from Marin to Humboldt) tournament last weekend, qualifying for the state finals May 24 in Fresno.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

There is a wide variation in the amount of backswing used by the successful pro bowlers, so I cannot say that a high swing or a short one is best. I have noticed, however, that the group of tournament winners who claim to require little practice have one thing in common: A very short backswing. The answer would seem to be that it is easier to maintain good timing with a brief backswing.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Age Can't Catch Up To Ol' Satch Paige

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Age appears to have finally caught up with former star relievers Roy Face, Bill Henry and John Wyatt, but it can't catch the ageless wonder of them all—Satchel Paige.

Old Satch, who admits to being more than 50 years old and is estimated at 62, showed he can still do a little pitching like a 30-year-old when he ambled his long frame back to the mound yesterday and won another game.

His one inning of shutout ball in the Atlanta Braves' 1-0 victory over their Richmond Class AAA farm club might well have served as an inspiration for "youngsters" Face, 41, Wyatt, 33, and Henry, 41, who found themselves without jobs today.

In other games, Detroit outslugged Cincinnati 9-8, Montreal clobbered Pittsburgh 9-2, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 4-0, the New York Mets stopped St. Louis 5-0, Cleveland outlasted San Francisco 12-7, the Chicago White Sox nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1.

Also Philadelphia beat Kansas City 7-3, Washington whipped Minnesota 7-2, San Diego whomped Oakland 10-4, Houston edged Boston 3-2 and Los Angeles defeated California 4-2.

Face, who starred in the bullpen for many years with Pittsburgh, and Wyatt, once the Kansas City relief ace, were released by the Detroit Tigers, and Henry, one-time ace reliever for Cincinnati and San Francisco, quit Seattle in disgust after a bad outing.

Two other past bullpen masters, Dick Radatz and Dick Hall, received new life when they caught on with Detroit and Baltimore, respectively.

The controversial Donn Clendenon trade was completed when Montreal sent pitchers John Billingham and Skip Guinn and some money to Houston.

But Paige, the new hero of the 60s, stole the show when he cranked up his arm for a brief comeback, and after the first hitter reached third base on a double and an error, he retired the side on an infield out and two strikeouts.

The Braves got him the victory in the last of the fifth when Bob Tillman walked and came around on two wild pitches and an infield out.

Paige, listed on the Atlanta roster as an assistant trainer, plans to pitch a little more in the remaining exhibition games before retiring again.

The second period belonged comfortably to the Kings as they swept to a 2-1 lead on goals by Ted Irvine — who scored for the sixth time this season against Oakland only 20 seconds into the period — and by little Howie Menard at 7:07.

Oakland's Doug Roberts was ejected from the game after arguing too vehemently that Menard had kicked the puck into the cage.

Six minutes later, all players on the ice converged in a brawling knot behind the Los Angeles goal after the Seals' Billy Hicke flattened Rutledge, who had moved out of the crease to clear a loose puck. Menard then rammed Hicke.

Before the period ended, Hampson scored again on a play made possible when Earl Ingarfield swept the puck out of the corner and passed to Gerry Ehman, who fed Hampson.

"Psychologically, we had the advantage after the overtime win," Kelly said. "Now we've lost it. We'll be on home ice now, but we still have to take advantage of it."

Littler, Two Others Tied At Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The pro golf tour's "quiet man," leading money winner Gene Littler, had a 50-year-old amateur suffering from bursitis and an airport services executive as his unlikely co-leaders heading into today's second round of the $160,000 Greensboro Open golf tournament.

Littler, who has won over $54,000 this year, opened with a five-under-par 66 over the 7,034-yard Sedgefield Country Club course yesterday. It occasioned no surprise as the former U.S. Open and Amateur champion, now 38, has been playing some of his best golf this year.

SURPRISE

But for Dale Morey, 50-year-old amateur from nearby High Point, and Gordon Jones, journeyman pro for much of the last 12 years, to join him at the top was something else.

Morey and Littler are no strangers. Littler defeated the furniture hardware salesman 1 up in a 36-hole duel for the national Amateur title in 1953.

Morey, a three-time member of the U.S. Walker Cup team and former Louisiana State player, has been one of the Carolinas' most accomplished amateurs for years since moving from Indiana. He's won a host of tournaments in North Carolina and South Carolina. A couple of decades ago he had a brief fling as a pro, but returned to the amateur ranks.

HUGE NEEDLE

He came here suffering from a severe case of bursitis in the right elbow and had doubts that he'd be able to play. But a doctor applied what Morey described as a huge needle, and the pain subsided sufficiently to permit him to shoot a 35-31 round that matched the 32-34 efforts of Littler and Jones.

It marked the first time in the Greensboro tournament that an amateur had been in the lead since Frank Stranahan's 140 led after 36 holes in 1947.

Jones, a campaigner with scant success on the tour, has been busy for most of the past year with a club pro job at Windermere, Fla., and operating his airport services business, located in about 35 cities and headquartered in Columbia, S.C.

45TH PLACE

Last year he netted only $1,890 in winnings and in his comeback this year played four Florida tournaments this month, failing to make the 36-hole cut in three and finishing in a tie for 45th at Orlando. He had to play a qualifying round here to get into the tournament.

The course played short and the field of about 140 took advantage of the ideal conditions to produce 57 rounds under par and 17 at par.

The three leaders were only one stroke ahead of Tom Weiskopf, George Archer, Rod Funseth and Julius Boros. PGA champion Boros finished with two eagles, a birdie and a bogey on his last four holes.

INTO WOODS

Funseth missed a chance to take the lead when he drove into the woods on 15 and took a double bogey six.

Bunky Henry, still holding the form that netted him $40,000 first money at Miami, Fla., last Sunday, was one of 14 players bunched at 68. Ron Cerrudo of Atherton, whose parents live in San Rafael, was also in the 68 group.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Winds Still A Problem; Clam Diggers Get Ready

Striped bass fishing slowed this week due to the winds. On Monday, Warden Russell Ild of the department of Fish and Game checked 10 boats on San Pablo Bay with three bass. One boatload reported taking 11 undersized stripers on pile worms. Lots of flounders were taken, even with the wind.

At Tomales Bay trollers took a couple of bass and at the mouth of the bay one angler trying for halibut took a six-pound salmon on a drifted live ghost shrimp, keeping the bait about 10 feet under the surface.

Frank Sue and I took 10 black bass at Lake Berryessa near Napa Monday and all weighed between one and one-half and two pounds. We also released seven small ones..., Salmon fishermen are advised to check with the party boat operators in Sausalito for the final wordon wind conditions.

Clam diggers are reminded that there will be minus tides 7:12 a.m. tomorrow and 8:12 a.m. Sunday so get out those shovels and hoes. Best bets will be Bolinas Bay and Tomales Bay.

TROUT SEASON OPENED last weekend at three Northern California lakes — Jenkinson, Almanor and Shasta.

At Jenkinson in El Dorado County, elevation about 3,000 feet, water was cold, keeping the catch low. Reports from Sly Park general store at the lake said anglers were averaging about one or two fish per boat on opening day Saturday.

Novatans Ralph Chatoian, Al Wann and Bob Scheiner along with Joe Davis of Terra Linda tried trolling and some drift fishing, coming out with three fish, all lake trout and all 17 inches long. There were still patches of snow in the area, unusual for this time of year.

TWO SPECIAL elk hunts and California's sixth consecutive antelope hunt have been recommended to the Fish and Game Commission by the DFG.

The recommendations include one for the first special hunt in history for the Shasta Herd of Rocky Mountain Elk in the vicinity of Shasta Lake in Shasta County.

The DFG also seeks approval of a special controlled hunt for 85 tule elk of the Owens Valley Herd and a northeastern California antelope hunt with 315 permits.

The commission has been asked to schedule hearings on the three hunts.

The Shasta Elk Hunt proposal is for 100 permits, 65 for antlered animals and 35 for antlerless. The herd consists of about 1,000 Rocky Mountain Elk which were transplanted to the area from Yellowstone National Park in 1916. The herd is scattered in steep, rugged country with mixed timber and brush, and DFG wildlife managers said hunter success will be low but "would be a real test of a hunter's skill." The hunt would be held Nov. 8-30.

The proposed tule elk hunt in the Owens Valley would be divided into three periods in October and conducted by zones. The August 1968 census of the transplanted elk herds in the Owens Valley showed 335 animals. The commission's policy is to maintain the herd at between 250 and 300 animals to keep the herd healthy and within the capacity of the range to feed it.

This year's antelope census showed 2,875 pronghorns, up 10 per cent from a year ago. This year's hunt would be for 315 surplus buck antelope. Hunts have been held in each of the past five years, with a total of 847 antelope taken by 1,255 hunters, for a 67 per cent success ratio. This year's hunt is proposed for Aug. 23-Sept. 1.

Permits for all three of the special hunts would be awarded on the basis of a statewide public drawing. Permits for the proposed elk hunts would cost $50 each and antelope permits would cost $15. each.

Forbes Kennedy Sweats It Out

BOSTON (AP) — Forbes Kennedy, a veteran forward for the Toronto Maple Leafs, is sweating out possible suspension for the remainder of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs for assaulting an official.

Clarence Campbell, NHL President, suspended Kennedy indefinitely last night before the Maple Leafs dropped a second straight decision to the Boston Bruins 7-0.

Campbell flew from league headquarters in Montreal and viewed films of Wednesday night's East Division semifinal opener, won by the Bruins, 10-0.

He ordered the indefinite suspension and said he would make a final ruling after his return to Montreal.

Kennedy, 33, became involved in a fight with Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers with less than four minutes remaining in the third period of the first game. Lineman George Ashley was knocked down by Kennedy as the Toronto forward tried to get at Cheevers.

Sacramento Bowler In ABC Standings

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Only one bowler was able to crack the standings of the 66th annual American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday as none of the amateurs was really hot.

Howard Braun of Sacramento rolled a 647 series, good enough for fourth place in the classic singles. He had games of 200, 234 and 213.

ANNUAL A.P. POLL

Cardinals, Giants Favored

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis and San Francisco in the National League and Detroit and Minnesota in the American have been chosen to win titles in major league baseball's new four-division setup in the annual Associated Press poll.

The Cardinal and Tigers were selected to repeat as pennant winners in the voting by 654 sports writers and broadcasters.

The order of finish in the balloting by the experts was:

NATIONAL LEAGUE: Eastern Division—St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York and Montreal. Western Division—San Francisco, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Los Angeles, Houston and San Diego.

AMERICAN LEAGUE: Eastern Division—Detroit, Boston, Baltimore, Cleveland, New York and Washington. Western Division—Minnesota, Oakland, Chicago, California, Kansas City and Seattle.

Only in the National League's Western Division were the experts relatively divided as to the winner. The Giants were named on 351 ballots while Cincinnati drew 191 votes, Atlanta 78, Los Angeles 31, Houston 2 and San Diego 1.

EXPANSION TEAMS

The Padres and Kansas City Royals were the only ones among the expansion teams to receive votes for first place. The Royals got four in the A.L.'s Western Division. The expansion Montreal Expos and Seattle Pilots plus the Mets and Senators were blanked.

In the N.L.'s Eatsern Division, the Cards were named the top team on 581 ballots while the Cubs were next with 59 and Pittsburgh and Philadelphia followed with 9 and 5, respectively.

The Tigers and Twins were solid choices to win in the American League. Detroit accumulated 403 first-place votes. Boston was next with 112 and Baltimore third with 105. Then came Cleveland, 30, and the New York Yankees, 4.

It was a bit closer in the Western half. Minnesota picked up 381 votes, Oakland 129 and the Chicago White Sox 103. California drew 37.

St. Louis and Detroit were runaway leaders in the voting for the pennant winners. The Cards were selected to capture the N.L. flag by 368 voters and the Tigers by 314.

The actual pennant winners and World Series participants will be decided in a best-of-5 playoff between the divisional champions in each league.

Santa Clara Lists 10-Game Grid Slate

SANTA CLARA (AP) — Santa Clara will play a 10-game football schedule this year for the first time since resuming the sport 10 years ago, the school announced yesterday.

Included on the schedule is a game with St. Mary's, resuming a long rivalry that began in 1909. The two teams last met in 1950.

Athletics' Pitching In Trouble

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—This is an open date on the Oakland A's spring schedule, and while the athletes rest manager Hank Bauer wonders where has all that good pitching gone.

Early in the exhibition season, when A's pitchers were getting battered around fairly regularly, Bauer dismissed it as one of those things.

LONG WAY

"It doesn't mean anything now," he said. "They're just trying to get their arms in shape. There is a long way to go."

Well, there now are only five days to go before the start of the regular season and A's pitchers are still taking their lumps.

Yesterday, it was Catfish Hunter's turn as the A's bowed to the San Diego Padres, 10-4.

ROUGHED UP

He's had trouble all spring, as have Blue Moon Odom, Jim Nash and Chuck Dobson. Dobson has come around of late and more than likely will get the starting call in Oakland Tuesday night when the A's open against the Chicago White Sox.

Irish Vs. Army

NEW YORK (AP) — The Notre Dame vs. Army football game this year will be played in Yankee Stadium Oct. 11, it was announced yesterday.

Warriors, Lakers To Resume Action

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Losers at home and winners on the road, the Los Angeles Lakers and San Francisco Warriors return to the Forum tonight with the Lakers aiming to reverse that trend in the fifth game of their playoff series.

"It doesn't make any difference at all where you play," declared Capt. Elgin Baylor of the Lakers. "The team that plays well will win no matter where the game is contested."

DOUBTFUL

Another major factor will be the physical condition of the Warriors' leading scorer, Jeff Mullins. He starred as San Francisco won the opening two games of the semifinal Western playoffs in Los Angeles. Then he was hurt in the third game.

Now the series stands 2-2.

The Warriors left Mullins home for an extra day of treatments but it would be extremely doubtful if he would be able to play up to the standards which saw him score 36 points in the opener and 20 in the second game.

DIFFERENCE

Laker Coach Bill van Breda Kolff said the lack of mobility on the part of Mullins plus the great guarding job rookie Bill Hewitt from Southern California did on Rudy LaRusso spelled the difference.

"We didn't have to worry about Mullins in the second two games," the Laker coach pointed out. It was in a collision with Hewitt, incidentally, that Mullins was hurt.

GIVEAWAY

Coach George Lee of the Warriors said, "We just gave them both games in the Bay Area. We didn't shoot well, nor were we aggressive on defense."

If Mullins can't go, ex-Laker Jimmy King takes over to team with Al Attles at the starting guard positions.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

Mannings May Be Acquired By Canadian Brewery Firm

National and international expansion of Manning's, Inc. food services is expected to result from an agreement for its acquisition by John Labatt, Ltd., Canadian brewery company.

Labatt will acquire virtually all of the business of Manning's, a privately held corporation which has been in business since 1908. The latter provides food service management for clients in several western states and owns and operates a chain of 25 cafeterias. One of these was the Hansa House at Northgate Shopping Center, recently closed. The company anticipates opening another restaurant in Marin.

Labatt has interests in both the food and beverage industries and controls General Brewing Corp. in San Francisco.

AETNA LIFE AND CASUALTY of Hartford, Conn., and Kaiser Industries Corp. and Kaiser Aluminum Chemical Corp. of Oakland have formed a partnership to engage in large-scale real estate development, including commercial, residential, resort, recreational and agricultural projects. Aetna will contribute a recently acquired 630-acre tract in San Fernando Valley and Kaiser Industries will contribute its 6,000-acre urban residential and resort property in Honolulu as well as its interest in an 87,500-acre project in Southern California.

The company is represented in the food industry by its Kraft, Sealtest, Breakstone Sugar Creek and Humko divisions. SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Grandfather's Experience Serves As Object Lesson

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My 13-year-old grandson entrusted to me his earnings of $500 — from his paper route — to buy a growth stock. I intended to put this money into American Telephone but a professional adviser persuaded me to buy TRW at 49. Should I hold this for a comeback or take the current loss? — K. N.

A. Under the circumstances, I advise you to hold TRW for a comeback and use this incident to teach your grandson a valuable lesson about investing — to set an objective and then stick with it.

You are holding shares in a huge company that is well managed and well diversified. In my opinion it has pursued a successful policy of carefully selecting its acquisitions. The earnings uptrend, established in 1962, has not since been interrupted, and corresponding gains appear in the dividend record. You and your grandson can watch for news releases by TRW, follow its price action and mark its contributions to our national space and defense programs. You may possibly find it worth holding until he is ready for college.

Q. We are a couple, 60, planning to retire in five years. We own our home but will have little income beyond Social Security benefits. We have accumulated about 600 shares of Hamilton Funds. Should we sell or keep these shares? — D.H.

A. Since you're not experienced investors, I question the wisdom at your age of moving from a sound, conservatively managed mutual fund into the buying and selling of stocks on your own initiative. Hamilton Funds stress growth and income from a diversified portfolio of common stocks (91 per (cent), preferred stocks (6 per cent) and corporate bonds (3 per cent). Your savings in this fund have been earning about 7 per cent, if capital gains are added to dividend payments.

"Hamilton Funds offers a monthly withdrawal plan on a $10,000 minimum investment. In order to qualify, you would have to add to your holdings during the next five years.

Sugar Firm Reports First-Quarter Loss

HONOLULU (BW) — C. Brewer and Co., Ltd., has reported a net loss from operations of $1,184,000, equal to 52 cents per share, for the first quarter, ended Jan. 31. This compares to a loss of $455,000, or 20 cents per share for the same period in 1968.

Operating losses incurred during this period are generally associated with the sugar companies, which close down their mills for off-season repairs.

Auto Production Off Slightly For March

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto production by the Big Three automakers in the last month lagged slightly behind year-before figures.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler said they turned out 737,203 cars during March, 37,955 fewer than the production in March of 1968. But truck production of 144,174 units was 5,822 greater than year-before figures.

Platinum Makes Your Auto Safer

NEW YORK (UPI) — You might think platinum has little to do with you unless the wife suddenly decides she wants a fancy ring or watch.

But suppose you have a car. And suppose you want to ride on the new fiber glass reinforced tire because of its safety, wear and heat-resistant features which have prompted two auto makers to say they'll make it standard equipment in 1970.

Then a shortage of platinum, foreseen by the mid-1970's, becomes a fact of motoring life with you.

Without platinum there would be no glass yarn used to reinforce the tire rubber. And this same glass yarn is being used in hoses, conveyor belts and many defense items, including the Navy's Phantom jet fighter.

Platinum is the only material that can be used as bushings in the manufacture of fiber glass yarn. Each bushing contains hundreds of holes through which the glass fibers are drawn. Platinum, and only platinum, can keep its hole diameter constant under temperatures exceeding 2,000 degrees Faherenheit and effectively withstand the corrosive effects of molten glass.

Right now industrial demand for fiber glass is almost at the breaking point. Industry is trying to satisfy it with new processes and plants. Recently, for instance, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Industries (PPG) instituted a new fiber glass coating process at its Shelby, N.C. plant. It shortly will be putting out two million pounds per month.

It's estimated that the tire industry alone in 1971 will need 70 million pounds. Everything hinges on a continuing supply of platinum, 70 per cent of which is produced in the Soviet Union. Some comes from South Africa and Canada.

"Even at prices ranging from $114 to $240 per troy ounce platinum is nearly impossible to obtain," said Robert A. McLaughlin, vice president and general manager of PPG's fiber glass division.

PPG and other producers see a way out. The government has a platinum stockpile which is in a slight surplus condition. It was suggested to congressional stockpiling committees last year that the government could lease platinum to industry, making money off its platinum rather than using up space. In fiber glass production, only .5 per cent of the platinum used in bushings is lost per year in the manufacturing process. So it wouldn't be a question, say industry spokesmen, of their using up a material which the government might need in time of national emergency.

"The government would have the opportunity, if necessary, to recall the leased platinum," said McLaughlin.

No final action was taken on the platinum quota bill in the last Congress because legislators couldn't agree on whether the government should charge more than the usual domestic price for surplus platinum released from the stockpile to help meet the balance of payments deficit.

If such a plan can't be worked out, said McLaughlin, a barter agreement to get more platinum from behind the Iron Curtain might be feasible. Japan made such an agreement and now is selling it to home industries at about $140 per ounce.

Unions Can Fine

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Taxpayer Has Become Winner In Ruling On Witness Pay

Wikel

The taxpayer has been the big winner in a case involving payment of witness fees and mileage allowances. The IRS has announced in technical information release 995 that it will follow the U. S. Court of Appeals at New Orleans in the case of Roberts, et al, in which the IRS had to pay witness fees and mileage allowances to four persons whom it had ordered to appear in connection with tax examinations.

Two of these people were witnesses and two were taxpayers whose returns were being examined.

Can you collect a witness fee and mileage allowance if you are required to go to San Francisco to see the IRS? Apparently you can if you are handed a formal summons.

Technical Information Release 995 issued Oct. 15, 1968 says:

"The IRS today announced that it will follow the decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit dated July 2, 1968, in the case of Lloyd Roberts, et al., 68-2 USTC 9450 and 22 AFTR 2d 5065.

"Accordingly, the IRS will upon request under Title 5 United States Code Section 503(b) pay witness fees and mileage fees to witnesses who are required to appear before Service officers under Section 7602 of the 1954 IRS Code by the issuance of a formal summons. The fees payable are prescribed by Title 28, United States Code Section 1821."
